RACES CLASH.

BELLINGHAM HINDUS DRIVEN FROM HOMES.

Attacked in Night By Mobs of Union Laborers and Badly Beaten.

Scores of Black Employees of Lumber Mills Forced to Quit Work—Two Hundred Rounded Up in Police Station—Mayor Appoints Fifty Special Patrolmen and Threatens to Call for State and National Troops.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BELLINGHAM (Wash.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hundreds of Hindus were routed from their beds at midnight last night, cruelly beaten and driven from the city in scanty attire. Many more were forced to quit work at the big lumber mills. The rioters, composed largely of union laborites, overran the city and the police were powerless to suppress them. Panic and terror prevail among the helpless subjects of Great Brihain in Bellingham.

To protect the Hindus from further outrage, Mayor A. L. Black today, at a special meeting of the City Council, directed Chief of Police Thomas to swear in fifty special policemen at once.

The Mayor, in addressing the English-speaking Hindus in the Council chamber, told them that they and their fellow-countrymen in this city should have protection even if it became necessary to call upon the State and national militia.

According to Chief Thomas, the trouble has just begun, but he thinks the appointment of additional police may quell the rioters.

International complications are feared. The Hindus have good legal grounds for heavy damages, and it is thought they will appeal to the British government. In spite of offers of protection they are terrified and their leaders say all will leave the city.

ATTACKED IN NIGHT.

The first attack on the Hindus last night was made on C street, where scores of them room. Ill will against the orientals has been smoldering among labor-union men of Bellingham for a long time and a raid upon them has been planned for several days. Half a dozen assaults against the foreigners have been made in the last week.

Many of the Asiatics last night were set upon in their beds and were driven out of the city in scanty attire.

Following their mobbing on C street, their countrymen in all other parts of the city were rounded up and marched to the City Hall until 300 were housed in the basement. The only colony of Hindus that escaped the mob is that employed at Lake Whatcom.

It is said the immediate cause of the riot was the alleged discharge of white men and the employment of Hindus in their places at a local mill. The rioters did not confine their anger to one company, however, for about midnight and shortly thereafter they marched to Morrison Brothers' mill and the plant of the Bellingham Bay Lumber Company. All the Hindu employés of these mills were forced to quit work and go to the police station.

An attack was also made at the Whatcom Falls Mill Company. The Bellingham Bay Lumber Company was forced to close its plant for lack of men when its Hindus were driven out.

WOULD HAVE SHOT.

Manager Waldo was out of the city at the time. He said today that if he had been at the mill he would have done some shooting and he asserted that he would not have fired in the air.

A raid was made on the homes of the Hindus employed by the E. K. Wood Lumber Company and they also were taken to the station. This morning Manager F. J. Wood took them to their homes in his automobile.

CRUELLY BEATEN.

In the riot only several Hindus were badly hurt, and many were cruelly beaten. One was injured so badly at the Bellingham Bay Lumber Company's mill that he was taken to a hospital.

Chief of Police Thomas, Capt. Truax and patrolmen who tried to quiet the mob made no attempt to arrest any of them. The Chief explained to the Council that he thought it would have been unwise to do so, as bloodshed of serious consequences might have resulted. The police are severely criticised for alleged sympathy with the rioters.

On the Great Northern Railway today, sixty Hindus left for Vancouver, with all their possessions and eighteen departed for Oakland. Many of these would have gone earlier had they been able to do so. Practically all the other Hindus will depart tomorrow.

Mill men, who say they employ Hindus because of the shortage of white labor, have made efforts to persuade their Asian employés to remain with them, but neither offers of steady employment, with good wages, nor the promise of protection by the city, State and national governments can stay the flight of the easterners. They are panic-stricken.

Further trouble is expected before tonight is over. Several arrests of rioters have been made. The town is patrolled to prevent a repetition of last night's assault.

JAPS MAY BECOME INVOLVED.

If another riot breaks out, the Japanese may become involved. Members of the mob yelled last night that the Mikado's men would come next.

Special policemen are guarding the mills tonight. At the Larson Lumber Company's plant which are outside the city limits, protection is afforded by twenty deputies.

Recognizing that international complications may follow, the assault upon Hindus, Mayor Black was very careful to assure representatives of the brown-skinned British subjects at the special meeting of the City Council that they will be afforded ample protection and will be permitted to go where they please and do as they please so long as they observe the laws of the United States. He has already communicated with Gov. Mead on the gravity of the situation and will appeal to him for militia if further rioting occurs.

The Hindus have been instructed by the Mayor to inform, their countrymen that they must respect the customs of America with regard to personal cleanliness and decency. Much complaint has been made against them because of indicent exposure and general squalor.

Councilman Cloak spoke for an investigation by the Council of the events and conditions leading up to the strike and at his suggestion the question was referred to the Council as a committee of the whole, with instructions to file a report Monday.

The feeling against the Hindus, among the laboring classes is intense. The general public, while mildly deprecating the mob spirit, approves the course taken. As the fleeing Hindus' trains pulled out today, 300 people gave them a noisy farewell.

Gov. Albert E. Mead,

MOB SPIRIT IS STILL RAMPANT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]

BELLINGHAM (Wash.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Following a special session of the City Council this morning, Mayor Black took charge of the situation. Fifty armed specials were sworn in, and the Mayor promises as many more if necessary to give the blacks full protection. Jobs have been offered the Hindus again by millmen, and protection guaranteed, but the Hindus have been so thoroughly frightened that they are drawing their pay under police protection, and are disposed to leave for Vancouver during the day.

Mob spirit is still rampant, and it is said further attacks will be made tonight if any of the foreigners remain.

The city and county authorities, however, say they will be able to cope with any emergency.

Larson's mill, at Lake Whatcom, five miles distant, one of the largest in the country, will close down, owing to trouble.

The trouble last night started at C and Holly streets, a district with Indian lodging-houses. The houses were cleaned out, and the denizens started on their tramp for the Canadian line. The mob then swept down to the water front, and mill after mill was visited, the white employés joining the mob and every black man was hustled outside.

Here the police suggested that the undesirables be taken to the jail. This was hailed wtih delight, and the blacks were hustled along. From this time on very few were beaten, and the bloodthirsty ones of the mob seemingly were satisfied during the attack on the lodging-houses.

The mob kept up its work along the water front until early this morning, when Larson's mill was visited, and a hundred blacks brought in there.

Four women were found this morning among the city buildings.

Racial feeling has played but a small part in the affair. Every day whites are being replaced in the mills by blacks. The invaders have become bold and insolent, many instances of women being pushed into the gutter, insulted on street cars, etc., being reported.

The Hindus are all British subjects, and their case is being placed before the British authorities.

KERMIT TIRED OF PETTING.

President's Son "Deserted" Army Because Women Pampered Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Kermit Roosevelt, son of the President of the United States, reveled eight days in the "roughing it" of United States army camp life on a march, and then he was routed by the repeated onslaughts of the "Ladies' Sewing Circle" and kindred organizations and forced to "desert" at Joslin, Ill.

The petting and pampering by women at every stopping place became intolerable a few days ago, but the news of it became public only today.

Young Roosevelt, for novelty of the experience, joined the First Squadron of the Thirteenth United States Cavalry on its "hike" from Fort Leavenworth, Kan., to Fort Sheridan, Ill. The story told of his route leaked out. The officers tell another and more dignified story. They say that the President's son left the march at Joslin to keep a hunting trip engagement with friends in the Dakotas. There is no difference of opinion on one thing, however. Kermit Roosevelt disappeared with complete success and his whereabouts were not known to any one. The officers said they believed he was in Chicago. The men said they believed he had taken to the tall weeds.

FORTUNE'S FROWN.

GRAIN BROKERS ARE BANKRUPT.

WALL STREET WHEAT BEARS GO TO THE WALL.

Watson & Company, Well-Known Old-line Speculative Dealers in Cereals, Apply for Receiver as Result of Slump in Stocks—Near Verge Once Before.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Watson & Co., one of the most prominent firms in Wall street and in the grain trade, with offices in New York and Minneapolis, failed today, with liabilities approximated at $2,000,000.

To the slump in stocks is attributed the application made for a receiver, although the break in wheat in July also weakened the firm's condition.

J. J. Hill's tip to buy Great Northern and Northern Pacific caused losses to the firm of $3,000,000 last fall, and subsequently in March, according to information from the financial district.

It was only by the timely intervention of Hill that the firm was saved from bankruptcy six months ago, the president of the Great Northern taking over their securities last March, when the "rich men's panic" startled the world.

The Watsons were decidedly bearish on wheat last winter and their short line reached tremendous proportions. Information turned the firm to the bull side of the market before the big advance came in May and June, but it overstayed the market in July, suffering severe losses.

The Watsons employed great experts, which they sent to every part of the globe where wheat is raised. Australia, Russia, India, South America and the United States were in turn covered by H. V. Jones of Minneapolis. Their expenses were on a tremendous scale.

The firm is composed of Lewis T. Watson, Henry P. Watson, H. V. Jones and C. E. Anderson. It has branch offices in Duluth, Hot Springs, Va.; Minneapolis and Winnipeg.

There was a sharp decline of about 2 cents in the price of grain in the market following the failure.

TEDDY BEAR INVASION.

Millions of Popular Toys, Stuffed by Cheap Belgian Labor, Brought to America.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Laden with 7,000,000 or thereabouts of Teddy bears the steamer Macedonia has arrived from Antwerp.

The bears have been stuffed by cheap Belgian labor, which is willing to fill its stomach by stuffing Teddy bears for wages of a franc (about 20 cents) a day.

Probably there is no duty on Teddy bears except as toys. This lamentable fact will be brought immediately to President Roosevelt's attention by the fifty-eight boy Teddy bear stuffers, who are on strike against the Bruin Manufacturing Company of this city.

DREAD DISEASE.

PLAGUE BEYOND SAN FRANCISCO'S CONTROL.

Taylor Appeals to Roosevelt to Have Federal Government Take Charge of Fight Against Disease—Wyman Ordered to Assume Command.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Bubonic plague in San Francisco has admittedly gotten beyond the control of the city authorities, and today the Mayor of the city appealed to President Roosevelt to have the Federal government assumeall charge of measures to cope with the disease.

In consequence President Roosevelt communicated with Surg.-Gen. Walter Wyman in charge of the public health and marine hospital service, and tonight the Federal authorities are in full control of santary affairs in the afflicted city.

It is the belief of Dr. Wyman that the disease can be eradicated and its spread prevented. He has been giving it very close attention, and had already been coöperating with the local authorities.

The present action of San Francisco is in marked contrast with that taken several years ago, when the plague visited the city. Then the officials of the city, backed by the business interests, were charged with concealing the fact that the plague existed there at all, and in consequence there was much worse condition than otherwise would have prevailed.

PROMPT ACTION TAKEN.

President Roosevelt's telegram to Surg.-Gen. Wyman says:

"Following telegram received from Mayor of San Francisco:

"'In view of existing sanitary conditions it is desired that the Federal government assume immediate charge of the measures necessary to eradicate and prevent the spread of bubonic plague in San Francisco. The city will do its utmost to furnish funds to pay for materials and labor. It is requested that the public health and marine hospital service furnish sufficient numbers of medical officers.'

"Please take action requested at once if within our powers and communicate with Mayor by wire as soon as possible."

To this Dr. Wyman sent this reply:

"Telegram quoting request of the Mayor of San Francisco that the public health and marine hospital service take immediate charge of measures relating to the plague situation, is received. In accordance with your directions immediate action will be taken and the Mayor notified.

"Service officers, some especially detailed for the purpose, have been cooperating with the local authorities, and measures necessary to prevent the spread of the disease to other ports by shipping are well established. It is entirely within our power to assume charge of measures necessary to eradicate the disease, with local authorities' coöperation, as indicated in the Mayor's telegram."

MONOPOLY.

TYPEWRITER TRUST NEXT.

RYANS AND GUGGENHEIMS BACK OF SCHEME.

Many Other Millionaires Believed to Be Interested in Proposition to Get Monopoly of Business—Nucleus of Syndicate Already Formed in New York.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rumors have been heard for some time that a group of American capitalists, with Thomas F. Ryan at their head, were forming a large company to acquire all the largest typewriter interests in the country and to control the business all over the world.

It is said that among the heaviest stockholders were Mr. Ryan and his son, Allan A. Ryan, the Guggenheims, Charles M. Schwab, Harry Payne Whitney, John B. McDonald and others, whose combined holdings are sufficient to effect an absolute monopoly of the typewriter business.

While it could not be established officially today that the plans of the capitalists contemplate the immediate acquisition of the largest concerns, such as the Remington and Smith Premier, it was learned that very recently they formed a large company, of which Allan A. Ryan—Thomas F. Ryan's son—is president, and in which the elder Ryan and the Guggenheims are large stockholders.

It was learned also that the Royal Typewriter Company is the nucleus of the big enterprise, and that a plant, said to be the largest of the kind in the world, is now being erected in Hartford, Conn.

Several of the chief men of the Underwood Typewriter Company have been employed by the Ryan concern, and two of them have been made directors of the new company.

Those directly interested in the financial end of the enterprise were reticent about the plans of the company, particularly when the inquiry led toward the purchase of other typewriter interests.

THREATS AGAINST HUGHES.

Printed Circulars Announced His Doom by Anarchists, but Detectives Kept Good Guard.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.), Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This was an anxious day for the Buffalo police. There were rumors afloat that anarchists planned to kill Gov. Hughes as Mr. McKinley had been killed, only a bomb was to be used.

Circulars containing threats of this nature had been received by several aldermen lately with the intention that the dedication of a monument to Mr. McKinley would mark the slaughter of all who took part in the ceremonies, particularly the Governor. These circulars were printed. They were handed to the authorities yesterday by the recipients. All of the city officials were therefore keenly alert.

The circulars were entitled, "McKinley's Assassination from an Anarchist Viewpoint."

Four Pinkerton detectives guarded the Governor closely all day and city detectives practically surrounded his carriage along the line of march. No one at all suspicious would be allowed to approach it. No attempt was made and the police breathed easier when the exercises were over.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

Thornless Cactus for Desert Forage.

Luther Burbank, Plant Creator, Tells Irrigation Congress of Dream.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 5.—Luther Burbank, the "wizard of California," was a prominent figure in the progress of the National Irrigation Congress today.

Other features in connection with the convention were the nomination of officers by the Committee on Permanent Organization and the adoption of important resolutions by the Committee on Resolutions.

Hon. Frank Goudy of Denver was nominated for president. When called upon by Gov. Chamberlain for an address, Mr. Burbank chose as his subject the cactus, and made the prediction that the thornless variety would become the great fodder of arid regions.

Incidentally, the celebrated creator of plants said there was no secret connected with his business, and that he stands ready to assist by giving information to any one seeking it.

At the beginning, Mr. Burbank stated he has over 5000 species of plants in training for improvement, but that he would only speak of the cactus.

After telling of the loss of sheep in the semi-arid regions through the destruction of their eyesight by the thorns of cactus, he went on to detail his work of seeking to develop a thornless variety of the plant.

"Fifteen years ago," said Burbank, "I was examining and studying forage plants for dry regions, to see what improvement could be made upon them, and it struck me that the cactus, if the thorns could be taken off, would be one of the best, if not the best, of all the plants for desert culture.

BURBANK'S EXPERIMENTS.

"I gathered all the cacti of all kinds, secured them from the best that I could find from my collectors in South Africa, and also gathered them from North Africa, where the cactus has been somewhat cultivated for the use of camels. This is a partially thornless variety. There are two or three others. I found, by raising them from seed, that ninety-nine out of a hundred would, however, be thorny. A few were partially thorny, they had not yet acquired the habit of leaving off the thorns, but once in a while one would be found among the thousands that would have less thorns than even the parent. Taking that one and raising thousands and thousands of seedlings, I produced some that were absolutely thornless.

"Now, I wished to get a cactus that would produce a great amount of nourishment. Of course my first object was to get a thornless, then next to get an individual which would produce a great weight of forage to the acre. That has been very well accomplished.

"I now have a cactus that will produce 200 tons of food per acre. Beets, carrots, turnips, cabbage, and almost anything cultivated in the soil, produces about twenty tons per acre for a good crop, while some of the older cactus will produce about 100 tons. My object is to combine this great production with great nutrition. Then, my opinion is, the cactus will be the most important plant on earth for arid regions, and I have not the least doubt of securing that."

CACTUS RELISHED.

Mr. Burbank then described how cows and other animals relished cactus, and, when accustomed to it, prefer it to any other class of forage plant.

"If people only knew what cactus is," said Burbank, "and knew what the varieties were, I am perfectly sure they would say it is the greatest thing that has ever been produced for the soil. It has always been the reclaimer of the desert."

The address of Mr. Burbank made a deep impression on the audience, and he was warmly applauded.

At the meeting of the Committee on Permanent Organization, Hon. Frank C. Goudy was the only one nominated for president. George E. Barstow of Arizona was named for first vice-president, Judge J. E. Raker of Modoc county, Cal., second vice-president, and Herbert E. Strain of Montana, third vice-president.

An effort was made to nominate Congressman John Henry Smith of Utah for a second term as first vice-president, but the plan was defeated.

B. F. Fowler of Phoenix was named for secretary. Resolutions providing that officers be not eligible for re-election, and granting the secretary more power, were defeated.

It was the understanding of the delegates who sought the nomination of Goudy that Gov. Chamberlain, who has so ably presided over the congress, does not desire to serve again.

The election of officers is scheduled for Saturday morning. Congressman Smith of California sought the adop-

MAY FLY WITH HIS AFFINITY.

Artist Earle Plans Bigamy If It Is Necessary.

Will Leave America If Wife Is Not Divorced.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Frederick Pinney Earle, the artist, who sent his wife to Paris to get a divorce that he migh marry his affinity, Miss Julia Kuttner, of No. 217 West Seventy-eighth street, intimated tonight that he would go to China or Japan with the young woman of his choice in the event of Mrs. Earle failing to get a divorce in France or some other impediment to his remarriage arising here.

Mr. Earle came to the city early this morning and had a consultation with his counsel, Frederick Wack, after which he went to the offices of his brother, Victor M. Earle, where he spent the day preparing statements for the press, receiving reporters and writing letters to Miss Kuttner, who is no longer in New York State, having gone into retirement because of the notoriety attending the case. Where she is, Mr. Earle would not say, but he intimated that any one locating her mother, who is in Bethlehem, N. H., would not have far to go to find the daughter.

KEEPS AWAY FROM TROUBLE.

He also said he would not go back to Monroe, where he was mobbed on Wednesday night, for at least a week, saying it would be best for all concerned for him to stay in New York City for a while and more convenient for the reporters. Mr. Earle therefore spent this evening at the Manhansett, where his mother has apartments.

"It is not true," said Earle, late this afternoon, "that I have settled $100,000, or half that sum, upon my wife. The fact is, I haven't that amount. I have, however, made a trust by which she is to receive the income of a large sum of money, and on her death the same is to go to our boy. If he dies before she does, the entire sum reverts to her absolutely. I do not think it is at all peculiar that she should have consented to what some people call a peculiar arrangement. The fact is, she knew there was bound to be a separation, anyway, and like a sensible woman she preferred to take a comfortable income and go away quietly rather than go away empty-handed and besides be among strangers without means. Not that I would see her want, but you know she was sensible. I think you will give me credit for selecting sensible wives, anyway."

GET MARRIED, ANYWAY.

"Mr. Earle, has it occurred to you that Mrs. Earle, having become an American citizen through marriage, may have no standing in the French courts and hence may be unable to get a divorce? What will you do in that case?" he was asked.

"American people can marry and live in Japan or China. The artistic temperament is better understood in these countries, I think."

"Then you will go there with Miss Kuttner?"

"American people go there, marry and live, I am sure. They are beautiful countries," he replied. "Much that has been printed about this case is wrong. The whole trouble is that I made a blunder in telling some people in Monroe whom I thought I could trust. The next thing I knew, reporters were telling it to me. What I should have done is to have said nothing to nobody, arranged the thing quietly and escaped all this noise. But this thing cannot but have an educational value to the public after all. It brings to home to people a very vital topic and makes them think. That is good, anything is good that makes people think."

REIGN OF TERROR.

UNIONITES RIOT IN SAN FRANCISCO'S STREETS.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After burying their dead brother, who was shot in the Ferry riot on Labor Day, a band of union men, 1500 strong, consisting of members of the Structural Iron Workers, the Carmen's, Shipfitters', and Boilermakers' unions, backed by thousands of sympathizers, participated in a series af assaults upon street cars crowded with passengers, most of whom were women, at noon today in the Mission district.

John J. Tansey.

As a result, many persons were injured, women became hysterical, five union men were arrested on serious charges and three carmen were taken into custody for carrying or displaying weapons.

Two members of the Structural Iron Workers' Union, Frank Sullivan and Frank Eagan, were charged with the cowardly offense of having brutally beaten Joe Beamis, an office-boy in the employ of the United Railroads.

GENERAL RIOTING.

The rioting extended from Fourteenth and Mission streets in front of the Labor Temple, along Guerrere street to the transfer point at Sixteenth street. There were also riots of less violence on Valencia and Mission streets. Over a dozen cars were completely demolished by missiles hurled by union men. Another reign of terror is on in this unfortunate city.

The rioters showed no discrimination, even for women and children. Leaping upon the cars and assaulting the crews, they turned their attention to innocent passengers.

Little children and women clinging tearfully to wailing babies were dragged from the cars and trampled upon by the infuriated ruffians, while showers of bricks and shivering glass rained down. Many women fainted and had to be carried to places of safety.

CARMEN HEROES.

The cool attitude of the carmen was a striking feature. As a whole they looked to the safety of their passengers first, even when death and injury stared them in the face. The fact that the crews stayed by the cars and ran them through the crazed mobs probably saved many innocent passengers from severe injury.

One instance of the brutality of the rioters was shown in the case of Mrs. Boitha M. Rice, manager of the Boys' Outing Farm, Santa Clara county. Her left arm was almost torn from its socket by the mob which thronged the car in which she was riding.

That the dreadful events of Labor Day were not repeated by the union men was probably due to the prompt and efficient work of the police. The patrolmen today used their clubs vigorously on the rioters and by a firm stand drove them back and subdued them.

"Wait until next election," was the cry raised by the rioters when the police drew and used their clubs, as soon as the rioting broke out, calls were sent in to the various outside police stations for the reserves. Acting Chief Anderson rode from the Central Police Station with a posse, Sergeant Hook and a posse came from the Mission Station, and wagon loads of officers galloped from the Southern Park and Harbor Stations.

CHIEF ALMOST INJURED.

The prompt arrival upon the scene of Chief Anderson had a cooling effect upon the mob. The Chief narowly escaped injury from a missile which flew within an inch of his head.

When the reserves rushed the mob at Sixteenth and Guerrero streets, the rioters sought refuge in a saloon on the corner. The police entered the place and drove the rioters out. After they had been dispersed, Chief of Police Anderson stationed two patrolmen on each block in the vicinity with orders to remain there throughout the night.

The ringleaders of the rioters arrested were taken to the Mission Police Station, and later to the city prison. Stones and other missiles were found in their pockets by the police.

"What caused the riot?" was asked of one of the union men.

"Well, I guess it was the killing of Peterson," he said revengefully.

Chief Anderson said:

"My idea is that the trouble was started by a few of the younger men who had been drinking. They returned from the funeral in a revengeful mood and were looking for trouble. Patrolman Skelly told me that the whole trouble began at Sixteenth and Guerrero streets, when a crowd of young fellows came out of a saloon and began to throw stones at a car. I do not anticipate any more trouble, but I feel confident we will be fully able to handle it if it comes."

WOMAN RELATES EXPERIENCE.

The thrilling experience of Mrs. Bertha M. Rice, manager of the Boys' Outing Farm, for which the "Chronicle" is collecting subscriptions, is illustrative of that of many women passengers.

"I was waiting at the corner of Sixteenth and Valencia streets," said Mrs. Rice, "for a Fillmore-street car. A little girl warned me not to ride on the car as there was trouble brewing. "When the next car came, I boarded it with several other women. We had not gone very far before an angry crowd of men surrounded the car and began throwing bricks and uttering curses. I think the conductor was the bravest man I ever saw. He did not display any fear, but told us to remain cool. He ordered us all to lie down on the floor, which we did. There were many women in the car and some were hysterical. One, who held a baby in her arms, said: "My husband is a union man, but I have to ride on the cars every day to take my little child to the doctor's and I can't afford to pay bus fares.'"

The assault on Joe Beamish, an office boy for the United Railroads, at Turk and Fillmore streets, this morning, was brutal in the extreme. The boy had been sent from the carbarn to a cigar store across the street to purchase some tobacco for the carmen.

Nearby were a number of structural iron workers who had dropped out of the funeral procession.

"He's buying tobacco for those scabs," said one of the men, as he struck the lad in the face, felling him. Blow after blow was rained upon the boy.

But for the arrival of Patrolman O'Connell of the Bush Street Station, the lad might have been killed. O'Connell placed Frank Sullivan and Frank Eagan under arrest and took them to the Bush Street Station where they were booked for assault.

The boy was treated at the St. Francis Hospital.

HIGH PRAISE FOR STANFORD.

VICE-PRESIDENT SAYS NO UNIVERSITY IS BETTER KNOWN.

Declares Students of This Age Know More Than the Old Greek Philosophers and Refutes Assertion That Opportunities for Young Men Are Not so Good as of Old.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Vice-President Fairbanks's visit to the University yesterday was a great success, and he made a good impression on the students. He was accompanied by members of his own party—Gov. Gillett and United States Senator Flint. They were met by President Jordan, who accompanied them on a brief trip around the campus, after which they adjourned to the University assembly hall.

Gov. Gillett made a humorous speech, and was followed by Senator Frank P. Flint, who spoke of the interest which the university aroused in the East, and also referred to the erroneous idea which easterners held about the damage done by the earthquake.

Dr. Jordan, in introducing Vice-President Fairbanks, alluded to him as a life-long friend, with whom he had been associated in Indiana.

"It gives me great pleasure to visit this university," said Mr. Fairbanks. "There is no university in the entire country which is better known as an educational center."

The Vice-President told of the opportunities of the young man of today, and said that the students of this age know more than the old Greek philosophers. He opposed the pessimists who claimed the chances for young men were not as good as in the days of our forefathers.

"We are a fortunate people," he continued, "and I see the same promising young men wherever I go. There never was an hour that the future opened more splendid opportunities. There is an illimitable field for youth.

"I like the democracy of this university, not speaking in a partisan sense, and," he added, "I like Democrats; but I don't like too many of them. I do like the difference of honest minds.

"I believe in the immortality of the Government of the United States," Mr. Fairbanks said in closing, "and, in the last recorded syllable of time, our government will remain fast and stable, the master government of the universe."

FLEISCHMANNS IN A BALLOON.

THREE PEOPLE SAIL HUNDRED TWENTY-SEVEN MILES.

Departure Is Made from North Adams, Mass., in the "Stevens 21" Carrying Party on Delightful Aerial Voyage to Merida, N. H., Without an Accident.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NORTH ADAMS (Mass.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mr. and Mrs. Max Fleischmann of Cincinnati sailed from the Balloon Park in this city this afternoon, with Leo Stevens as pilot, in his balloon, the "Stevens 21."

The ascent was a perfect one, the balloon, with a capacity of 35,000 cubic feet, carrying with ease three passengers, with 250 pounds of sand ballast, besides all the necessary paraphernalia.

The balloon was inflated in less than an hour, and as Mr. Stevens gave the order to let it go, it arose gently and slowly, moving toward the northeast.

Mrs. Fleischmann, who had been an interested and calm spectator of all the preparations for departure, turned in her position as the balloon left the ground and waved to the three thousand cheering spectators.

The balloon moved slowly up the valley toward Stamford, Vt., and as it did not need to attain any considerable height to clear the hills, the areonauts remained in sight for a long time.

It was the fourth ascent in eight days from North Adams, and each one has been highly successful. Mrs. Fleischmann reported by telephone to North Adams at 7:30 o'clock that they had landed at Merida, N. H., after a delightful trip, having followed the course of the Connecticut River from Greenfield, Mass., to Windsor, Vt., where they drifted northeast, and landed.

Mrs. Fleischmann was in ecstasies over the trip, and pronounced it the most delightful experience of her life.

The distance traveled was 127 miles, requiring four and one-half hours.

A resolution was adopted by the association asking that legislation by the United States Congress be taken in that direction.

ITS EFFICACY TO BE TESTED.

Cartwright Act Is Made Basis of Big Suit.

Lease of Valuable Oil Lands Is Involved.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The first real test of the efficacy of the Cartwright law in preventing the illegal restraint of trade and the arbitrary fixing of prices, will be made in a suit which has just been brought by I. Strassburger and T. J. Woolwine, owners and lessors of valuable oil lands in Kern county, against the Santa Fé Railway and the Chanslor-Canfield Midway Oil Company to cancel certain leases on property and for $100,000 damages. The plaintiffs assert that the Santa Fé Company paid the Chanslor-Canfield Company $2,000,000 for their leases upon these lands for the purpose of retarding their development, keeping them out of the market, maintaining the present price of oil and reserving the great reservoirs for their own consumption.

It is contended such an agreement is in violation of the recently-enacted Cartwright law.

MUCH LAND INVOLVED.

Strassburger is a well-known lawyer and broker of this city. T. J. Woolwine was consulting chemist of the Dupont-Nemours Powder Company. They acquired 40,000 acres of land in the Midway district, which is considered one of the most valuable oil fields in this country.

It is for the plaintiffs leased these lands for thirty years to the Chanslor-Canfield Company. By the terms of the lease the owners of the lands were to receive one-tenth of the production. It is alleged that after the lease had been made the Chanslor-Canfield Company took no steps to develop the property, but entered into negotiations with the Santa Fé Company to sell the lease.

FOR FUTURE USE.

It is further alleged that the Santa Fé Company had to buy the lease, provided they could obtain an agreement by which they could not be compelled to produce any oil for ten years, their object being to maintain the present price of oil and save the "fields for their future use, when oil should become a scarce commodity."

The most serious charge is that the officials of the Chanslor-Canfield Company secured a new agreement under the pretenses from the owners of the property, by which they did not have to produce any oil for ten years. The terms of this agreement compared to the deal with the Santa Fé. It is contended that they have defrauded of their income from the Kern county oil fields for a period of ten years, and ask legal remedies under the new Cartright law.

OIL FOLLOWS OIL.

SPRECKELS IS CAUGHT ON LAW'S RACK.

SAN FRANCISCO MAGNATE ORDERED INTO COURT.

Must Submit to Cross-examination on Charge That Spreckels' Company Was in Illegal Combination with American Sugar Refining Company.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Claus Spreckels must submit to being cross-examined next week by Attorney Hutchinson, special counsel for the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, as to whether he has been in an illegal combination with the American Sugar Refining Company, otherwise known as the sugar trust, to restrain trade in sugar. The taking of depositions to gather evidence for the $30,000,000 damage suits brought against the trust for ruining the business of the Pennsylvania company has been decided to thoroughly investigate all the relations between the American Sugar Refining Company and the latter corporation.

Several years past, it is contended, the sugar refining companies have given each other exclusive privilege of selling in certain States and Territories. The Missouri River has been the dividing line, all the country to the west of it being considered the preserve of the Havemeyer company, and all the eastern territory being delivered to the American Sugar Refining Company.

Attorney Hutchinson also asserts that there has been an agreement as to the price at which sugars will be sold by both corporations, restraining them in their respective territories.

It also has been developed that 4950 of the 5000 shares of the Spreckels Company are now owned by H. O. Havemeyer, which explains why the two companies have worked together in such perfect harmony.

Claus Spreckels will be first to go on the rack. Tomorrow afternoon he will submit to the kind of questioning that Rockefeller went through in Chicago recently.

It is stated as hard to find the Spreckels D. as it was to locate the Standard Oil.

WHERE THE BLAME IS PLACED.

Responsibility for Columbia Collision Charged to Three Men, Including Dead Captain.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—Three men are held responsible for the collision between the steamers Columbia and Rosecrans off the coast of Mendocino on the morning of July 21, when eighty-seven lives were lost. The decision of Supervising Inspector Dunham, which has just been made, places the blame on Capt. Doran of the Columbia, who was in charge with his ship, Magnus Peterson of the San Pedro, and Frank Hall, the chief mate.

Hall has pleaded guilty of negligence and his license is revoked for one year. Mate Hendrikzen, upon whom, together with the late Capt. Doran of the Columbia, the burden of the blame is laid, is to be deprived of his license for the period of five years, and local inspectors are forbidden to issue him a license in any grade before September 1, 1912.

Inspector Permingham also recommended the passage of a law that would make those responsible for such acts guilty of manslaughter. The action of Capt. Doran for running his ship full speed through a dense fog ... for grave censure.

The decision also finds that the loss sustained by the San Pedro was about $25,000 and her deck load of lumber $5000. The estimated loss of the owners of the Columbia by the sinking of the vessel was $500,000.

FIERY HORROR.

ELEVEN DEAD IN HOTEL FLAMES.

SHELTON, WASH., HOSTELRY A DEATH TRAP.

Guests Jump from Windows to Escape Conflagration and Perish from Fall—Fire Spreads Rapidly—Many Seriously Injured—Fire Department Lacking.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Eleven known dead and many seriously injured are among the results so far ascertained of one of the worst hotel fires ever experienced at Shelton, a town twenty miles from Tacoma.

The conflagration broke out in the Webb Hotel there about 1:45 o'clock this morning, and in a few moments the building was a mass of flames.

The dead are:

MISS IDA MAY BAILEY, waitress.
WILLIAM HOLMES, master mechanic in Peninsular Road shops.
LORA DIDEAUX, bartender.
PAUL F. LARSON, butcher's boy.
MRS. GAY, employé of the hotel.
D. J. HENNESSY, logger, Seattle.
SAM HOLT.
MRS. MUDGE.
MR. and MRS. W. J. WESTVALL.

An unknown man jumped from the third story through a skylight to the kitchen floor and was killed.

Among the more seriously injured are the following:

Miss Mudge, fatally burned; Douglas Grout, night clerk, injured internally; Miss Mary Brask, Portland, limbs burned, leg broken; will probably die.

Among others of the injured are: James Moreland, Alaska, badly burned, may die; Joe Nichols, collarbone broken and badly bruised; J. G. Bond, back broken and shoulder fractured, will probably die; Charles Garrett, badly burned all over; L. E. Thout, Frenchman, badly burned about head and hands.

There were eighty-five persons in the hotel last night, according to the register, and many are still unaccounted for.

The money loss is estimated at $35,000.

The hotel was a three-story frame with front and side stairs, but no elevator.

The fire started in the hotel annex probably from a lighted cigar dropped in the sample room. The top floor was occupied by a number of loggers, but the exact number is not known.

Within a few moments of the time the fire was discovered screams and cries for help were coming from almost every window, and there were dozens of people risking their lives to help bring out the unfortunates.

The hotel occupied a corner of a block in the center of the city that was solidly built of frame structures. Those in the upper stories were entirely cut off from the stairway, and at least seven or eight jumped from the windows before help could reach them from the outside.

Nearly all the dead were killed by jumping from windows. Shelton has no organized fire department, but the fight made both in the life-saving and in the efforts to put out the flames would have done credit to a larger city. The town is supplied with a gravity water system, which gives a heavy pressure on the mains. Three inch-and-a-half hose were laid, and with them the fire was arrested.

REASSURANCE.

WILSON STILL SEEKING FACTS.

NOT SATISFIED YET ABOUT SULPHURATED FRUIT.

In Letter to Senator Perkins Secretary of Agriculture Reiterates His Intention to Take no Action to the Injury of California Growers for the Present at Least.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—A letter from Secretary of Agriculture Wilson to Senator Perkins, relating to the sulphuring of California fruits, was made public today, Secretary Wilson said:

"The main difficulty is that we do not know enough of this business, so I gave your farmers to understand that if they would do the best they could according to their best judgment, in getting their fruit cured, I would not be instrumental in taking them into the Federal courts if they should happen to overstep the limit.

"When I returned here (Washington,) I found that the Bureau of Chemistry had sent several of its ablest chemists to California to push this work and to get us all of the facts regarding it, so that we could act intelligently.

"We want to know whether the amount of sulphur permitted by our rules is sufficient to properly cure the fruit, and, if not, how much would be sufficient, and whether the amount considered necessary would be injurious to the public health.

"I am informed by our agent in California that he has not yet been able to arrive at an intelligent conclusion. No harm shall come to your people if I can prevent it, and I think I can. However, there is the pure food law, as you are aware, and we must have some regard to its requirements. Not your people alone, but the New Orleans sugar and molasses makers, will certainly get us the facts. Everything will be considered as soon as we can get the facts from our scientists now at work in your State."

MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE IS PRODUCED IN COURT.

Mary Ann Scannell Pepper-Vanderbilt Upsets Contention of Counsel That She Was Never Married to Man Whose Name She Bore—Defends Spiritualism.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mary Ann Scannell Pepper-Vanderbilt, guardian of "Little Bright Eyes," told her life story on the stand today when she was called as a witness in the proceedings brought by Miss Minerva Vanderbilt to show that her father, Edward Vanderbilt, was insane and in danger of giving away all his property to the former medium, whom he married three months ago.

"I am pastor of the First Spiritualist Church of Brooklyn, at Bedford and Madison avenues," said Mrs. Pepper, as she took the stand. "I was born in Mansfield, Mass., in 1867 and resided there until I was eight years old, when I removed to Providence.

"I was married to George S. Pepper in 1889. The marriage was performed by Justice of Peace Kansey and was witnessed by several friends of the groom and a friend named Miss Glidding. I have my marriage certificate here."

The marriage certificate was produced, marked and submitted as evidence. It upsets the contention of the counsel that Mrs. Pepper was never married to the man whose name she has borne for so many years. Mrs. Pepper then entered into a long defense of her belief in spiritualism. She told of Bright Eyes, Thundercloud and all the rest of the spooks, by whose aid it is said she has been inducing her husband to turn over his property to her.

HUNDREDS ARE IN WILD PANIC.

TWO ELEVATED TRAINS COLLIDE ON BRIDGE.

Motor Cars Crash Together While Crossing River in Chicago, and Come to Standstill Over Water, While Occupants of Coaches Become Greatly Excited.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hundreds of persons on their way home on the Northwestern Elevated Railroad became panic-stricken late today when two trains crashed in a rear-end collision while they were crossing the Wells-street bridge over the river.

Motor car No. 40 struck the rear end of the train attached to motor car No. 50 just as both passed onto the steel span. Both trains were crowded to the gates. As the trains quivered under the crash the men and women jumped from their seats in wild excitement.

Many tried to escape by crawling through the windows and others by dashing to the doors. The guards endeavored to quiet them, but it seemed that a panic of grave results was unavoidable.

When the grinding of the two cars ceased, the trains were at a standstill over the water. The wreck in mid air drew a great crowd of persons. The crash had been heard for some distance and it was reported that dozens of persons had been injured.

MINE STRIKE SOON TO END.

Tentative Agreement Reached at Goldfield.

Conference in Nixon's Office Ends Amicably.

Now Up to Miners' Union to Ratify Action.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After a conference in Senator Nixon's office, which lasted all day long, an agreement was reached that practically ends the strike in Goldfield.

The announcement cannot be made official until the union has ratified the action of its representatives, who held the conference with Senator Nixon and George Wingfield and Judge Bryant, the legal advisers of the Consolidated Company.

The details of the meeting are being kept secret. Senator Nixon, when seen tonight, admitted that a tentative agreement was reached which all were satisfied with.

"So far as those who took part in the conference are concerned the conclusion is satisfactory and I think it will be acceptable to those in Goldfield. From the company's standpoint the result was satisfactory. I am not at liberty to say more than this until the Goldfield union has concurred in the agreement or rejected it. I believe the strike will soon be a thing of the past."

Entire Timber Dock and Many Buildings Threatened — Firemen Summoned from Brussels—Five Suspects Arrested—Winds Fan the Conflagration.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ANTWERP, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The fire that was started last night in the lumber yard by strikers is still raging and threatens to destroy the entire timber dock, and also a block of buildings.

About midnight the strikers set fire to two warehouses and the whole city was illuminated. Firemen have been summoned from Brussels and Ghent.

The area of the fire is known as the Fernadinus Peolder timber sheds. They cover sixteen acres.

Constant changes in the course of the wind helped to spread the flames, especially to the northward.

A battalion of 400 engineers is engaged in pulling down lumber stacks in an endeavor to prevent further extension of the fire.

The flames later threatened De Cleric Alley, the Rue D'Eckeren and the timber stacks in the Kattendyck Dock.

Five men have been arrested on the charge of incendiarism.

Striking dock laborers are plundering and setting fire to goods on the quays. The imported dockers are frightened and do not dare to leave their boats. The English minister at Brussels has asked the Belgian government to protect the workmen brought from England. Civil guards are attempting to protect the docks and steamers, and in some cases policemen have fired at the strikers.

It is said that serious trouble might have been avoided had the burgomaster given the civil guards two days earlier notice. He is accused of favoring the socialist dockers. Regular troops are considered unsafe, as they would probably side with the strikers.

The loss from the fire is estimated at $3,000,000. The Maritime Federation has rejected the Labor Minister's proposal to arbitrate the dispute between the shipping companies, and further trouble may be expected.

It was sent after him, but when Grieg opened the trunk in Bergen he discovered that many of the manuscripts and several of his most valuable new songs had disappeared.

All investigations were in vain, and Grieg wrote in deep sorrow to a friend here that it was impossible for him to recompose the melodies of the missing songs.

Citizens of Chapman, Neb., Claim Murder Was Covered Up by Officials of County.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LINCOLN (Neb.) Sept. 5.—News reached Gov. Sheldon today of the hanging in effigy of A. L. Stiers of Chapman, who informed him last week of the alleged murder of James McGirr, and the covering up of the murder by the officials.

In a letter to the Governor today 121 citizens of Chapman demanded an explanation of the officials. The letter asserted that McGirr was delivered over to Greek laborers of the Union Pacific and was taken out of town on a hand car. Shots were fired and the body of the man, fearfully mutilated, was discovered on the track next morning.

The County Attorney, Sheriff, and Coroner viewed the remains but refused an inquest, the letter declared. The Governor will order the body exhumed and an inquest held.

INTERNATIONAL ROW NOW IS THREATENED.

Germany Is Determined to Prevent the "Egyptianization of Morocco," and It Is Expected That Military Operations Will Cause Trouble.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—Foreign Secretary Tschirsky, in conversation with a representative of the powers, stated that Germany accepted fully the French assurances that the operations of the allied forces in Morocco would be within the terms of the Algeciras convention. He casually added in substance that, of course, the Algeciras convention did not contemplate France and Spain undertaking to suppress a civil war in Morocco. This reservation shows that any military operations on the part of the allies must either arouse controversy or be preceded by the consent of the interested powers.

The British government seems to be waiting to see what Germany will do, and Germany, the Associated Press is informed, is determined to prevent the "Egyptianisation of Morocco."

Herr Tschirsky today received three leading German merchants of Casa Blanca, who filed claims for compensation for the needless destruction by the French, as they affirm, of German property at Casa Blanca. These merchants expressed their opinion that action of the French was hasty and provocative, and that probably no fighting would have occurred had the French Consul been at Casa Blanca.

SITUATION IS SERIOUS.

While there has not been more fighting at Casa Blanca since the fierce engagement of Tuesday, the seriousness of the general situation in Morocco and the possibilities of its leading France into diplomatic difficulties with the other powers of Europe, notable Germany and Great Britain, to say nothing of the apparently growing necessity of increasing the size of the French force on the Moroccan Coast, is occupying the attention of the French people.

The press is calling attention to the difficulty of keeping within the terms of the Algeciras convention and the call to convoke parliament to discuss and decide what course the nation should pursue is becoming more insistent. There is a growing feeling that the important decisions in the matter of France's policy in Morocco should not be left entirely to the members of the cabinet.

The seriousness of the fighting of Tuesday, in which Maj. Prevost of the foreign legation was killed, further details of which are published today, has brought home to the French people a comprehension of the persistent resistance of the Moors and a realization that France may be only at the threshhold of a protracted campaign that may easily prove costly in lives and money.

NOW CALLED A "WAR."

The situation is now referred to as a "war," and no longer as an expedition of pacification.

No other party has been drawn into the difficulty, but Germany is watching the progress of events in Morocco more closely every day, and as it becomes apparent that the situation there is not improving, it is intimated in Berlin that the Algeciras convention under the terms of which France and Spain are acting in Morocco, prescribe certain limits, and that France is approaching the bounds beyond which she should not go without first obtaining the special permission of the powers.

The situation at Mazagan is reported to be growing more threatening and the exodus of Europeans from Tangier continues.

Premier Clemenceau announced today there was reason to believe that neither Abdel Aziz, the reigning Sultan, nor Mulai Hafig, his brother, who has been proclaimed Sultan in the South, intend to make war against France.

Native advices received at Tangier declare that 20,000 hostile Moors have concentrated not far from Casa Blanca and that 10,000 Cabyle tribesmen have mobolized near Alcabaza.

Spain is preparing to send reinforcements of men and ships to Morocco. One Spanish battleship, the Emperador Carlos V, arrived at Tangier today.

FRANCE FACES BIG INDEMNITY CLAIMS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The statements made by three German merchants, Messrs. Ficke, Mannessmann and Opitz, who have just returned from Morocco, regarding the extent of injury done to foreign commercial interests there, as a result of military operations, indicate that the indemnity claims which France will be called on to settle at the end of the campaign will be considerable.

According to these merchants, who are engaged in the export and import trade between Morocco and the Fatherland, the German business men in Casa Blanca have suffered ruinous losses.

In addition to the damage directly due to the bombardment, the invasion has caused a suspension of trade, which threatens to be permanent. In effect, every German trader in Morocco, without exception, is said to be entitled to claim damages.

Ficke and his colleagues declare that these conditions were avoidable, being due to the hasty and needlessly drastic character of the French operations.

Merchants have had an audience with Foreign Secretary Tschirsky, giving him a detailed account of their claims. It is expected that France will indemnify the losses when called upon through official channels to do so, though certain discontented elements protest that complete satisfaction is impossible, as irreparable harm has been done to German interests, which likely have been acquiring a rapidly increasing importance in Northwest Africa.

MULAI HAFID MAY BE GIVEN WORTHLESS ARMS

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Premier Clemenceau professes not to have the slightest anxiety over the Mazagan situation, which, from the public point of view, complicates still further the Morrocan problem. After denying that Gen. Drude needs more reinforcements, as he has 7000 men, besides the contingents on the war vessels, the premier said this morning:

"According to information that has reached me the guns in store at Mazagan are neither modern nor dangerous, while the cartridges are not of the same caliber as the arms. It is quite possible that we shall give them to Mulai Hafid, for otherwise we might have to disembark troops as well as to bombard the town. Now, my idea of policing Morocco is not by bombardment. We have all confidence in Admiral Philibert, leaving the question for him to decide, though we are hourly expecting a telegram from him explaining his intentions."

The news of Tuesday's battle created great admiration here, and more than ever public opinion demanded some definite and energetic action by Gen. Drude which will end the present stage of the conflict. It is insisted that he has enogh men and artillery to accomplish this before the efficiency of the war vessels is ruined by bad weather.

REFUGEES HUDDLE IN ALGECIRAS ARENA.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GIBRALTAR, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hundreds of the refugees who have arrived at Algeciras from Morocco have been accommodated in the bull ring for lack of other room.

Future contingents will be sent to La Linea on the Gibraltar boundary line, where 4000 can be housed and cared for.

The Spanish troops in the vicinity of Gibraltar are ready to proceed to Tangier at a moment's notice. Two infantry brigades are also ready at Cadiz.

STARTLING TESTIMONY MAY ENLIVEN SPOOK TRIAL.

Want Ad. Reveals Much-sought "Suffered," Who Is Expected to Give Important Evidence Against Mrs. Pepper Vanderbilt—More Spirits Mixed Up in Trial.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "Suffered. Kindly communicate immediately by phone or call before 9:30. (Signed:) Arnstein."

Through the foregoing advertisement in a morning paper, an important witness has been found and is expected to give startling evidence against Mrs. Pepper-Vanderbilt in the action now being tried before a Sheriff's jury in the Kings County Courthouse, to have her husband, Edward Vanderbilt, adjudged insane.

Counsel for Mr. Vanderbilt's daughter, who instituted the proceedings, inserted the advertisement. They said today they had been in communication with the mysterious woman, whose testimony is desired.

William C. Rosenberg said that "Suffered" is a woman who was for years associated with Mrs. Pepper, the spiritualist medium, and that she has in her possession papers relating to Mrs. Pepper's relations with Mr. Vanderbilt, "Bright Eyes," a spirit which communicated with Mrs. Pepper, and other spirits mixed up in the case.

Documents she has, it is stated, also give many important details as to Mrs. Pepper-Vanderbilt's early career. Experts on mental diseases and insanity spent hours at the hearings today describing the various antics of spirits, their view of spiritualism, as related to sanity, and giving their opinion of Mr. Vanderbilt's views on spiritualism.

The wealthy timber merchant was evidently much moved by the testimony, and listened carefully.

ROGERS WINS BIG SUIT.

Verdict Given Standard Oil Official in Action for Fifty Million Dollars Royalties.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON (Mass.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A verdict was given for the defendants, Henry H. Rogers and Charles Pratt, of New York, by Winfield S. Slocum, auditor, in the Supreme Court, Tuesday, in a suit brought by Cadwallader M. Raymond, of Somerville, to recover $5,000,000 alleged to be due for royalties for the use of a secret press for rendering petroleum and its products non-explosive.

The action was based on a contract made November 5, 1874, between Benjamin F. Greenough, his wife and sons with Henry H. Rogers, now of the Standard Oil Company, conveying exclusive rights in a receipt for rendering petroleum and its products non-explosive for a royalty one-fourth of a cent a gallon for all the product to which the receipt might be applied, and royalties to amount to not less than $500 in any month.

Naval Officers in Samoan Islands Are Worried Over Debts, and Postal Clerk Badly Wanted.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unable to send registered mail to the United States, the officers of the gunboat Annapolis are fretting at their station in the Samoan Islands because they cannot pay their bills.

They have written to the Navy Department asking that an announcement be made to their creditors that ass soon as a ship with a postal clerk to receipt for registered mail arrives at their station they will remit. Ordinary mail comes by feight steamships.

The money these officers owe in the United States is now held at the Samoan station, having been registered more than four months ago. As the officers cannot get them back they may lie in the postoffice there for several months more.

Indiana Governor Orders Prosecutors to Contest All Applications for Licenses.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Gov. Hadley made another move today in the direction of limiting the number of saloons by ordering prosecutors to appear in all cases where no contest is made against the applicant for license in behalf of the State.

Gov. Hadley says that men not legally capacitated to sell liquor, secure licenses because no contests are made by the people, and he wants the prosecutors to cross-examine applicants and witnesses in their behalf to the end that their moral and legal status may be made plain to the courts.

It is believed that many applicants will fail to get licenses if prosecutors now do their duty.

Cross-ties Wedged Between and Over Rails to Throw No. 18 Southbound from Track—Slow Rate of Speed Prevents Success of Diabolical Trap.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WATSONVILLE, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An attempt was made to wreck southbound passenger train No. 18 on the Southern Pacific, one mile south of Pajaro, a suburb of this city, last night.

A cross tie was wedged diagonally between the rails, and another fastened over it and across the rails, making a dangerous trap.

As the obstructed point was within the yards, the train was not moving at a high rate of speed. The pilot rode the ties, and skidded for about one hundred and twenty-five feet before the engine was stopped.

A through freight passed the place where the obstruction was placed at 10 o'clock, and it was half an hour later when it was struck by the passenger train.

The train on which the attempt was made was a heavy passenger and was an hour late.

Though officials have been investigating the matter all day, no clew has yet been discovered that would lead to the arrest of the perpetrators.

COLORADO FLYER DERAILED IN KANSAS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

TOPEKA (Kan.) Sept. 5.—The Colorado Flyer, passenger train No. 9, of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé road, was derailed at Wakarusa, twelve miles west of Topeka, early this morning.

Three Pullman cars and one tourist sleeper were derailed. None of the passengers received more than minor bruises, but the passenger conductor had a leg severely wrenched, and the Pullman car conductor was also severely injured.

A defective rail was the cause of the derailment.

Gov. Hoch of Kansas, was one of the passengers in the wreck. He was in the tourist sleeper, engaged in conversation, when the shock came. The car tipped partially over, but the Governor kicked out one of the oval windows and did heroic work in rescuing the women and children passengers. Both his hands were badly cut by contact with the broken glass.

WRECKERS DERAIL B. & O. FREIGHT TRAIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 5.—Train wreckers were at work last evening on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, at Scott Haven and Sutterville, thirty miles east of here. Spikes, it is said, were drawn from the east-bound tracks for the purpose, it is thought, of catching the New York Express, which leaves Pittsburgh at 9:30 o'clock in the evening.

The wreckers were deceived by the number of freight and passenger trains passing these points last evening, and the express got through before the spikes were drawn.

The next train following it, a fast freight express for Philadelphia and New York, was not so fortunate. When the big engine struck the rail from which the spikes had been drawn, the rail turned over, derailing the engine and twelve cars. The tank of the engine is in the Youghiogheny River, which is a distance of from thirty-five to forty feet below the east-bound wreck.

Five of the derailed cars were more or less wrecked, the merchandise being scattered along the track, while the other cars completely blocked the roads. The fireman and engineer escaped injury by jumping.

PAST YEAR BEST IN ITS ENTIRE HISTORY.

Directors Declare Regular Quarterly Dividend of Two Per Cent. and Extra Dividend of Six Per Cent. Additional Surplus Also Helps Coffers of Other Hill Roads.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Directors of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy Railroad today declared the regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. on capital stock and an extra dividend of 6 per cent. The last quarterly dividend was 1¾ per cent.

Concerning the extra dividend on the Burlington's stock, J. J. Hill said:

"The Northern Pacific and Great Northern have had the Burlington for about six years and during this time the Burlington has not paid the carrying charges of its joint 4 per cent. bonds to the extent of 1 per cent., and therefore to equalize this deficiency a 6 per cent. additional has been declared on Burlington stock.

"The annual report of 1907 will show that the Burlington has had the best year in its history. The additional dividend on Burlington stock will contribute about $3,250,000 apiece to the treasuries of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific. This is equivalent to more than 2 per cent. on the capital stock of the Great Northern and Northern Pacific."

General Situation Will Be Discussed.

Hughitt, Ripley and Mather Are Present.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unheralded by any public announcement, and keeping secret their purposes of arrival, railroad presidents from all parts of the country are in this city today, and it is said that a meeting will be held in the near future, at which the general railroad situation will be discussed.

Nothing can be learned in railroad circles as to the exact nature of the business which has caused the officials to come here, but it is said that their arrival is not a mere coincidence.

DIVIDENDS ARE WITHHELD.

AWAITING INVESTIGATION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Directors of the Interborough-Metropolitan, the holding corporation of many traction companies in New York City, including surface, elevated and subway lines, decided today to pass the regular quarterly dividend on its preferred stock.

Previous quarterly dividends have been 1¼ per cent., but the directors decided to withhold this one until the investigation of the affairs of the company by the Public Service Commission, which is now in progress, is concluded.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—It is reported that the Yosemite Valley Railroad, a line running from Merced to the entrance of the Yosemite National Park, near the Cascade Falls, has passed into the control of the Western Pacific, and will be operated by that company when its transcontinental system is completed, next summer.

The Yosemite Valley Railroad is eighty-five miles long, traversing the entire Merced Cañon. It was begun some two and a half years ago, and is said to have cost its builders in the neighborhood of $4,000,000, or approximately $50,000 per mile.

BLASTED HOPES.

CRASH RECALLS GREAT FAILURE.

EDWARD L. HARPER FAILS IN HIS AMBITIONS.

Cincinnati Man Who Conducted Unsuccessful Wheat Corner Score of Years Ago and Wrecked His Own Bank Is Caught in Another Financial Storm in New York.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] When the announcement was made yesterday that a receiver had been appointed for the Union Iron and Steel Company, with offices in the Empire building, friends who recalled the remarkable financial career of Edward L. Harper said the failure probably would be a deathblow to his hopes and boasts that he would yet pay off every dollar of his $6,000,000 indebtedness.

Wall street was indifferent and steel and iron circles were not stirred by the news of the failure, which was regarded as unimportant from a financial standpoint. The company was an offshoot of a $6,000,000 enterprise which Mr. Harper organized several years ago, but what chiefly caused interest to be so centered on the failure was the fact that the concern was under the management of Mr. Harper, who failed for millions twenty years ago after a disastrous speculation in wheat.

His failure carried down the Fidelity National Bank of Cincinnati, of which he was president and whose funds he was charged with using in his wheat corner. He was sentenced to ten years in prison, but after serving six years he was released.

After several more or less successful ventures Mr. Harper appeared in this city only a few years ago and announced that he intended to pay off all his obligations and regain the standing he once enjoyed in the financial world.

He began by organizing the Union Steel and Chain Company, with a capitalization of $60,000,000, but the offshoot of that corporation was the Union Iron and Steel Company, which was yesterday placed in a receiver's hands.

The latter company was incorporated in Delaware in 1899 for the manufacture of pig iron and steel. It had plants in Ironton, O., Big Stone Gap, Va., Chatham, N. Y., Denver, Col., and Birmingham, Ala. It was capitalized at $2,000,000.

Its officers were William Roth, president, E. L. Harper, vice-president and general manager, Thomas S. Holmer, treasurer, E. L. Harper, Jr., secretary. The directors are Messrs. Roth, E. L. Harper, Holmes, William C. Binnian, E. K. Stallo, E. L. Harper, Jr., and James L. Wolcott.

E. L. Harper was a commission dealer in pig iron in Cincinnati in the early seventies. Then he successfully engineered a wheat deal in Chicago and organized the Fidelity National Bank in Cincinnati. At this period of his life he was regarded as one of the leading financiers of Ohio. He was made president of the bank and was remarkably successful in obtaining business for the institution, which had deposits aggregating $4,000,000.

With other financiers in 1887 he attempted another wheat corner, which went to smash and caused the wrecking of the bank. Harper and the cashier were convicted of embezzling funds and sent to prison.

After engaging in several enterprises in Cincinnati and in the South after his release from prison, Harper came to New York and attracted attention in 1905 by the fact that judgments amounting to $5,280,533 were entered against him.

Newark High School Pupils Petition His Father to Let Him Have Trousers of Adult Length.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Petitions are being circulated among pupils of the Orange High School, and if the long list of signatures will have any bearing, Benjamin Cohn, a member of the senior class, will appear within the next few days wearing long trousers.

Cohn is said to have told his associates, when the school opened for fall term yesterday, that his father had refused to allow him to wear long "pants."

Cohn urged the other seniors to assist him and advocated the circulation of petitions. Petitions will be turned over to Max Cohn, the boy's father, for his consideration.

JUPITER PLUVIUS.

HEAVY RAINS BREAK DROUTH.

CROPS IN MANY STATES SAVED FROM TOTAL LOSS.

Copious Showers Throughout the Country East of the Mississippi Valley Save Hundreds of Thousands of Men from Ruin—Fruits Suffer Heavily.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] With the breaking of the drought by the rains of the last three days the most serious condition that has confronted the farmers of the Eastern and Southern parts of the United States in years has passed away.

The lack of rain at one time promised to be a very serious calamity. As it is, it has entailed a loss on farmers, fruit growers and others of a great many million dollars. But for the rain which began to sweep eastward on Monday night and fell in copious showers throughout the entire country from the Mississippi Valley to the Atlantic Coast and from Florida to the gulf hundreds of thousands of men would have been practically ruined.

The drought was one of the most extensive and severe in recent years. It was particularly disastrous throughout New England, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Tennessee, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

In many of the sections week had succeeded week with brilliant sunshine, but without any moisture, whatever. The fruit crop of all the Eastern and Southern States suffered very heavily and in numerous sections a complete failure was threatened.

The loss in the berry and small fruit crop alone has been estimated at millions of dollars, attributed entirely to the drought. Pastures were dried up and forage for live stock was almost impossible to obtain. In many quarters even the trees began to die from lack of moisture.

The first signs of the breaking of the drought came with rains on August 20 and 21 in Eastern Nebraska, northern part of Illinois, Indiana, and Western Ohio, and in portions of Texas. There were scattered storms throughout the East on September 1 and the drought began to be broken on September 2, Labor Day.

THE NAVY.

NAVAL DIVISION NOT PROBABLE.

PRESIDENT FAVORS ONE VAST FORMIDABLE FLEET.

Great Armada of Battleships Also to Sail Dufavor With Metcalf and General Board—Plan to Increase Number of Vessels in Evans's Command to Twenty-eight.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—It is authoritatively stated at the Navy Department that President Roosevelt does not contemplate the creation of two battleship fleets, nor does Secretary Metcalf, nor even the General Board, which is supposed to represent the extreme view in the Navy Department, favor either the division of the present magnificent fleet, under Admiral Evans's command, or the creation of another fleet, in order that there may be a formidable American navy in both oceans—the Atlantic and the Pacific.

On the contrary, it is regarded at the Navy Department as a better policy to maintain one perfectly equipped, well-drilled fleet, free to proceed at will to any part of the globe at short notice; and the present plans contemplate the increase of the strength of the existing fleet from sixteen to twenty-eight battleships. This will afford a command as large as can be properly directed by any officer, and it will, moreover, about exhaust the capacity of ports and dry-docks in any particular section of the country.

It is asserted positively at the department that there is not the least possibility of keeping the battleships that will go to the Pacific permanently in those waters.

The fleet, it is added, will surely return to the Atlantic seaboard after it has fulfilled its mission and demonstrated the feasibility of transferring at will a vast naval force from ocean to ocean.

BATTLESHIP TO BEAR NAME OF NEW YORK.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—The Navy Department has decided to christen the new battleship No. 29, a sister ship to the Delaware, the New York. This is to be effected by changing the name of the armored cruiser of that name to the Saratoga.

TWO NAVAL REPORTS PROMPTLY DENIED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Acting Secretary Newberry of the Navy Department today said there was no truth in the Shanghai report that the United States has leased for five years a coaling station in Norvik Bay.

Regarding a report from the same source that the United States had ordered next winter the floating dry dock at Vladivostok, Mr. Newberry said: "That would be just as much use to the navy as a canal on Mars."

FLEET WILL ALSO VISIT OTHER SHORES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Some interesting information bearing on the dispatch of Admiral Evans's battleship fleet to the Pacific is published in the Times today, and is credited to a high authority.

The administration, it is stated, does not mean to confine the fleet's movements to the Pacific Coast. The President's plan is to send the warships on to Hawaii and then to the Philippines, with a flying visit to California ports.

Sealed orders are issued for their return, the route designated will be the Suez Canal. Thus the fleet will circumnavigate the globe.

It is further learned that in the meantime the Atlantic Coast will not be unprotected, but that at the instance of President Roosevelt the Navy Department has already begun to plan the organization of another fleet to consist of that under Admiral Evans, the NEW HAMPSHIRE, FLAGSHIP.

The flagship of the new fleet will be the New Hampshire, a 16,000-ton battleship, which is to be ready for commissioning in January.

As soon as possible this vessel is to be followed by the Mississippi and the two first-class battleships now under construction by the Cramps, following completion.

These powerful vessels will be consorts to the three veterans of the Spanish War, the battleships Indiana and Massachusetts, which are now being modernized.

The fleet of six battleships will have as its auxiliaries the three new colliers, which are almost ready for service, the Chester, Birmingham and Salem.

ATLANTIC FLEET REINFORCED.

Presently the new Atlantic fleet will be reinforced by the two 16,000-ton battleships, Michigan and South Carolina, and the two fast armored cruisers of 14,500 tons each, the North Carolina and the Montana.

The New Hampshire is similar to the latest, Admiral Evans's flagship, Louisiana, but the Idaho and the Mississippi, which are 12,000 tons each, have features peculiar to themselves.

Both boats are noted for the weight of their armament, notwithstanding their relatively small tonnage.

The Salem, Birmingham and Salem are 3600 tons each, and they are to be capable of 25 knots an hour speed.

DOCTOR ENDS OWN LIFE.

Former Consul at Nagasaki, Japan, Commits Suicide After Reading About "Effects of Mental Fatigue."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] William H. Abercrombie, formerly United States Consul at Nagasaki, Japan, committed suicide by asphyxiation in his apartments in Stoneleigh Court here. He was 65 years old.

Dr. Abercrombie had just returned from Atlantic City. His wife has been attending her sick mother at Reading, Pa. The doctor's body was found in bed. The door to the room had been made tight by stuffing cotton into all openings and the gas jets were turned on.

The former Consul drank a small quantity of whisky last night. He had been reading a magazine article on "Effects of Mental Fatigue." Mental depression is suggested as the cause of the suicide.

Dr. Abercrombie was born in New York City in 1845. He completed his education at Hobart College, Geneva, N. Y. After several years of travel abroad, he entered the New York Homeopathic Medical College and graduated in 1872. He practiced medicine in New York City and Jersey City until he was appointed American Consul at Nagasaki in 1890, by President Harrison.

ALTON MIX-UP.

BONAPARTE MUST PROVE HIS CASE.

JUDGE LANDIS NOT SATISFIED WITH IMMUNITY RULING.

Federal Official Volunteers Statement on Singular Mix-up Over the Alton Prosecution—Result May Be That Indictments May Be Returned but Not Tried.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An official of the Federal government today put forward a solution of the mystery that has been thrown around the Chicago and Alton "immunity" case. He said:

"Judge Landis practically directed Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte to examine the transcript of testimony of Alton officials and employés, which forms the part of the record of the Standard Oil case entering into the situation.

"Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte apparently did so, and a communication of the results of his study did not satisfy Judge Landis.

"It now looks as if Judge Landis wishes to make Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte prove his case before immunity will be granted to the Alton, and it further looks as if it will be somewhat of a task to prove that case to Judge Landis, whose mind is pretty well made up, I take it, as to how far the Alton went in aiding the Standard Oil prosecution.

"At all events, we have a pretty controversy between Judge Landis, supported as far as his delicate position will permit by Dist.-Atty. Sims on the one hand, and Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte, Mr. Sims's chief, on the other.

"If Mr. Bonaparte's orders are not carried out, will he or Mr. Sims ultimately be the more embarrassed?

"If Mr. Sims tries to carry them out and Judge Landis quashes his attempts, which will be the more embarrassed, Judge Landis or Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte?

"If immunity be granted, what will the feeling be? Have affairs proceeded so far in discord that even then harmony will not result?

"There is a possibility that Judge Landis will enforce the indictments of the Alton, and that later the indictments will not be pushed by the government under orders from Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte. The question arises in such a situation, 'How far could Judge Landis go to enforce prosecution under such indictments?'"

The attorneys of the Chicago and Alton Railroad apparently are the least perturbed of any of the principals in the episode. They reiterated today their confidence that the case against the railroad company was ended, save for the clearing away of a few technical complications.

They asserted that they had no statement or explanation to issue, and could only guess at the reasons for the delay sought by the Federal prosecutor.

STANDARD AGAIN GETS CONTINUANCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Another postponement of the taking of testimony against Standard Oil Company of New Jersey and affiliated concerns, was ordered today by former Judge Franklyn Ferris of St. Louis, who is acting as examiner for the Federal Court.

The hearing is now scheduled for September 17, and it is said there will be no delay beyond that date in the proceedings.

The adjournment was requested by the attorneys for the defendant companies, and the special counsel representing the government. It was granted to give the Standard Oil Company time to prepare statements from its books and records, which are desired by those in shaping of the prosecution. These statements, it is claimed, will do away with the necessity of bringing all the books of the various companies to the Federal Court, and ultimately will expedite the hearing. The testimony to be taken in New York will be of a documentary character, and it will be reported back to the United States Circuit Court in St. Louis, where the government suit to dissolve the so-called oil trust was brought up.

Special Attorney Frank B. Kellogg today, at the brief session before Examiner Ferris, said that the government dose not waive the production of the books and documents in question if they are deemed necessary, and that the right to verify the statements from the company's books is reserved.

BONAPARTE SILENT ABOUT ALTON CASE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LENOX (Mass.) Sept. 5.—Atty.-Gen. Bonaparte, who has been spending the summer here, left today for Boston.

To a representative of the Associated Press he said he had nothing to say regarding the Chicago and Alton case beside his statement of last night.

He said he had received a letter today from Dist.-Atty. Sims of Chicago, but he was not willing to make public its contents, at this time, nor was he willing to make public the text of the letter he had written to Mr. Sims, and which, it is said, would be read at the opening of the Chicago and Alton case next Tuesday.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

tion of a resolution declaring the price charged for timber cut from government forest reserves too high, and that the excess should be refunded.

An amended resolution, introduced by Frank Goudy on the subject, was adopted, declaring that there should be no thought of making a profit for the government through the sale of timber, or the granting of grazing privileges. Bona-fide miners, stockmen and farmers should be only charged a rate for such privileges as would meet the government expenses.

Other resolutions were adopted providing for the establishment of bureaus of hydrology and drainage, in connection with irrigation work. A resolution calling on Congress to aid irrigation in any way possible was also passed.

H. D. Loveland, president of the trans-Mississippi congress, addressed the convention, and extended an invitation to the delegates to attend the gathering of the congress in Oklahoma next November.

VINCENT'S ADDRESS.

A feature of the day was the address of Merle B. Vincent of Colorado, director of the American National Live Stock Association. He came out in support of the government's policy in regard to grazing ranges.

In the past there has been much opposition, Vincent declared, as settlers formerly feared to go upon the public domain to seek locations because of the cattlemen; but owing to the present Federal supervision, no such condition now exists.

Arthur Briggs, again brought up his resolution on the matter of sulphuric treatment of fruit in drying, but it failed of reconsideration, and an amended resolution, providing for a full investigation, instead of criticism, was adopted. Later, Briggs's resolution was referred back to his delegation by the Committee on Resolutions.

The California delegation arranged to accompany the members of the Inland Waterways Commission and the Reclamation Service on a trip down the Sacramento River tomorrow, to look at the work of reclamation being done there.

Tonight, Gov. Gillett, assisted by the ladies of the Reception Committee, tendered a brilliant reception to the visiting Governors, delegates, visitors and residents of the city, at the Governor's mansion.

At the Irrigation Palace there was an illustrated lecture on California, by Clarence E. Edwards, of the California Promotion Committee.

PROTEST AGAINST "LOTTERY."

The continued warm weather had an effect on the attendance today, and there were more vacant chairs when Gov. Chamberlain called the convention to order shortly before 10 o'clock than at any previous session. A cablegram from Gov. Frear of Hawaii, announced the appointment of E. E. Paxton, as a delegate from that Territory. There are now accredited delegates to the congress from Europe, Asia, Africa, Oceanica, North and South and Central America, Hawaii and the Philippines.

A protest against what was characterized as a "lottery" scheme and a circus parade, enlivened the proceedings of the morning. A. K. Caswell of Modesto, Cal., arose and protested against what he termed a lottery affair. He referred to a glass case containing a silver cup and a voting plan in connection. It provided for the deposit of slips bearing the names of delegates and the announcement that the lucky person whose name is drawn from the box will receive the cup.

Mr. Caswell wanted to know if that was the place of registration. He was informed that delegates registered at headquarters. Caswell made a strong protest and said lotteries have no rights in the congress.

Mrs. Lovell White of California moved that a committee be appointed to investigate the matter. The committee reported that there was no intention of a lottery scheme, and explained that the firm making the silver trophies to be awarded at the Interstate Exposition of Forest and Land Products had donated a cup, and it was simply there in order that a large number of names might be secured for advertising purposes. A card will be prepared showing the glass case does not mark the official registration bureau.

CIRCUS CAUSES DIVERSION.

When Merle B. Vincent of Colorado, director of the American National Live Stock Association, was about to be called to deliver an address on "The Leasing of Public Grazing Lands," the circus parade came along. This was too much of an attraction for many of the delegates and spectators, and there was a rush to the door.

Gov. Chamberlain asked whether the convention felt it was better to listen to an address or see the parade, and as no one left after that, he was glad to learn the delegates desired to listen.

Mr. Vincent was able to combat with the rival attraction fairly well until the steam calliope loomed up. This was a strong opposition and angered A. P. Griffith of Azusa, Cal., who broke out with a protest against the circus parade proving such a strong rival to the congress. Gov. Chamberlain called on Executive Beard to suppress the calliope, but the operator continued to render the sweet strains of some touching melody that was not at all in harmony with grazing on public lands. The calliope soon passed on its way and quiet again reigned.

Vincent said that settlers formerly were afraid because of the fear of cattlemen to go upon the public domain to seek out locations, but thanks to the present Federal conditions, no such situation exists.

RAILROAD FORESTRY.

The first address of the morning was that of E. A. Sterling, chief forester for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. He delivered an interesting talk on "Forestry and Railroads."

The relation of range products to the water supply was the subject of A. F. Potter, chief inspector of grazing of the United States forest service.

Another feature of the session was an address by F. William Rane of Massachusetts, who spoke on "State Forestry and Forest Administration."

"Just how to accomplish economic results in forestry undertakings, and, at the same time develop a rational State and national policy, are problems of momentous importance," said Mr. Rane, who then proceeded to relate in detail what had been done to promote the growth of trees in Massachusetts, of which State he is the official forester. He then said:

"It is hardly necessary to emphasize before this convention the importance of each State doing something in the way of improving its forest conditions. We are at present simply at the brink of what offers great possibilities in economic importance. This fact has never emphasized itself to me more forcibly than on my present western trip. Those States that are already laboring diligently to promote and foster their forest interests are realizing more and more that, economically, they should have begun their work much earlier. It is needless to say that their experience should be heeded by others that have done comparatively little as yet.

"It takes time to awaken public interest in forestry in a country like ours, where forest products have been had simply for the harvesting, and their true values have been little appreciated. We need only to study history, however, to begin to realize that we have heeded too little the experience of older nations. History repeats itself. Let us not weary, however, in well doing. It is now the opportune time for forestry to be of great service to the State."

Albert F. Wood of the United States Department of Agriculture spoke at the opening of the afternoon session on "The Bureau of Plant Industry."

E. T. Allen of Oregon followed with an address on "Irrigation and World Development."

A resolution was introduced by the Outdoor League Department of the California Club, through its chairman, Mrs. Lovell White, declaring that Niagara Falls are menaced with destruction through the rapacity of the power companies located on both sides of the river. The resolution, which was referred to the Committee on Resolutions, urged that the congress approve the act of the American Civic Association in its attempt to preserve unimpaired Niagara Falls, and urging Congress to enact necessary legislation.

BURBANK TALKS.

Luther Burbank, the expert on plants, who appeared before the congress last night, was again called on for an address. He told the congress of his experiments in trying to produce a thornless cactus. He had all but succeeded, he said, a lack of the nutrition desired being the only obstacle to be overcome. He predicted that this thornless cactus would become the great fodder of the arid region, for all kinds of stock relish it, and fatten quickly. About 200 tons can be grown per acre, an extraordinary output compared with other kinds of feed. The development of the high nutrition is being assiduously pursued by Burbank, and the grazing men will soon have some important news from the wizard.

A delegate asked Burbank if he had a secret of developing plant life, and if the secret would die with him. Burbank replied that he has no secret, and that he is always glad to assist others.

Following the addresses of Woods and Allen it was announced that the papers of Congressman Grona, and Willet Hays, who were not present, would be read into the records.

George Otis Smith, director of the Geological Survey, and Hon. W. T. Cressler of Cedarville, Cal., were other speakers.

Mr. Allen, who is from Oregon, aroused enthusiasm when he said that San Francisco would be the greatest mart of the world when the arid regions of the country were developed.

KICKERS ORGANIZE.

The Irrigation Protection Association was formally organized today by the men who are known as the "kickers" from Yuma and other points. They propose to investigate all irrigation projects now under way and those that are to come, and will soon send an agent into the field with the object of securing data to present claims for redress to Congress. L. M. Holt is president of the organization.

BOLT FATAL TO SEVEN.

Workmen Meet Sudden Death After Having Sought Shelter from Storm.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RALEIGH (N. C.) Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Seven men were killed and about twenty injured at a plant of the Phoenix Construction Company at Buckhorn, Chatham county.

The men were killed in the cement-house, which was located some distance from the main plant, when the building was struck by lightning.

Nearly all of the killed and injured were employed of the construction company and who had sought shelter in the building from a storm.

Strength comes from good food and sickness of any sort often means a lack of the right sort, or failure to properly digest it.

VENICE TO BE IN LEAGUE.

Manager Berry Believes Town Will Have Team.

McCredie Has Arranged for His End of Territory.

Season Will Be Extended One or Two Weeks.

Continuous baseball next year for all of the cities in the Pacific Coast League is now practically assurred, and apparently all that needs to be done is to ratify the aciton that has already been taken on the quiet by Managers Berry of Los Angeles and McCredie of Portland. A meeting of the league officials will be held in San Francisco next Monday to arrange matters.

Manager Berry of this city left for the North Monday evening, and before his departure stated that in all probability there will be a southern team at Venice next year, if not at Pasadena. The latter city would probably be better than Venice, if it were not for the feeling there against Sunday baseball, which has been stirred up by the fights and disturbances the amateur teams have been engaged in. Owing to these conditions, if there is a baseball team to represent Pasadena in the league, it must be organized by Pasadena men, as the league itself will not attempt to put in a team.

Berry made several trips to Venice last week, and, after talking over the subject with Doge Kinney, stated that Venice would undoubtedly have a team in the Coast League next year, Kinney being very favorable to the idea. There is plenty of ground east of Venice for a big ball park, and it is believed that games there Tuesday afternoon and Sunday morning would at least pay expenses, if not a profit.

It is said that McCredie has picked out a big town near Portland that will support a team, and if this is true, a six-club league is assured. Salem, the capital of Oregon, could doubtless support a team, and while it is some distance from Portland, a schedulel could be fixed up that would give Portland almost continuous ball, and during the first and last part of the season the two teams to be taken in could play contiuous ball at Oakland.

EXTRA GAMES PROMISED.

Fans throughout the Coast will be interested in the information that the Coast League season may be extended two weeks from November 3. Each club has an extra week "coming," owing to the fact that the opening of the season was postponed one week because the grounds in San Francisco were not ready March 30.

President Pendleton of the local club stated yesterday that he would promise one week extra, or to November 10, and he might secure two weeks. Such an extension would doubtless prove acceptable to all concerned, and as the weather in this city is generally good during November, there is no reason why the fans should not be given baseball. This will be decided at the meeting to be held next Monday.

MORE MONEY FOR ABIE.

ATTELL TO BOX JIMMY WALSH.

BOYS WILL BATTLE NEXT WEEK AT INDIANAPOLIS.

Featherweight Limit Is to Be Made at the Ringside—Some Changes Are Found Necessary for Next Local Try-out Card and These Will Bring Out Several New Pugs.

Eddie Keevin, manager of the bantamweight fighter, Jimmy Walsh, has matched his boy to fight Abe Attell in Indianapolis next Thursday night. The fight will be for ten rounds, and the weight is 122 pounds, ringside. They have met twice and Attell won both times.

Walsh is really a bantamweight, but has doubtless grown since he was here last winter. Attell is a very hard nut for any boy to crack, on account of his speed and his skill at boxing, and if Jimmy can beat him it will be a great victory for him. Both boys expect to return here this winter, if there is racing, for they are fiends for the ponies.

CARD IS CHANGED.

There has been some change in the make-up of the try-out card that Manager McCarey has staged for September 13, and from all appearances, nothing has been lost by the change.

Ford is not quite ready to go on with Dalton again, and his place has been taken by Young Dempsey, who will keep Dalton busy from the start. Eddie Chambers and Kyle Whitney were matched but Whitney is not now available, and his place has been taken by Joe Ammon, who is but little known here.

These two scraps will be of ten rounds each and the four curtain raisers of six rounds each remain the same as previously arranged, these being Leahy and Royle, Rose and Red Fitzsimmons, Doane and Leedon, and Young McGovern and Manuel Torres. Leedon is another new one and is known as "Jim Trimble's unknown."

BETTING IS LIVELY.

GANS CINTINUES FAVORITE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—The betting was lively today on the Britt-Gans fight, with the colored champion still favorite, at odds of 7 to 10. Referee Jack Welsh has given his instructions to both.

After reeling off ten miles on the road and punching the bag and skipping the rope for a solid hour in the afternoon, Gans weighed 135 pounds. He took on a pound since Tuesday, as he quit work entirely, barring a short jog in the open air. He will hover around the highest notch until Saturday, and then reduce to 133.

Britt is working as hard as ever, and took on Eddie Madsen and Jim Horner for six rounds, while Kreling and he practiced the new body punch with which he expects to floor Gans.

Sports Don't Enthuse.

The Britt-Gans fight in San Francisco is but three days in the distance and it is safe to say that it is attracting less attention here than any big fight this year. The majority of the local fight bugs look upon the fight with more or less suspicion and the chances are that Britt will win, somehow, for he is on the short end of the 10 to 7 betting and it has been almost two years since a favorite won a prize fight in San Francisco. The case of Willis Britt here some weeks ago and his effort to tamper with the Gans-Memsic fight, left a bad taste in the mouths of local fight enthusiasts and they are afraid to do much in the betting line. Britt's press agents have trotted out the old chestnut that Jimmy has a "new punch" to beat Gans with, but Gans has kept on for years beating pugs that invented new punches to hand him.

Catcher Bobby Eager,

ANOTHER LOST CAUSE.

HAL BRALY BEATEN BY HERBERT LONG.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DEL MONTE, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hal Braly went down to defeat before Herbert Long this morning, thereby leaving three northern players a clear field for the upper half position in the finals of the men's open singles.

Braly took the first set of the match, 6 to 0, and led at 5 to 3 in the second set. At 5 to 4 he had point set at 40-30, when he served three double faults in succession, losing the game. From that point in the match the northerner struck a terrific gait, and Braly was unable to stem the tide of defeat. Long, who is an older brother of Champion Melville Long, has not been active in the game for the last year, and his defeat of Braly came as a distinct surprise to everybody and a big disappointment to the southerners.

Long's victory puts him in the semi-finals of the upper half, where he must meet the winner of the Janes-McLaughlin match to get to the finals. Tom Bundy won a place in the lower half by defeating his friend and colleague, Trow Hendricks, 6 to 1, 6 to 4. Bundy will play the winner of the Sinsabaugh-Bell match tomorrow for the lower half final place. A southerner is sure to meet a northerner in the finals, which insures an interesting tussle Saturday afternoon.

Two southern teams today won their way to the finals of the mixed doubles and that championship is therefore, already in the South's possession. Miss Florence Sutton and Sinsabaugh got their place in the finals by defeating two of the North's strongest teams, Miss Golda Meyer and George Janes, and Miss Ethel Radcliffe and Maurice McLaughlin. The former they defeated by the score of 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, and the latter, 6-3, 6-0.

Mrs. Farquhar and Bell beat Mrs. Bruce and Bundy, 6-4, 2-6, 6-0; and Miss Hazel Hotchkiss and C. Foley 8-6, 1-6, 6-4. Miss Radcliff and McLaughlin put Miss Valleau and Albert Spalding out of the running in the first round by a score of 6-3, 1-6, 6-3.

Many matches in the men's doubles were played today. In a splendidly fought contest late in the afternoon, Bert Spalding and Tom Bundy retired the Veterans, Bell and Braly, by a score of 4-6, 9-7, 6-3. Spalding played the best style he has shown so far in the tournament and Bundy kept up his uniformly good work. In the upper half of the doubles Sinsabaugh and Hendricks went through Gowan and Cassell and Hopper and Woodbury easily and are now opposed to Long and Gardner in the round before the semi-finals.

LAIES' GOLF SEMI-FINALS.

On the golf links the ladies played the semi-finals in the contest for the Del Monte cup: Scratch, Mrs. Martin and Mrs. Nicol (8.) the latter winning by 2 up; Miss West (6) played Mrs. George (12,) Miss West leading by 2 up. In the finals for the Del Monte cup for men, R. G. Hayne beat R. G. Hanford by 6 up and 4 to play.

The silver cup offered by Mrs. Nickle for putting contest was won by Mrs. F. W. Skaife with a score of 23 and 23. Mrs. Gilmore taking the second prize.

Messrs. C. Stewart of Annandale Golf Club of Pasadena, W. B. Walton of Los Angeles Country Club, and A. C. Denman, Jr., of Redlands have been added to the golf committee.

Jackson and Wallace.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—Young Peter Jackson of Boston and Harry Wallace of Chicago have been matched to meet in a twenty-round bout here September 18. Jackson is in Goldfield and Wallace in San Francisco. They will arrive next week. They are middleweights and will fight at about 158 pounds.

SEALS LOSE LONG BATTLE.

Fourteen Innings Go Before Looloos Win.

Bernard and Carlisle Bat in Bobby Eager Twice.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After San Francisco and Los Angeles had played fourteen innings of the most sensational baseball ever seen on the local diamond, the men from the South chased the run over the plate that gave them the long end of a 2 to 1 score.

From the tap of the gong until Spencer forced Hildebrand out at second base in the fourteenth inning, there was not a dull moment. Plays seemingly impossible were made by the several fielders, and on more than one occasion some brilliant fielding cut off a run which meant the game.

Coupled with all the great ball playing was as fine an exhibition of umpiring as one would care to see. Both Moore and Perrine had plenty of hard work to do, but both went through it with clean scores. Oscar Jones did the hill duty, and he pitched a truly remarkable game of ball, but in the seventh and in the fourteenth innings he walked Bobby Eager, and on both occasions the Angels' backstop worked his way around to the plate.

Bill Burns was the other artist in the pitcher's box, and Boston made no mistake when they sent in a draft for the big southpaw. While he gave one more hit than Jones, the big fellow kept them so well scattered they did but little damage. Then, again, just when a wallop of any kind meant damage to him, he shot them over so that the Seals either missed them or hit light, pop-up flies.

The first tally of the game came in the seventh, and that ever-fatal base on balls was the forerunner. Eager was the man to get the pass, and he went to second when the Angels' big boxman laid down a neat sacrifice.

There he tarried just a moment and then he sprinted home when Bernard loosened a board in the right field fence that netted him two bags. San Francisco evened up matters, after they had opened the eighth inning. Irwin received one in the ribs and walked down to first.

Melchoir bunted to Burns and he got the ball to Delmas in time to nab Irwin. The new outfielder immediately stole second and romped home on a long single by Nick Williams. That was all for Long's men, but he went on the warpath and told a couple of the players what he thought of them when they tossed away a run and the game in the final of the ninth.

Spencer lead off here with a single but was forced at the middle sack by Wheeler. George stole second and reached third on a light infield poke by Irwin. Charley tried to steal second and draw the throw from Eager so that Wheeler could score.

He drew the throw all right but Delmas whipped the ball back to the plate a few feet ahead of the shortstop and all hopes of a run vanished. Things ran along with the score one all till the first of the fourteenth and once more came the deadly base on balls and again Eager drew the prize.

He hopped to second on his game leg when Bernard hit safely and put his foot on the plate when Carlisle lifted one over Melchoir's head, up against the fence.

San Francisco tried hard enough and got two men on the bags but Delmas grabbed Spencer's hard-hit drive, touched second before Hildebrand could reach the bag and it was curtains for the Seals. The score:

St. Louis, 6; hits, 13; errors, 5.
Batteries—Hitt, Ewing and McLean; McGlynn and Marshall.

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

JOSS PITCHES GREAT BALL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CLEVELAND, Sept. 5.—Adrian Joss pitched in the rare form he displayed when he won ten straights early in the season, today, letting down the Detroit sluggers with but one hit. Score:

Cleveland, 3; hits, 7; errors, 0.
Detroit, 0; hits, 1; errors, 0.
Batteries—Joss and Clarke; Killian and Schmidt.

CHESBRO IN FORM.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—New York took the first game of a double-header from Philadelphia today. The second game was a pitchers' battle which darkness stopped at the end of the ninth with thes core a tie. Score:

Philadelphia, 2; hits, 8; errors, 4.
Batteries—Chesbro and Thomas; Bartley and Schreck.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Costly errors gave three runs, today, the visitors winning. Score:

Berry Not Alarmed.

Some of the northern newspapers are making stories over the fear that Manager Berry of the Los Angeles team entertains concerning the winter league. Berry himself declares this winter league makes him laugh and that he is anxiously awaiting the time when some of the managers of the winter league will commence to pay out $2500 per month in salaries and $500 in traveling expenses. There is probably little truth in the local rumor that Charley Reilly, the old third baseman of the Los Angeles team, is to manage one of the teams of the winter league. Charley would not make much of a hit as a manager for he never was very popular with the local fans, for some strange reason, although he is a good ball player and an earnest one who is trying every minute to win.

Oakland's Hard Luck.

The Oakland players stopped in San Francisco long enough on Tuesday to howl about the "hard luck" they had in this city last week, and that only this hard luck kept them from winning four out of six games. Figures speak for themselves. In the six games Oakland made sixty-four hits and fifteen errors, while Los Angeles had seventy-one hits and ten errors. These show that the local team out-hit Oakland and fielded in better style and the Smithy Kanes lost so many games simply because they did not hit as well or field as did the locals. In only two games did they out-hit the Looloos, and this is probably the reason they say they had "hard luck."

Byrnes for Portland.

Jimmy Byrnes, the old catcher for the Oakland team, has joined McCredie's team at Portland and will play with it the remainder of the season. He would not sign however, until McCredie promised him that he would be free when the season ends, as he desires to try his luck again next year in the East. He is one of the most popular players that ever appeared on the Coast and if McCredie had a few more like him the fans would not look upon the Tail Enders as such an impossible team. Poor McCredie got such a bad start that it is impossible for him to get into the running now.

Want High Racing.

Local sports have not finished laughing yet over the statement of Tom Williams, the racing magnate of Oakland, that the proposed track at Arcadia would not be given dates unless the Jockey Club could be assured that "racing would be on a high plane." This coming from the leader of the track at Oakland where about every other race for weeks was believed to be a "frame up," is enough to convulse the entire country. Williams probably knows as well as anyone that races at Arcadia are impossible, on account of the distance from this city.

Edisons Win Pennant.

First place in the Mercantile League has been awarded officially to the Edison Electric team, which took the pennant by winning fifteen games, losing but three, giving it a percentage of .833. Manager Ward and President Price, with the members of the team, will be banqueted by the Edison Company. The Pacific Mutuals finished second, with a standing of .769, and the Title, Guarantee Trust and L. A. County nine were third and fourth in the series.

Easy for Miss Sutton.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 5.—The first round in the ladies' doubles at the tri-State tennis tournament was played today, Miss May Sutton, the champion, making her first appearance. Miss Sutton and Miss Moyes defeated Miss Bell and Miss Miller, 6-1, 6-2.

Young Egyptian Prince Dilates on Their Beauty, Style, Wit and Wisdom.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Prince Dabroa, member of one of the oldest families in Egypt, is traveling in this country alone. The Prince is a fine-looking young man of 22 years. He speaks English and five other languages perfectly. He says he will go to Texas soon to study cotton raising methods there, as compared with those in Egypt.

On arriving at Philadelphia, Prince Dabroe said today:

"If one did not fear to be monotonous one would talk of nothing else than your women. They are beautiful, always well-dressed, intelligent and quick witted. They are better informed than any other women in the world."

When asked what is most interesting in America after the women, the Prince replied:

"The West, because it is different from any other country in the world. I want to see the South and see the cotton mills of that section. You know we have fine mills in Egypt, but we do not manufacture as fast as you do here."

Country Club Golf.

Competition for the President's cup at the Los Angeles Country Club will begin on Saturday afternoon, when the eighteen-hole qualifying round will be played. Sixteen are expected to qualify for the first and second rounds, which will be played off on Monday. The semi-finals and finals will be played off during the remainder of the week. Entries must be in by Saturday noon.

Horsemen to Meet.

The California Breeders' Association, which is the successor of the Los Angeles Harness Association, will meet next week to make plans for the meeting that it is the intention to have here in November.

"What was your father saying, Alb?"

"That you were going away, dear, and that the sooner I gave up thinking about you, the fatter I should be." "How did he know what was going to happen?"

"Ask me another and don't pay the bill. He's been as queer as white rabbits since yesterday—didn't go to Change this morning, but sat all day over a letter he's received. I shall be frightened of father just now. I really believe he's getting a bit balmy on the crumpet."

"Not talking about the man who feeds the furnace?"

"Why, there you've got it. We're going to Buckingham Palace in a motor cart and pretty quick about it. I'll be ashamed of such fine language, Alb—father says so. So I'm going to speak to you to begin with—when the dresses come home from the garden and the horses are under the ground for her lidyship. Only the chorus all day—lots of fun and the bricks come home and father with a watch-chain as big as Moses. I'll hear you were going to get the boot and he warned me against it. He can't afford to associate with the people nowadays"—don't yer never mind what you're a-doing, Alb. And I'm minding it all day long, just minding it when you came in, Alb. Don't you see her lidyship taking mutton chops? Couldn't eat nothink less, my dear—not such a day as this—blimme."

The latter, acquired in the streets, usually approached the purely vulgar when she was either angry or another of those times her nationality kept her from many of its penalties, was quite understood that some extraordinary must have happened between father and daughter to which this was neither the time nor place to discuss it.

"You are outside the Pav tonight and we'll have a good talk, Lois," he said; "I'll be listening here. Be there at eleven. Who knows, it may be the last time we shall ever meet in—"

A look of terror had come into the face—yes, the frail figure of the girl whom she asked the question.

"Don't cry, Lois—how do I know? I may want as a sailor——"

He laughed louder than before.

"You—a blueboy! Lord, how you would look. Fancy the aristocrat of Belgravia ordered about. Oh, my poor darling! Wouldn't you knock the very first that did it—oh, can't I see it!"

He was amused her immensely and he spoke upon it even in the street after Alb as Captain Jack—or rather, if he be the cabin-boy. And, of course, he would bring her a parrot from Brazils and perhaps a monkey.

"I'll keep a light in the winder for you should be shipwrecked in the street, Alb, and won't we go hornin' together. Oh, you silly boy; oh, my old Captain Jack—whatever is the salterman into your mind?"

"The water," said Alban, as stolidly as he could, "somewhere, Lois. This is not to be nowhere-good God, how I am of it."

"Not one of those who go with you, Alb." "I'm ashamed of myself because of Lois."

"Silly boy, Alb—are they ashamed of me, be, no—people who love are never ashamed."

He did not contest the point with her, nor might she linger. Bells were ringing somewhere, sirens were calling people to work. It was a new day to Alban Kennedy to be strolling the streets with his hands in his pockets when the clock struck one. Only a week before he was become a loafer himself, just one of the many people who stare idly at the sky and listen the windows of the shops they may not patronize, or drift along as though a dark stream had caught them and never would set them on dry land again. He realized all this, and yet in a measure of his disaster was misunderstood. It was so remote—consequences yet unfelt, the fear of all, pregnant with the dread of change. He knew not what he should do, and yet despised that the shame of which he dreamed should never overtake him.

In determining, he strolled as far as Aldgate Station—and there he met a stranger.

CHAPTER VI.

THE STRANGER.

It was a great deal of fine philanthropic work done east of Aldgate by numbers of self-sacrificing people just down from the universities, when a slim parson laid his hand upon the arm and spoke a word with him, he considered immediately that he had attracted the notice of one of these and that the objective of his charity. "I beg your pardon," he said a little timidly, "in the case of stooping to such a thing I had long been revolting to me, I was within an ace of breaking with the fellow altogether. My name is Alban Kennedy, I wish you permit me to have a word with you?"

He looked the parson up and down, and the survey did something to reassure him. He found himself face to face with a man, it might be of middle age, whose complexion was not unpleasant, whose features frank and open, the possessor of fair brown hair and clothes not altogether free from the taint of that which scoffers call "the Hand" basin cult.

"I do not know you, sir."

"You do not—we are total strangers. My name is Sidney Geary; I am curate of St. Philip's Church at Hampstead. If we could go somewhere and have a few words, I would be very much obliged to you."

Alban hardly knew what to say to him. The manner was not that of a philanthropist desiring him to come to a "pleasant afternoon for the people;" he detected no air of patronage, no vulgar curiosity—indeed, the curate of St. Philip's was almost deferential.

"Well, sir—if you don't mind a coffee shop—"

"The very place. I have always thought that a coffee shop, properly conducted and entirely opposed to the alcoholic principle, is one of the most useful works in the civic economy. Let us go to a coffee shop by all means."

Alban crossed the road and, leading the stranger a little way eastward, turned into a respectable establishment upon the Lockhart plan—almost deserted at such an hour and the very place for a confidential chat.

"Will you have anything, sir?"

The curate looked at the thick cups upon the counter, turned his gaze for an instant upon a splendid pile of sausages, and shuddered a little omniously.

"I suppose the people here have excellent appetites," he reflected sagely. "I myself, unfortunately, have just lunched in Mount Street—but a little coffee—shall we not drink a little coffee?"

"Suppose I order you two doorsteps and a thick 'un?"

"My dear young fellow, what in heaven's name are 'two doorsteps and a thick 'un?' "

Alban smiled a little scornfully.

"Evidently you come from the West. I was only trying you. Shall we have two coffees—large? It isn't so bad as it looks by a long way."

The coffee was brought and set steaming before them. In an interval of silence Alban studied the curate's face as he would have studied a book in which he might read some account of his own fortunes. Why had this man stopped him in the street—

"Your first visit to Aldgate, sir?"

"Not exactly, Mr. Kennedy—many years ago I have recollections of a school treat at a watering-place near the river's mouth—an exceedingly muddy place since become famous, I understand. But I take the children to Eastbourne now."

"They find that a bit slow, don't they? Kids love mud, you know."

"They do—upon my word. A child's love of mud is one of the most incurable things in nature."

"Then why try to cure it?"

"But what are you to do?"

"Wash then, sir—you can always do that. My father was a parson, you know—"

"Good heavens, a clergyman—and you are come to—that it, you choose to live amidst these dreadful surroundings?"

"I do not choose—death chose for me."

"My poor boy——"

"Not at all sir. Give a man a good appetite and enough to gratify it, and I don't know that other circumstances count much."

"Trial has made of you an epicurean, I see. Well, well, so much the better. That which I have to offer you will be the more acceptable."

"Employment, sir?"

"Employment—for a considerable term. Good employment, Mr. Kennedy. Employment which will take you into the highest society, educate you, perhaps, open a great career to you—that is what I came to speak of."

The good man had meant to break the news more dramatically, but it flowed on now as a freshet released, while his eyes sparkled and his head wagged as though his whole soul were bursting with it. Alban thought for a moment that he had met one of those pleasant eccentrics who are not less rare in the East End than the West. "This good fellow has escaped out of an asylum," he thought.

"What kind of a job would that be, sir?"

"Your own. Name it and it shall be chosen for you. That is what I am commissioned to say."

"By whom, sir?"

"By my patron and by yours."

"Does he wish to keep his name back?"

"So little that he is waiting for you at his own house now."

"Then why shouldn't we go and see him, sir?"

He put the question fully believing that it would bring the whole ridiculous castle down with a crash, as it were, upon the table before him. Its effect, however, was entirely otherwise. The parson stood up immediately.

"My carriage is waiting," he said; "nothing could possibly suit me better."

Alban, however, remained seated.

"Mr. Geary," he exclaimed, "you have forgotten to tell me something."

"I can think of nothing."

"The conditions of this slap-up job—the high society and all the rest of it! What are the conditions?"

He spoke almost with contempt, and deliberately selected a vulgar expression. It had come to him by this time that some unknown friends had become interested in his career and that this amiable curate desired to make either a schoolmaster or an organist of him. "Old Boriskoff knew I was going to get the sack and little Lois has been chattering," he argued—nor did this line of reasoning at all console him. Sidney Geary, meanwhile, felt as though some one had suddenly applied a slab of melting ice to those grammatical nerves which Cambridge had tended so carefully.

"My dear Mr. Kennedy—not 'slap-up,' I beg of you. If there are any conditions attached to the employment my patron has to offer you, is not he the best person to state them? Come and hear him for yourself. I assure you it will not be a waste of time."

"Does he live far from here?"

"At Hampstead Heath—it will take us an hour to drive there."

"And did he send the char abanes especially for my benefit?"

"Not really—but naturally he did."

"Then I will go with you, sir."

He put on his cap slowly and followed the curate into the street—one of the girls racing after them to say that they had forgotten to pay the bill. "And a pretty sort of clergyman you must be, to be sure," was her reflection—to the curate's blushing annoyance and his quite substantial indignation.

"I find much impertinence in this part of the world," he remarked as they retraced their steps toward the West; "as if the girl did not know that it was an accident."

"We pay for what we eat down here." Alban rejoined dryly; "it's a good plan as you would discover if you tried it, sir."

Mr. Geary looked at the boy for an instant as though in doubt whether he had heard a sophism or a mere impertinence. This important question was not, however, to be decided; for a neat single brougham edged toward the pavement at the moment and a little crowd collected instantly to remark so signal a phenomenon.

"Your carriage, sir?" Alban asked.

"Yes," said the curate, quietly, "my carriage. And now, if you please, we will go and see Mr. Gessner. He is a Pole, Mr. Kennedy, and one of the richest men in London today."

CRAMMING FOR STANFORD.

BERKELEY BOYS FORM SCRUM IN DAILY PRACTICE.

Freshmen to Meet Barbarians from San Francisco on Admission Day. Fall Baseball and Track Work Is Popular—Albert Munn to Join Football Aggregation.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Sept. 4.—Coach Taylor has his large football squad of more than a hundred men at hard work preparing for the freshman game with the Barbarians, on Admission Day, and the 'varsity game, with the same team, on the following Saturday. Heretofore, the practice consisted almost entirely of running, punting, kicking and passing, but now considerable scrum work is engaged in by the old 'varsity squad men.

The outlook for a good team is promising, and although Dr. Taylor has as yet given out no names, it seems certain that all the old men who played in the big game of last year will be sure of their positions this season. Among these are Butler, Fairbanks, Haffey, Freeman, Cerf, Budelman and Tuller. Of last year's freshman team, among the men who are making a good run for the 'varsity are Burnham, Ashley, Johns, Webster, Miller, Foss and White.

Material for the 1911 team is as abundant as that for the 'varsity. Southern California is well represented among the likely candidates for the baby fifteen. McFie and Hammond of Los Angeles, Pauley of San Diego, Prendergast and O'Kelley of Redlands are developing into likely players.

While football is booming, Coach Garnett has had a large number of men sign with him for rowing. About forty freshmen and as many upper classmen have signed up for this sport. But three of last year's crew have returned to college—Witter, stroke and captain for this year; Ball, who rowed No. 2 last season, and Myers, coxswain. The majority of the 1910 crew have returned, and will be eligible for the 'varsity this year. Among the freshmen are several likely candidates, and the beginning class should be as well represented on the water this year as on the gridiron.

The first baseball game of the fall series, which was played last Saturday, showed that the 'varsity ought to be very strong this coming season. With but a week's practice it played as well in the main as its victors, the Giants of Oakland, one of the best semi-professional teams about the bay. The California men lost the contest on errors, due chiefly to the lack of practice. The game showed up an abundance of strong material. A contest is scheduled for next Saturday with the Olympic Club of San Francisco.

For the support of football and the football-training table, a grand football carnival has been planned at Idora Park, on September 28, at the height of the Alameda County Carnival.

Albert Munn, the crack track man of the Oakland High School, who has registered as a freshman at the university, has abandoned work on the track squad, and is now one of the most promising candidates for a place on the Rugby team. From indications it is quite probable that Munn will be given a place. Munn in following this policy has startled the undergraduates at the university, who had strong hopes of the points he would turn in the intercollegiate freshman meet with Stanford. Munn, owing to the fact that he is a first-year student, would not be eligible to represent the Blue and Gold in the 'varsity track meet.

TAFT AND STRAUS MEET.

Cabinet Secretaries Visit Yellowstone Park at Same Time and Hold Conference.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LIVINGSTON (Mont.) Sept. 5.—Secretary Taft and party left Yellowstone Park today and started for Portland, over the Northern Pacific Railroad.

Mr. Taft and Oscar Straus, Secretary of Commerce and Labor, met in the park. Mr. Straus is returning from a two months' inspection of the affairs of his department on the Pacific Coast and in the Hawaiian Islands. He went eastward today and will proceed directly to Oyster Bay and see the President. Mr. Straus said that the Pacific Coast was enjoying a season of unprecedented prosperity.

Mr. Taft, he thought, was the choice of the Western Republicans for President. He and Mr. Taft had a long conference last night. Mrs. Straus is with Secretary Straus.

FINISH—
This home is finished throughout, the lower floor in fine quarter-sawed oak, put in by the best workmen obtainable in the city. SPECIAL NOTICE.
The glass used in bookcases, buffet doors and throughout the house where bevel plate is used, is the best in the market, quoted today at $3.50 per square foot.

DINING ROOM—
This large, cheerful room, with walls paneled 5 ft. high with oak, has a specially designed, built-in buffet with heavy glass doors and hand-carved oak trimming. In the pantry in the rear, bountiful shelf, bin and drawer room is available.

ENTRANCE—
The whole front of the house has plate-glass windows, while the entrance itself is of heavy oak with art plate glass on the sides, making a very attractive appearance.

DEN—
This room, so dear to the heart of every man, has walls of paneled oak and luxurious imported tapestries, together with a mantel finished in old gold and built-in bookcases with plate-glass doors furnished with glass knobs.

BEDROOMS—

EXTRAS—
The cemented and bricked cellar contains the best furnace manufactured; the large cemented porch in front extends the whole width of the house and everything else in the appointments of the place is strictly up to date, even to an interior telephone.

On Saturday, Sunday and Monday, September 7, 8 and 9, the Santa Fe will sell excursion tickets at half fare, good for return till Tuesday, the 10th.

This is the cheapest excursion of the year and as it applies to all Santa Fe towns in Southern California it makes a fine opportunity for a short holiday.

One can go around the Kite-Shaped track or to Redlands or Riverside or the big celebration at San Bernardino; or he can go to San Diego, or Oceanside, or the other places on the beach, or he can go to Los Angeles and see and do the thousand and one places and things to be done in our metropolis—or if he happens to be in these places he can go somewhere else.

The Santa Fe people are broad-minded and don't care just where you go so long as you go, but they insist on that: Keep a-movin'.

IN MEMORIAM.

M'KINLEY STATUE IS DEDICATED.

MEMORIAL MONUMENT UNVEILED AT BUFFALO.

Citizen Soldiers, United States Regulars and Regiment of Canada Participate in Ceremonies—Charles E. Hughes, Governor of New York, Delivers Oration.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) Sept. 5.—The dedication of the McKinley monument and its presentation to the State by the monument commission was the feature today of the Old Home week celebration.

The programme included a parade in which two battalions of the Twelfth United States Infantry, two regiments, N.G.N.Y., Thirteenth Royal Canadian Regiment of Hamilton and the Royal Fusileers of London, Ont., participated.

The dedication ceremonies began at 2 o'clock p.m. There were addresses by Mayor Adams, Harlan G. Swift, department commander of the New York G.A.R., and Mrs. Donald McLean, president-general Daughters of the American Revolution. The presentation of the monument to the State was made by Chairman E. H. Butler of the McKinley Monument Committee, and acceptance of the monument by Charles E. Hughes, Governor of New York. Gov. Hughes said:

"Here was marked the tragedic termination of a great hero. In an awful moment there were revealed in a sudden lurid flash the opposing forces whose conflict is the history of mankind. Never did evil commit a more dastardly deed. The victim was the chosen representative of the American people—no less representative in his death than in his life. The assassin's blow was aimed at American institutions represented in the head of the nation, and McKinley fell because he was our President.

"In memory of his martyrdom, in the memory of a heroic death, in testimony to the futility of insensate envy and the lasting supremacy of law and order, in memory of a worthy life crowned by its sad sacrifice, this monument has been erected.

SERVICES IMPERISHABLE.

"The vitality of democracy may be measured by the generosity of its tributes to fidelity and its appreciation of honorable motive and public spirit. Cynicism is a destroying canker, and in proportion as we revere those who in the past have borne the burdens of the republic, gratefully recognize our indebtedness to their service and profit by the lessons of the experiences, shall we prove our capacity to meet the demands and solve the problems of a later day. An ungrateful republic cannot endure.

"The services of him in whose honor we meet are an unimperishable part of the nation's history. It is a significant and gratifying characteristic of the American people that more than particular benefit conferred by service they prize the virtues of character, which in the course of service are exemplified. Fidelity to friendship, the exquisite grace of a husband's devotion, the honor of manhood, the beauty of the forbearance of unwearied patience, endeared William McKinley to the hearts of his fellow-citizens.

"We may see but dimly into the future. We may be confused by the perplexities of our modern life, made the more difficult by the very riches of our inheritance, but as we set our course by the Pole Star of truth and justice and conserve the ideals of character which our fathers have taught us to revere, we shall not fail."

IN MEMORY OF MARTYR.

The monument was erected by the State of New York on a site approved by the city of Buffalo. It is in the form of an obelisk of white marble eighty-six feet high and is situated at Niagara Square, at the intersection of Niagara and Court streets and Delaware avenue. The obelisk rests upon a pedestal fourteen feet high, the base of which is twelve feet above the street level. The whole is surrounded by a tesselated promenade, embellished with ornate parapets and balustrades and splashing fountains. On four sides of the base of the column are inscriptions, the last of which is as follows:

"William McKinley died in Buffalo, September 14, 1901, victim of a treacherous assassin, who shot the President as he was extending to him the hand of courtesy."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

RENOUNCES HIS FORMER FAITH.

MRS. EDDY'S DISCIPLE DENOUNCES CHRISTIAN SCIENCE.

Served Term in Penitentiary for Permitting His Daughter to Die Without Medical Attendance, and He and His Family Were Neglected by Members of His Cult.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Clarence W. Byrne, just from the penitentiary, where he was committed on account of his practice of Mrs. Eddy's teachings, stood tonight in the First Church of Christ, Scientist, and, after upbraiding the sect for its lack of charity, renounced his faith.

Byrne, on August 3, was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment for failing to provide medical attendance for his six-year-old daughter, Violet Margaret Byrne, who last May died of bronchial pneumonia.

The man arose tonight when the invitation was given to the fashionably-attired congregation to give its testimony, and looked gravely about him. The gravity of his expression, his deep-set eyes, and his air of dignity and poise made his words dramatic and impressive.

"Friends," he said, "for twelve years I followed the teachings of Christian Science, and now I stand before you tonight, speaking for the last time in any Christian Science church. I suffered for you, and you, the people of my faith, repudiated me.

"I come here without bitterness or malice toward any man. To the judge who sentenced me, I take off my hat. What could he know of the religion which I practiced? How could he understand? He did his duty as he saw it, and as the law and the logic of events forced him to do. But to you, the members of what was once my church, I cannot take off my hat.

"For twelve years I had prevailed against disease and had borne testimony to my faith. I was in prison and you comforted me not. Silver and gold I had none. I was not a financier. If I had been it might have perhaps been different. I suffered all things and for that I was repudiated by you. I was deeply oppressed. My two children had no one to aid them."

The Christian Scientists sat for almost a minute in a bewildered daze and then the chairman arose in the gallery and made a general argument in favor of the cult.

Mr. Byrne, talking later of the experiences of the evening, said that he was forever through with Christian Science.

KING BLAMED FOR DIVORCE.

Because England's Ruler Admired Mrs. Brown, Her Husband Now Seeks a Separation.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LEXINGTON (Ky.) Sept. 5.—A divorce suit, which is considered the result of an estrangement caused by King Edward of England, came to light yesterday after having been kept secret since June. The suit was filed by Lewis T. Brown, against Margaret Johnson Brown, on the ground of abandonment.

Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Claude M. Johnson, formerly European agent of the Hoe Press Company with headquarters in London.

Mrs. Brown was a woman of rare beauty, and attracted attention everywhere. Matters came to a climax when they attended a theater where King Edward was attracted by Mrs. Brown's beauty, and asked for an introduction. Brown objected and his wife ridiculed his objection.

To this incident, it is said, is due the estrangement and separation. Brown returns to Kentucky and is now in the government revenue service at Maysville, Ky.

SEEKS HEALTH IN VAIN.

Charles H. Deere, Millionaire Plow Manufacturer, Suffers from Disease That Ends Fatally.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Charles H. Deere, the millionaire plow manufacturer of Moline, Ill., after a three years' search in vain for relief from stomach trouble, is a patient at a private hospital here, suffering from pernicipus anaemia, usually a fatal disease.

Mr. Deere, who is 70 years of age, has little chance for ultimate recovery, according to the hospital authorities.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS

Buying was not as active yesterday as usual, but there were few changes in prices.

Butter continued very firm, with a leaning toward still better prices. In some quarters creamery extras sold for 29 cents. The prevailing price was 27½ cents.

Eggs were in good demand at higher figures. California ranch brought 28 and 34 cents and local case count, 30 and 31. The market closed firm with the prospect of further advance.

There was an abundance of Salaway peaches at easy prices, the demand being very light. Fresh arrivals of northern Bartlett pears were sold at 4 cents a pound. The request for sugar pears was better at $1 a box. Grapes continued in ample supply and steady demand, with a decline of 25 cents on Tokays. Seedless grapefruit was extra fine and brought good prices. The request for fancy lemons continued urgent, with prices very firm at $3.75 and $4.50 a box. Fancy apples were wanted, but prevailing stiff prices somewhat interfered with sales. Imported watermelons of superior quality sold at 1 cent a pound. Hungarian and Damson plums went off the market. Green Gages were in fair demand at $1 and German plums at from $1.50 to $1.65 a box.

The call for vegetables was at low ebb, potatoes and tomatoes only being in demand. Prices are at bottom with stock in oversupply. Local and highland Burbank potatoes were plentiful enough but prices held firm. Extra fancy were offered from $2.10 to $2.40. Tomatoes sold well at an advance on fancy grades of 10 cents a box. Inferior qualities maketed as low as 15 cents. Eggplant was disposed of at 4 and 5 cents a pound.

The poultry market remained unchanged. Receipts were light. There was a good call for hens.

On the exchange local candled and case-count eggs were offered at very high figures and bids were high. Offerings of butter were at a minimum and at high prices. Large offerings of apples were out of range of bids. The day's sales were 5 dozen hens.

The receipts of produce as reported for yesterday's exchange were as follows: Eggs, 748 cases; butter, 12,481 lbs.; cheese, 1220 lbs.; potatoes, 2600 sacks; onions, 43 sacks; beans, none; sweet potatoes, none.

NEW YORK MARKET.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The bad news which has been supposed to be hanging over the stock market eventuated today in announcement of a failure of a stock exchange house, after which, and the Burlington extra dividend declaration, there was a buoyant recovery from the weakness which had been in evidence yesterday, and early today. This is the first failure of a stock exchange firm which has occurred through all the drastic contraction of values of securities of the spring and summer, a record which has a subject of surprise. The trouble which pulled the firm down was not of the immediate past, as was the general supposition, surmise pointing to the shrinkage to some of the Northwestern Railroad group among the earliest in the severe decline, as the origin of the embarrassment. The incident called attention to the fact that an installment of three million dollars of Great Northern subscription is payable tomorrow and it revived to consideration of these recurrent requirements for capital already subscribed but not paid. On September 20, there is payable the final installment on the Union Pacific convertible bonds, which will call for $27,500,000. It was intimated today that there would be no extension of the syndicate 2½ per cent which underwrote these bonds, and also only a small portion of the syndicates holdings has been marketed. On October 1, again, there falls due $11,400,000 for subscriptions to Northern Pacific stock. No small part of the uneasiness prevalent in the stock market has been due to the knowledge of the difficulties involved in finding resources for meeting accruing calls of this kind by reason of the tight money market. The fact that failure is an after effect of events so far in the past left an unpleasant impression on sentiment. The feeling of relief over having the matter out of the way overbore other considerations and also left a short interest uncovered that had sold stocks on early information of the trouble. The special weakness of the Hill stocks in the early dealings on account of the coming feature was supplemented by depression in the copper stocks. There was another factor in the stability of the price of copper here on the level of this week. On the other hand, advices from the iron trade were encouraging. The easier tone of time money was still evident, but rates for call loans were slightly stiffer. The extra dividend on Burlington stock confirmed rumors many times renewed in the past of an intended reduction cutting for the Hill stockholders, but the increase in the regular dividend rate was a surprise. The announcement coming in the midst of unfavorable influences of the stock exchange firm's failure on these stocks caused a violent upward reaction and turned the whole market buoyant, in which state it remained until the close. Bonds were firm; total sales, par value, $977,000. United States 4's declined 1-4 on call.

DON CHICK'S DEATH.

County Farm Superintendent Tuberculosis Victim—Had Charge of Building Third-street Tunnel.

Don Chick, superintendent of the County Farm, died there yesterday afternoon, after an illness of several months, from tuberculosis. He leaves a widow and one daughter. The funeral will be held at the chapel of Robert Sharp & Son, and will be under the auspices of Ramona Parlor, Native Sons of the Golden West, and the Los Angeles Aerie of Eagles will attend in a body. The hour of the funeral, which will take place tomorrow, has not been determined.

Don Chick, who was in his fortieth year, was a native son, having been born in San Francisco. He was of Scotch-Irish ancestry, and possessed the traits of these people, which made him popular with those with whom he came in contact. He was a man of executive ability, and during the few months he had been in charge of the County Farm there had come about a marked change in conditions there. The inmates respected and admired the great-hearted, determined superintendent, and he inspired them to their best efforts on the place. As a result, they were happier for their occupation, and their labors told on the general appearance of the farm.

Don Chick came to Los Angeles from the northern part of the State about fifteen years ago. He immediately became stage carpenter at the old Grand Operahouse on Main street. Later he went to the Los Angeles Theater, now the Orpheum, and took charge of the stage. He became a scenic builder of no mean ability.

He was always interested in politics, and six years ago was a candidate for the office of Superintendent of Streets. At the time of building the Third-street tunnel he was selected as its superintendent, and there he also demonstrated his good executive ability and his faculty for handling large forces of men.

Later he returned to the theaters, and was made stage director of the Hotchkiss. On the opening night there Chick, in attempting to board a car, slipped and fell under its wheels. His leg was crushed, and he was forced to have it amputated.

Eventually he recovered from this accident, and upon the organization of the present Board of Supervisors he was made superintendent of the County Farm. Since that time he and his family had made their residence at the farm.

Obituary.

Edward Winslow Childs, whose death is noticed elsewhere in this morning's paper, was the youngest son of Stephen and Harriet B. Childs of New Hartford, Oneida county, New York. When about 19 years of age he went to Indianapolis, where he engaged in business for eighteen months, then accepted a position in Chicago, and remained there for five years. At this time, his health requiring a milder climate, he came West, first to Rawlins, Wyoming, then to California. Twenty-one years ago, spending most of that time in Los Angeles. He was for several years head bookkeeper for the Simon Mair Packing Company, going from there to the First National Bank of Long Beach, where he remained as assistant cashier until failing health caused him to resign his position. The funeral services today will be conducted by the Rev. Dr. Prichard, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Childs was a member.

Circus Parade to Be Three Miles Long and of Unusual Richness and Splendor.

Ringling Bros.' street parade on Monday, September 23, promises to be one of the most splendid pageants ever seen in the streets of Los Angeles. Since it was last here the circus has been greatly enlarged, and the street display will give some indication of the size and splendor of the exhibitions which will be given under canvas.

In design and equipment the features of the parade will be as novel as attractive. Oriental draperies, the finest of silks and broadcloths, silver-spun harness, imported hand-carved and gold-washed chariots will lend color and richness to a procession three miles long, in which over 1000 men, women and children will take part.

This circus is now so large that railroads are taxed to the utmost in transporting it from city to city. The five trains, the combined length of which is one mile and a half, are only loaded and unloaded on time by the employment of the most perfect discipline and method.

Ringling Bros. now have in their organization over 300 imported performers, who are making their first tour of this country, and who present novelties never before seen on this side of the Atlantic.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

VIENNA, Sept. 5.—It is officially stated that there is no truth in the report of the attempted assassination of Emperor Francis Joseph.

CAT GHOSTS DUE AT HOUSE OF MYSTERY.

Yard of Dead Felines Dug Up on Premises Where Neighbors Believe Nightly Torture Was Inflicted. Burying Doctor Arrested.

DING-DONG-BELL, pussy's in the well, pussy's in a bad way out at the "house of mystery" on West Twenty-eighth street, so dubbed by the neighbors, who have marveled for several weeks at the nocturnal sounds of feline agony that have emanated from the place. A raid on the place was made by the police and cruelty-prevention officers yesterday afternoon, and Dr. R. P. Martenette, occupant of the premises, was arrested on a misdemeanor charge. He was released upon depositing $50 bail at the University Police Station.

Scenes and figures in yesterday's raid on the "house of mystery" on West Twenty-eighth street (center), whence emanated agonized cries of cats that seemed to be in torture. Top picture shows officers disinterring felines "planted" by Dr. R. P. Martenette (below), who first denied, then admitted, that he had made a pussy cemetery of his back yard, his confession resulting in his arrest.

It was after amazing complaints, alleging barbarous treatment of cats, had been received by Superintendent Zimmer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, and by the police, that yesterday's descent was made upon the place.

Things were getting so bad, the neighbors said, that they could not sleep o' nights—not the usual, midnight serenades of happy felines, frolicking in the moonlight, but the agonized cries of cats, seemingly in horrible distress.

The bodies of numbers of dead cats were exhumed in the back yard of the mysterious place yesterday. An autopsy on one of them, performed by Health Officer De Biron of Pasadena, indicated that the animal had starved, and that it had suffered from some intense irritant placed in its throat.

Dr. Martenette, who is president of the Gastrino Chemical Company, and Mrs. A. M. Woodward, its secretary, declared that they were friends of cats; that, instead of torturing the animals, they had been running a sort of cat hospital and family fortress for forlorn felines.

STATEMENTS TANGLED.

Unfortunately for Dr. Martenette and the secretary, they made statements to the officers that promptly were shown to be falsehoods, and more mystery consequently was heaped upon that already existing.

The "house of mystery," at No. 128 West Twenty-eighth street, is the laboratory of the company that manufactures a preparation known as gastrino, for which claims are made as a remedy for gastric disorders—"for all stomach troubles and seasickness," the sign reads. The concern once operated at Jefferson and Royal streets. Dr. Martenette had trouble there once, in which a gun and a dog were involved. It was some one else's dog.

Somehow the neighbors got to connecting the troubles of the cats with the stomach-trouble chaser, but Dr. Martenette laughed at the surmise. The formula of the preparation, according to the doctor and his secretary, is a secret.

The stories that came to the officers were that things were not as they should be with the dozen or more cats that once were known to frisk around the house before the mystery got so dank.

One of the neighbors said he had heard some one in the back yard of the house of mystery ask someone else if they hadn't better "burn that cat."

Several persons said they had seen Dr. Martenette and Mrs. Woodward out in the back yard with the cats, taking them up one at a time and giving them doses from a bottle. It might have been "knock-out drops" or most anything, for all the witnesses could tell. Anyway, the cats didn't seem to enjoy the treatment.

STUFFED THE CATS.

Some said the cats were stuffed into a coat sleeve that acted as a sort of strait-jacket to prevent pussy from scratching, especially from giving those angry digs with both hind legs that all lovers of hateful cats know so well.

William Jones, who has housekeeping apartments at the home of Mrs. W. H. Price, next door to the house of mystery, said that he and his wife were awakened last Sunday night by the continuous cries of a cat in the gastrino barn. The animal seemed to be in intense misery, said Mr. Jones. He and his wife got up and looked out but could see nothing. The yowls really were distressing, he said, and it was a long time before he and Mrs. Jones could get to sleep again.

The thing got on Mrs. Price's nerves so badly that she could not sleep in a room next to the Martenette yard. One day when there was a bonfire in the place next door, she thought she smelled flesh and cat fur burning.

"Mercy!" she cried out to Mrs. Woodward, who was working around the fire. "You are not burning up any of those kitties, are you?"

"No, I'm not," was the tart reply.

"Well," remarked Mrs. Price, taking another whiff from her dining-room window, "it smells like cat meat burning."

"If you would shut your window, you wouldn't smell it," rejoined Mrs. Woodward, cattily, "you're crazy, anyway." Mrs. Price said she said.

So Mrs. Price shut the window.

JUST AN OLD COAT.

It was explained yesterday by the gastrino president and secretary that the smell was that of an old woolen coat burning. They said they were not to blame if the coat smelled like a cat on fire. Singed cats and singed coats smell much the same.

After most of these things had been reported from various sources, Super-

FINDS FOX IN CHURCH.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 5.—Rev. C. M. Crist, of the First Methodist Church, captured a gray fox in the basement of the building. There has been no more remarkable occurrence in this city for years. The capture was only effected after a very exciting time on the part of the clergyman, who finally threw a rope over the creature's head as it was speeding past him to climb a stairway.

How the animal got there is a mystery, and it is not known how long it was in the cellar. The clergyman had been disturbed on several occasions while in his study, and finally decided to search out the cause of the strange noises coming from the basement.

As he stepped to the ground floor he descried through the uncertain light a strange, lithe animal flash past him. Again the object was seen gliding uncannily through the gloom. Securing a rope, he pursued the creature. The clergyman took a position close to where the animal had made several appearances, and as it dashed by he threw his rope, which encircled its neck. When taken into the light it was found to be a full-grown fox. It is believed that at some time during the summer, when one of the cellar windows was opened, the animal had leaped in. It may have been a prisoner there for several weeks.

HIS LAST PERIL.

BRAVE PIONEER NEARING END.

FEARLESSLY FACED DEATH IN THE EARLY DAYS.

Drove First Stage Into Los Angeles and Organized First Texas-California Route—Courage and Marksmanship Fear of Bandits and Desperadoes.

Oscar Todd, who established the first stage route from Texas to California, and drove the first stage into Los Angeles, lies at the point of death at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred L. Baker, No. 4674 Pasadena avenue. He was unconscious yesterday.

Mr. Todd, who is 72 years old, has led a life of adventure and played a prominent part in the early days of this State. In 1858 he came across the plains, piloting a large party to the Golden West. At a time when it was hazardous to carry valuables without a heavy guard, Todd drove his stage fearlessly and trusted to his rifle and small arms for protection.

Mexican bandits frequently attacked the few Americans here at that time and their raids were marked by death and pillage, but they left Todd severely alone. His courage and marksmanship made him feared by the worst desperadoes. He was once threatened with death if he drove a stage into Los Angeles. He did it and no one dared oppose his entrance.

His bravery did much to secure the ultimate safety of Americans in the pueblo of Our Lady of the Angels.

When the Civil War broke out Todd left California and enlisted in the Federal ranks. He fought with credit in the battles of Vicksburg, Shiloh, Lookout Mountain and Chicamauga and is an honored member of the Grand Army of the Republic.

But he could not resist the call of the West, and, in 1865 he made a second journey across the plains to Los Angeles. When the danger of life on the Arizona border attracted him, he became a stage driver in the Territory.

When the overland stage route was projected from Austin, Tex., to Los Angeles, Todd arranged the details for the undertaking. He planned the route and provided for relays. His experience as a driver on routes infested by robbers made him especially competent to manage the stage line.

The later years of Mr. Todd's life have been spent peacefully in this city.

He has three daughters here, Mrs. Baker, with whom he lives, Mrs. Ethel Kennedy, a widow, who also makes her home with Mrs. Baker, and Mrs. Warren Kennedy, who lives on Pico street. He has two brothers, C. D. Todd of No. 1416 South Flower street, and E. S. Todd of East Hollywood.

REFUGEE FUNDS.

Chamber of Commerce Committee Discusses Plans for Winding Up San Francisco Disaster Account.

At a meeting yesterday of the Chamber of Commerce Relief Committee in charge of the funds subscribed for sufferers by the San Francisco disaster, there was a discussion of the best means of disposing of the money now on hand. A report was submitted by the sub-committee, of which F. Q. Story is chairman, showing that about $34,000 is available, and that 350 refugees still in Los Angeles are yet incapable of complete self-support.

One suggestion was that each of these refugees be allotted enough money to meet needs that will arise pending the gaining of employment or return to health, and that the remainder be sent to San Francisco or handled otherwise, in the discretion of the committee.

It was estimated that probably $14,000 would be required to extend further relief to refugees now here, thus leaving a balance of $20,000 in the fund.

Should this discussed allotment be made, the refugees would be given to understand that it would be the last.

However, no decision was reached at yesterday's meeting. The matter will be taken up again for disposition.

TRAGEDY OF YEARS.

LIFE OF HELL HE TELLS OF.

Millionaire Accuses Doctor of Blackmail.

Latter Writes Scathingly of Former's Career.

Refers to "Purchase Price of My Wife."

In default of $4000 bail, and facing charges which, if substantiated, may send him to State prison for five years, Dr. J. S. Owens, a physician with offices at Hotel Ramona, is confined in the County Jail. J. Whyte Evans, millionaire and former president of the United Railway Company of Portland, Or., is the complainant.

Owens is charged with "sending threatening letters with intent to extort money," a felony under Section 523 of the penal code. There are two counts and bail has been placed at $2000 on each count.

When arrested yesterday morning Owens showed great surprise. On finding that he could not secure bail he asked Deputy Dist.-Atty. Paul McCormack to allow him to go to his home in Ocean Park in charge of an officer, saying that the County Jail was "no place for a gentleman." The request was denied.

The charges against Owens are sensational in the extreme. The trouble between him and Evans dates back about twenty years. According to the complaining witness, during that time immense sums have been paid the physician in the attempt to keep him from making disclosures.

Evans's wife is the daughter of Capt. C. H. Hance, City Treasurer, and was formerly the wife of Owens. Under the name of Minnie Hance Owens she acquired considerable reputation as a singer. In one letter from Owens, which Evans submits as evidence in the case, it is apparently hinted that the latter stole her from her former husband, Owens speaking of the "purchase price of my wife."

The strongest piece of evidence submitted is a letter written by Owens on February 28, 1906, and sent to Evans at Portland. In this letter a demand is made for the payment of $6193.20, said to be due him. The writer states that the actual debt is far in excess of the sum demanded, but offers to accept the amount named in full settlement. In the course of the letter Owens writes:

"In submitting the within account against you and Minnie Evans, which represents only a part of your indebtedness to me, but which will cancel any financial claim against you if paid or secured at once, I cannot refrain from commenting only in a limited way upon your past, and sincerely hope the refreshment of your memory on a few of your misdeeds may prove an impetus to make a better man of you in the future."

Again Owens writes:

"Before taking up these items let me revert to history in the days when you were employed at the Chino ranch. When George Arnold had a tempting bank account in a Pomona bank and Gertie De Witt had also a flush one in Los Angeles. You probably have not forgotten that you told me how you obtained that money which was so far in excess of your salary that it enabled you to go abroad and do many things which your modest income did not warrant.

"This, as well as other matters which I am about to refresh your memory on, has much to do with this account. The money thus obtained formed in part the nucleus of the Pan-American deal. In that, if you will allow me the expression, I grub-staked you. I not only gave you your bed and board, but when hope and all resources were gone, I furnished you with money to proceed to Mexico where you obtained the purchase price of my wife.

"Thus far you have defrauded me out of what was due me in that deal, and I am now trying to think of something you might have done which savored of honesty. Was it when you pilotted the fugitive from justice through Mexico and exacted the pound of flesh? And the other money which he intrusted to you for another purpose, did you really misappropriate it or at least a goodly portion?

"If you are proud of the end you achieved, so must you be justly so of the time you served."

ANOTHER SCATHING EPISTLE.

Under date of October 6, same year, Owens writes:

"In reply to your letter of the 28th, ult., which I have before me, I desire to inform you that I shall religiously respect your request in reference to wires which I have been sending. Since I deem that the use of telegraphy will be wholly unnecessary I have concluded to bring a civil action in the State of California against you and Minnie Evans for the amount of your indebtedness to me which you have repudiated by reason of your failure to fulfill our agreement to come here and settle with me as soon as you had disposed of your interests in the United Railway Company.

"I am quite aware that paying railroad fare is quite as distasteful to you as liquidating an honest debt. However, in order to make it easy for you, I am now arranging for transportation, so that you both may travel on one fare. In pursuance of this I have asked an official to get me a transcript of your commitment in San Quentin, that I may take that with the record of your application for citizenship in the United States and present it to the grand jury.

"You possibly have not forgotten that when you and I went before Judge Allen in this city to apply for naturalization papers that among the questions asked was 'whether you had ever been in jail' or 'convicted of a felony.' I noticed the crimson flush but thought it that of an innocent man. You answered the question in the negative and your papers were issued. Uncle Sam is peculiar in his aversion to aliens who have not a good record and positively refuses to allow an ex-convict to land on our shores and fixes as punishment to those who through perjury become naturalized a minimum of ten years. However, that is a matter between you and Uncle Sam.

"In posing as an 'Injured Innocent' in your last communication you seem to forget that you left your former wife and child destitute (to say nothing of the wife and child you deserted in Scotland.) She will probably have first claim after my debt is liquidated.

"Don Luis" Williams, "Father of Bisbee," dead here.

FINIS.

COPPER QUEEN'S KING SUMMONED.

"FATHER OF BISBEE" DIES IN HIS HOME HERE.

"Don Luis" Williams of Arizona, Developer of Great Mine, and After Whom Town Is Named, Passes Suddenly—Pallbearers Who Carried Wife to Grave Called Again.

Lewis Williams, familiarly known as "Don Luis, father of Bisbee," who with his brother, developed the great Copper Queen mine which gave birth to Bisbee, Ariz., died suddenly in this city yesterday.

One of nature's noblemen closed his eyes to the world when Williams fell prostrate on the floor of his residence, on Harvard boulevard, and his heart ceased to beat.

A splendid specimen of Welshman, after a long career of activity throughout the mining regions of this country and his native Wales, Williams had for five years lived in quiet retirement here, surrounded by the comforts of a delightful home.

Much of the light went out of his life when his aged wife died, less than three months ago, for with her, his daily pleasure was to wander among the flowers with which he had surrounded himself, feasting upon their perfume and dwelling fondly upon the beauty about him.

Lewis Williams was born in Swansea, Wales, December 9, 1834; came to America in 1855, and engaged in mining and smelting, as he had done in Swansea. He operated in Connecticut and the copper region of Michigan, then Utah and Nevada. Finally came the great success with the opening up of the famous Copper Queen by himself and brother Ben, at Bisbee. After nineteen years at Bisbee, "Don Luis," as he was popularly called, retired from active business, still with holdings in the great mine, and with his brother, built the beautiful home on Harvard boulevard. He was known as the "Father of Bisbee," because the town was named, at his suggestion, after his early partner, Judge DeWitt Bisbee of San Francisco. The town of Don Luis, Ariz., was named after Williams.

At the time of his death his only brother, Ben, was in the home, as was Mrs. James Douglass, the only child of the deceased, who is wife of the assistant general manager of the Copper Queen operations, and whose home is in Sonora, Mex. He was here a few weeks ago, and every effort is now being made to locate him by telegraph. An only sister of the deceased, widow of DeWitt Bisbee, arrived from the North last night.

Unless later notice is given, the funeral will be held Saturday at 3 o'clock, p.m., at the residence, No. 1838 Harvard boulevard, Rev. Baker P. Lee officiating. The following-named men, who acted as pall bearers at the funeral of Mrs. Williams, will perform the same melancholy duty again: Robert Kenney, F. P. Vickers, Alexander Mills, C. A. Rockwell, Wesley Clarke, Charles Drake, L. W. Blinn, George W. Parsons. Interment will be at Rosedale, by the side of his wife.

Williams was an Episcopalian and a man of sterling Christian character. He always addressed his pastor, Rev. Mr. Lee, as "Evangelist," and admonished him to preach only the gospel.

RUNAWAY TEAM KILLS.

Frightened Horses Crash Into Light Buggy, Throwing Out Two Men Fatally Injuring One.

Thomas Purcell, a machinist, aged 23, died at 10 o'clock last night as the result of injuries sustained yesterday in a runaway accident near Eighth and Spring streets. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of Booth & Boyison, No. 329 South Spring street, where an inquest will be held.

Purcell and Robert Henecke were in a light delivery wagon at the time of the accident. Henecke is 44 years of age, lives at No. 3205 Central avenue and is an agent for a sewing machine company.

He had invited the young machinist to ride a short distance with him and they were driving along Spring street when two runaway horses, dragging a wagon pole between them, came around the corner of Main and Ninth streets.

The runaways hit the light wagon with terrific force and both men were thrown to the ground. The horses then trampled upon them.

Purcell suffered several fractures of ribs on his right side. The horses' hoofs crushed in the wall of his chest, too, causing internal hemorrhage. Purcell lived at No. 829 South Main street.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Board of Health yesterday filed its proposed ordinance governing the bakeries, and will ask the City Council to adopt it Monday.

Street Superintendent Edwards has inaugurated a plan for giving sprinklers one day of rest out of the seven, which he says meets with good results.

Fake "General" Moore, who poses as a philanthropist, is caught up on back license fees for his hotel and restaurant, and claims he will have to quit "business" as it will not "pay" if he has to pay license.

Mary E. Rader yesterday testified that trouble had begun in her married life immediately after the wedding, and that it ended when Fred M. Rader deserted her, nine years later. She secured a divorce.

Judge Ewing of Ventura, sitting in Judge Wilbur's court, yesterday discharged mischievous Melvin Blatchly, who thoughtlessly amused himself by trying to stir up trouble in families.

AT THE CITY HALL.

CLEAN BREAD ITS OBJECT.

NEW ORDINANCE TO REGULATE CITY'S BAKESHOPS.

Board of Health Formulates Rules Which City Council Will Be Asked to Adopt Monday—They Provide That Bakers Must Be Properly Dressed and Products Protected.

Los Angeles citizens may soon be able to eat their daily (bakers') bread without qualms or misgivings, if the City Council adopts the ordinance formulated by the Board of Health and indorsed by the City Attorney.

This ordinance will be presented for passage Monday. It is entitled "An ordinance defining and regulating bakeries, regulating the sale, delivery and transport of the products thereof." It goes into the subject exhaustively.

All bakeries must apply to the Board of Health for permission to operate, and the Board of Health is to have power to suspend such permits for ninety days upon proof of the violation of the provisions of this ordinance. The owner of the permit, however, must be given a public hearing before the permit can be suspended.

If an established bakery is sold, the new owner can operate under the existing permit for thirty days; but, in the meantime, must make application to the board for a new permit.

No new bakeries are to be located in basements where the floor is more than four feet below the street surface, and no bakeries now located in basements deeper than this, but not now operating, can resume operations.

There are extensive provisions for sanitation, drainage and proper plumbing, the care of utensils used in baking, etc.; and the proposed ordinance provides that there must be dressing-rooms for the employés, entirely separate from the bakery-room. Employés must wear slippers or shoes, and they must also wear suits of coarse linen or other washable materials.

There shall be no sleeping or living in the bakery, or in rooms adjoining and opening therein to. The use of tobacco is prohibited in the bakery or in the storerooms adjacent thereto. No person afflicted with pulmonary tuberculosis, venereal diseases, or other communicable diseases, can work in bakeries of this city; no fowls can be kept in the building. Raw materials must be kept in closed receptacles, and the products of the bakery must be protected from flies and other insects, and in transportation must be carried in closed compartments of covered wagons.

The members of the Board of Health, and their inspectors, are at all times to have free access to all parts of the bakeries, and the penalty for a violation of any part of the ordinance, besides a revocation or suspension of the permit, is a fine of from $10 to $200, and imprisonment of from five to one hundred days, or both fine and imprisonment.

The drawing of this ordinance is the result of the investigations recently made by Mayor Harper and members of the Board of Health, where a personal visit to some of the bakeries found revolting conditions.

DAY OF REST FOR STREET SPRINKLERS.

Superintendent of Streets Edwards has put into effect an order whereby about 75 per cent. of the city's force of street-sprinkler teams and drivers are given one day of rest per week, whereas heretofore they were compelled to labor every day.

The plan has been in trial for several weeks and has worked out to the satisfaction of the men and the superintendent, while there has been practically no objection raised by the territory affected.

Recognizing the physical necessity for one day of rest in seven, Mr. Edwards decided to cut off the street sprinkling on all of the residence streets on Sunday, except those which are main thoroughfares across the city. He gave no public notice of this, but simply required his street inspectors to detail drivers and teams for those streets which they considered absolutely necessary to sprinkle. As a result, the working force was cut down fully 75 per cent. on Sundays; and the men are shifted so that none of them will have to work consecutive Sundays unless they so desire.

Superintendent Edwards says that there has scarcely been a protest from the large residence district, and that wherever the disappearance of the sprinklers for one day in the week is noted, the forbearance of the citizens has been asked in consequence of the motive for the change.

Aside from the physical advantage to the men and teams in this day of rest, Superintendent Edwards says that the city has saved enough from this move to purchase two new street flushers, which were ordered yesterday and which will be shipped immediately from the factory.

The city ordinarily has 111 teams and 108 drivers on the sprinkling outfits; but the change for Sundays requires the working of but from twenty-seven to thirty sprinklers.

ADMISSION DAY. MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION.

Next Monday, Admission Day, will be a public holiday, and all city offices will be closed. Yesterday Mayor Harper issued his proclamation declaring the day an official holiday. He says:

Monday, September 9, the State of California celebrates the fifty-seventh anniversary of its admission to the Union.

Throughout the State, and particularly in Southern California, Native Sons and Daughters will make the day a memorable one.

The Legislature has made the anniversary a legal holiday. Public officials and private citizens should observe it. By this proclamation flags are ordered displayed on all public buildings, and citizens are invited to display the State and national colors on their homes.

It is the desire of those who remained with the State during hard struggles, and brought it to the present era of prosperity, that all business be suspended, and those who labor be given opportunity to participate in the celebration.

So far as it is practicable, I urge this holiday closing of business be carried out.

[Signed] A. C. HARPER, Mayor.

MUST PAY TRIBUTE. FAKE "GENERAL" IS ANGRY.

"Gen." Moore, of unsavory "Union Mission Army" fame, is real angry at the city of Los Angeles for exacting from him an occupation tax under the head of hotel and lodging-house and restaurant. Notwithstanding the fact that Moore claims to be running a charitable institution, he now pleads that he cannot afford to continue "the business" if he has to pay such a tax. For a "godly" man, he has some pretty harsh things to say of a city which collects an occupation tax.

The "general" is particularly sore because the city has stuck him for two years' back-license fees. Under the head of hotel and lodging-house, Moore has been compelled to pay $6.75, or the rate of 75 cents per quarter, from July 1, 1905, to October, 1907. He has to pay $27 under the head of restaurant license, or the rate of $3 per quarter.

Recall Anniversary.

A long, lank individual, wearing a shock of red hair and puffing at a "coffin nail," was seen in the City Hall corridors, yesterday, and it is said some of the old-timers remembered the man as one "Spook" Howton, who in times gone by had served as a Councilman from the Sixth Ward. Howton had found a pleasureable job. He was extending invitations to the city officials to attend a banquet to be given on the evening of September 16 in the hall at Eleventh and Central avenue, in honor of the fourth anniversary of the "recall" in Los Angeles. The affair is in charge of the Haynes-Hay-Howton-Fennessey crowd, and Senator Ben Tillman is to be invited to deliver an oration. The banquet promoters think that "Pitchfork" Tillman will be just about rabid enough to please the Sixth Warders.

Want Street Widened.

Property owners on Thirty-sixth street have filed with the City Clerk a petition asking for the widening of Thirty-sixth street to a width of fifty feet from Maple avenue to Griffith avenue, and asking that condemnation proceedings be started to secure right of way through lots 7 and 8, of the Mettler tract, necessary for the opening.

Place Warning Bell.

The Board of Public Works yesterday ordered that the Southern Pacific be required to place a warning bell at Alhambra avenue and Sichel streets, on the East Side, where there is a dangerous railway crossing. Recently a large factory building has been erected there, so that the public view of the railway is cut off until the traveler gets almost directly upon the tracks.

No "Pie" for Railroad.

Yesterday the Board of Public Works denied the petition of the Los Angeles and Redondo Railway Company, asking that a portion of Santa Barbara avenue be abandoned. The strip which the railway coveted, and which would have reverted to it in case of abandonment, lies between Vermont avenue and Figueroa street.

Junket for Lips.

The Fire Commission provided for a nice little junkte for Fire Chief Lips yesterday, when it decided to recommend to the City Council that Lips be granted an appropriation for expenses in attending the International Association of Fire Chiefs, to be held in Washington, D. C., October 7. The estimate is that the trip will require from $450 to $500.

Espee Will Pave.

The Board of Public Works yesterday adopted a resolution asking the Southern Pacific to pave its right-of-way on Alameda street at Naud Junction, which in winter-time becomes almost impassable because of the mud.

No Foot Bridge.

East Side residents, who wanted a footbridge across the Arroyo Seco at Avenue 34, to accommodate the children attending the new Loretto-street school, are doomed to disappointment. Yesterday the Board of Public Works decided that the proposed bridge was unnecessary and the expense of its erection would not be justified by the benefits.

Half Rates Sundays.

The Southern Pacific sells on Sundays tickets at half rates for round trips to any stations east or south of Los Angeles and return, to which the one-way fare does not exceed $2.50, minimum rate 25 cents; also from any station with the above limit to Los Angeles and return at the one-way rate. This allows one to visit Riverside, Redlands, San Bernardino, Pomona, Ontario, Santa Ana and many other points and spend the day with very little expenditure for railroad fare. Tickets are good to go and return only on the date of sale, Sunday. Under this arrangement the fare to Redlands and return, good via Riverside and San Bernardino, if desired, is only $2.05; Riverside or San Bernardino $1.75; Pomona, $1; Ontario, $1.20; Santa Ana, $1.

NAUGHTY BOY'S PERILOUS GAME.

HE TRIFLES WITH HEARTS BY 'PHONING FAIRY TALES.

Attempts to Create Discord in Happy Families by Planting Suspicion in Breasts of Husbands and Wives, It Is Said, but It Doesn't Grow and All's Well.

Melvin Blatchly, a boy who is alleged to have played a very naughty and extremely perilous game for his amusement, was discharged from custody yesterday by Judge Felix W. Ewing of Ventura, sitting in Judge Wilbur's court.

Young Blatchly's game, involving the feelings and emotions of happy families, consisted in ringing up some trusting wife on the telephone and telling her fairy tales about her husband. Having done all he could in that direction, it is said, he would place himself in communication with the husband and say a few disturbing words to him. Nothing approaching the tragic resulted, but there were possibilities in the game which young Blatchly did not seem to realize. He appeared to be a nice boy, and the kindly-mannered judge from Ventura seemed to think him so.

After the boy had left the courtroom his relatives sent him back to thank the judge. Melvin went up to the bench and held out his hand, and the judge leaned down gravely and shook it.

In leaving last evening to resume his duties on the bench in Ventura, where Judge Wilbur has been sitting for three days in a case in which Judge Ewing was disqualified, the Ventura judge thanked Clerk Sam Kuts, and left a word of farewell for the bailiff.

"I have enjoyed my visit very much," he said.

SHE MAY GET CHILD. DIVORCE DECREE CERTAIN.

Marriage proved a failure in the case of Mary E. Rader, who yesterday secured an interlocutory decree of divorce in the Superior Court from Fred M. Rader.

"We haven't got along ever since we've been married," she testified. "We always had trouble, he had such a disagreeable disposition."

They were married in Kansas, in 1905, and lived unhappily together until Mr. Rader decided to try his fortune farther West.

"He left me in Topeka," said the plaintiff, "and went to Utah. I didn't want to live with him again, but I didn't want the disgrace of a divorce. After six or seven months he wrote to me to come out, and promised that he would treat me better than he had. I went to him."

But the disposition of the man appeared to have undergone no desirable change with his change of location.

"It really was worse than before," declared the witness. "He became morose, and threatened to kill himself. Twice I headed him off from his gun, when he said he was going to shoot himself.

"We came to Los Angeles in 1903, and in September, the year after, he deserted me. I got several letters from him afterward, saying he was working and getting along nicely, but he never addressed me as if he thought of me as his wife."

In one of the letters, which was read into the record, Rader had written: "I have decided to give you a divorce, but if you try to get it on any grounds but desertion or non-support I'll block you. You must let me have the custody of the child. I can support her. If you don't agree to that I won't let you get the divorce."

In her complaint, however, Mrs. Rader askd for custody of the child, and the defendant did not appear to oppose her.

Judge Hutton expressed himself as satisfied with the evidence, but deferred the signing of the decree until he can determine the question of support for the child, aged 9 years. So far as is known, Rader and any property he may have, may be beyond the jurisdiction of the court.

COURTHOUSE NOTES. BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

OCEAN PARK FIGHT. Complaints of alleged fraud in registration for the disincorporation election in Ocean Park were made to the District Attorney yesterday, and the charges will be laid before the grand jury for investigation at the next meeting of that body.

RAILROAD SUED. A damage suit for $27,650 against the Southern Pacific Company was filed yesterday in the Superior Court by Elizabeth M. Campbell. The complaint states that the plaintiff was a passenger in a coach which was derailed and overturned near Sea Crest, on the Coast Line, September 9, 1906, and that she suffered permanent injuries.

MAY WAIT FOR MONEY.

Prosecuting Attorneys Affected by City's Appeal on Writ Directing Payment of Their Salaries.

The city through its Treasurer, C. H. Hance, has appealed from the judgment of the District Court of Appeals to the Supreme Court on the writ of mandate directing the Treasurer to pay the prosecuting attorneys their monthly salaries.

The peition for a hearing was filed with the deputy clerk of the Supreme Court yesterday. The city asks that the judgment for the petitioner, Edward J. Fleming, Prosecuting Attorney, be set aside and cause heard by the Supreme Court.

A number of authorities are cited and an effort is made to show that the decree is in conflict with former decisions of the highest court of the State.

HIS KNOWLEDGE NEEDED.

An Employee of Eleven Years' Service in Assessor's Office Is Made Chief Deputy.

E. O. Weed, for eleven years an employé of the County Assessor's office, was appointed chief deputy yesterday by Assessor Hopkins.

Weed and Hopkins entered the Assessor's office while Theodore Summerland was Assessor, and both have served continuously since that time.

The salary of the chief deputy is $175 a month, and the position provides plenty of work for the holder. Deputy Weed has nothing new to learn in assuming the duties, for his knowledge of the working of the office is thorough.

Weed was constantly in attendance at the sessions of the Board of Equalization while the late Ben Ward was Assessor, and his horde of information was frequently drawn upon in the course of the Assessor's battles. When Weed had answered, Ben Ward would nod his head decidedly, as if the point was settled beyond further question.

There will be no shake-up in the Assessor's office. Mr. Hopkins stated yesterday. All the deputies will remain.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

POLITICS, SAYS DOG-CATCHER.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT WITH DEADLY WEAPON.

After a lively tilt between attorneys in Justice Rose's court, yesterday, the preliminary examination of Deputy Pound Master William Vacher, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, was continued.

Vacher alleges that politics play a prominent part in his prosecution. For years, he says, there has been a struggle between the managers of the dog pound and the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. The pound master has so far managed to hold his own, although several petitions have been presented to the City Council, asking that the pound be turned over to the care of the society.

In former years, Vacher alleges, he had even more trouble than he has been having lately but he never was prosecuted. During the past six months there have been a dozen warrants issued for his arrest and the arrest of his men.

Vacher was arrested on August 23 on a charge sworn out by James F. Webb and his wife.

An investigation showed that Vacher had driven his dog wagon out on the Echo Park road. The dogs in that neighborhood had been a disturbing element for months. Vacher captured a few of them before he reached the Webb home. The Webb dog was in the street; the Webb children were in the yard; Mr. Webb was on the porch and Mrs. Webb was in the house. Vacher took the Webb dog. The Webb children began to cry and Webb ran toward the dog catcher. In the trouble that followed the dog catcher, alleging self-defense, flourished a revolver and kept Webb away until he could get the dog in the wagon. He then drove off.

Yesterday Justice Rose stated that he was inclined to believe that if any offense had been committed, it could not have been any more serious than the mere flourishing of a revolver and he continued the case.

"We are employés of the city and it is our business to collect the dogs," said Vacher. "We meet with harsh treatment enough and any one who goes to the Police Station can secure a complaint against us but thus far no one has been able to prove anything to our discredit. We are the only employés of the city who are subjected to this sort of treatment."

CLARK LOCATES HERE.

Former Senator's Son Leases Beautiful Turner Home on West Adams Street for Two Years.

W. A. Clark, Jr., son of Senator Clark, is to settle with his wife and the "million-dollar baby" of newspaper fame, in Los Angeles, and for at least two years will be located in one of the swell residences of West Adams street.

Yesterday W. E. Simpson leased to Clark the beautiful home of Mrs. W. W. D. Turner, widow of the late Col. Turner, at No. 758 West Adams street. The lessee takes the house furnished, and pays probably the highest rental of any private residence in Los Angeles, the amount being $500 per month.

The house is a handsome two-story stone and frame structure of twenty-two rooms, and was erected by a daughter of Mrs. Caroline Severance. The grounds are beautiful and commodious, with a frontage on West Adams street of 190 feet, and a depth of 615 feet.

One point which attracted the Clarks to this place was the roominess of the grounds, and ample stable accommodations for automobiles and for the string of high-bred horses which they will bring here. Fourteen horses will be kept there by Clark.

Mrs. Turner has gone to the Linkershim to make her temporary home, but a little later in the season she will go to Montana, and from thence to Europe for a leisurely tour.

TELLS OF LIFE OF HELL.

Miss Mattice in Iowa, who holds a note of $2000 against you, would have been paid by any man of honor when he had the money. She shall also be notified that you have sufficient funds to pay your honest debts.

"At the time the woman, whom you are now living with, made up her mind to cast her lot with you, she had inspected your commitment, upon which was your likeness. She also knew and probably has now a written statement of your thefts from the Chino Land and Water Company. With that she was willing to cast a blot upon her child, whom God in His mercy saw fit to remove by taking her unto Himself before she arrived at the age of understanding.

GRAVE DESECRATION CHARGED.

"With your past record, which has been criminal throughout, you desecrated little Catherine's grave by taking the deed of her last resting place in your own name, which you did not pay a dollar for, and bartered for gain not only her grave, but a plot adjoining hers for myself and the other third for her grandmother.

"In the statement rendered me, which I have in my possession, you claim the lot cost $25. Capt. Hance to have sold $5 for his third, I $5 for my third and you the bounce, while the books of the association show that the whole plot was sold to you for $175 and $5 additional for grave fees, which includes perpetual care, and you had the temerity to tell people of this city that I would not pay a damned cent.

"You have falsified in this statement, as in all the others and I do not doubt in the least but that you have done the same in regard to the sale of the Glendale lots, which I gave for the express purpose of defraying my share of the expenses and in accordance with your own statement, the full amount which you claim you expended from the Glendale lots was refunded. I am having an investigation made to assure myself that you will receive more for your lots than the statement to me reveals.

"You are the most incarnate fiend and consummate scoundrel that it has been my misfortune to have associated with, and if the woman who calls you 'husband' can, in the face of these statements which must now ensue, allow you to retain the title to this lot or even a section to bury the carcass of the man who must spend the years, or a greater portion, of his life in a convict cell, I shall invoke the courts to have the remains removed to a place wherein he has no interest."

MRS. CLAIMS PERSECUTION.

These claims that the letters offered as evidence are but specimens of the persecution to which he has been subjected during the past twenty years. For years he submitted tamely and to the demands of the man who held a club over his head. Every successful business venture, he says, called forth a demand for money from his insatiable Nemesis. Time and again, when undertakings of magnitude demanded that he concentrate all of his interests to carry a point, the ever-present blackmail letter was sent to harass him.

He states that, during the time that he was president of the United Railway Company of Portland and had control in money under his control, he was goaded to desperation by the constant demands of an enemy who refused to be satisfied, and to whom money was paid as hush money acted only to greater efforts at persecution.

"I arrived last night at the Alexandria," a Times reporter, Evans said: "I have sworn to the complaint against Owens with extortion, and I will remain until I see him occupying a felon's cell. For the last seven years he has made my life a hell and I am free to defend myself without considering the consequences to other people.

"I have come here from Portland for the express purpose of putting an end to the unbearable persecution to which I have been subjected. No longer will I weakly submit to his unjust demands. I will settle the matter once for all or ruin myself in the attempt. If God gives me strength I will put let him have a taste of the misery to which he has subjected me.

"While I was president of the United Railway Company he took advantage of my position and extorted money from me. Had he carried out his threats and made public the stories about me, which he claimed that he could, there is no telling what damage might have been done the great financial interests over which I had control. For years I lived in mortal fear of the effect which might follow some desperate act of his.

"I WILL SUBMIT NO LONGER.

"All that is all past. I cannot, will not submit to the persecution any longer. He admitted, I believe, in his suit, that I had paid him in all more than $25,000. What more could be the demand of another mortal? There was no end to the demands of Owens. From the day that I acceded to his first demand there was no end to the calls for money. The story of exposure of chapters in my life were followed by veiled threats in other matters.

"So I repeat, that is all over. I am willing to go through the necessary publicity attending the course which I have chosen in order to place the man where he belongs. Other people cannot be affected by anything that may happen now. For years I have been the victim of a blackmailer; but so help me God, vengeance shall be wreaked upon the man who has made me the one long round of torture."

It is intimated that a number of sensational features may develop when the case is brought to trial. Mrs. Evans was divorced from Owens a few years ago and married her present husband shortly after. She has been subjected to the attentions of her former husband almost as much as has Evans, it is alleged.

Owens is a native of Scotland but lived in America for many years and is a naturalized citizen. For fifteen years he was a resident of Los Angeles and was engaged in business here prior to the time that he went to Portland to engineer the consolidation of the street railway interests he has been identified with several large undertakings here.

It is believed that no stone shall be left unturned to heap retribution upon the head of the man who, he says, has followed him for years. Evans has retained Anderson & Anderson as his attorneys.

Owing to the trouble last night the excitement greatly wrought up and the witnesses had difficulty in restraining their feelings.

FIREWORKS DO NOT WORK.

The fireworks display called "The Fall of San Francisco" proved a failure again last night. About 2000 people were turned away from the park, where it was to have been given. Professor Campbell, general manager, announced last night that they were unable to make electrical connections through the entire street scenic exhibit. An effort, Campbell said, will be made to show Saturday night. It is billed in Denver for

CAT GHOSTS DUE.

In quest of evidence, Sergt. Craig and Patrolman Fisher went on watch near the house of mystery yesterday morning. Officers Mitchell, Fowler and Stilwell of Zimmer's forces got into the Martenette yard by climbing a high fence, a necessity forced upon them through the fact that the gates are padlocked between the front and back yard.

Once in the yard, the three cruelty-prevention deputies dug around in the remains of a bonfire for cat remnants. All they found was some half-buried catnip stalks and an empty catarrh-cure bottle.

Then they began to dig. Something of a tale hangs on what they found.

Arriving at the house of mystery in the afternoon, Superintendent Zimmer and Officer Fowler got Dr. Martenette to the door. He is extremely deaf. He laughed in a quick, nervous fashion when they told him they wanted an explanation of the reports that had been made about the torture of cats. As they were talking, Mrs. Woodward arrived.

ONCE THERE WERE TWELVE.

"We had twelve cats here a few weeks ago," explained Mrs. Woodward, who hears better and talks faster than the doctor. "I am very fond of kittens. Some of them strayed in; others belonged to an old mother cat we had. Poor thing, she was impaled on a pitchfork, and left four orphans with us. I used to buy 15 or 20 cents' worth of liver and milk for them every day. I stuffed them and stuffed them.

"Then they began to get sick. It was a sort of catarrah or consumption. Every day, twice a day sometimes, the doctor and I would treat them with dioxygen, using an atomizer to spray their throats." (Here the doctor interrupted to tell of the effect of the treatment; it was highly successful so far as the catarrh was concerned, but the cats died.)

Then the doctor and his companion went on to tell how they had disposed of the dead bodies after eight of the pussies had come to untimely ends.

"Oh, we took them away out near the city limits, on Moneta avenue, and buried them,' said the doctor. He repeated this statement to Mr. Zimmer several times, and Mrs. Woodward supported his statements.

"What did you do with the cat that died day before yesterday?" asked Zimmer.

"Oh, we buried that out there, too," replied the doctor.

"What would you say if I should tell you one of my men had dug up that cat in your back yard?" queried Zimmer, who had permitted Martenette and Mrs. Woodward to do most of the talking up to this time.

THE QUICK AND THE DEAD.

The doctor apparently didn't hear the question clearly. He understood it, however, when one of the officers came from a neighboring barn with a dead cat encased in a coat sleeve. He also carried a live cat in a box.

Then other officers began to dig in the yard, where the smell was strongest, and where they had made explorations in the morning.

In a few minutes they had uncovered a freshly-buried cat.

"How many more are there here?" they asked Manette, who by this time had displayed his nervousness by rushing into the house to get his coat and hat, likewise his pipe, upon which he pulled vigorously.

"All you can find," he answered, attempting to dodge a camera.

They hauled out seven more and piled them up in a corner of the yard.

Mrs. Woodward professed to be greatly surprised that the cat cemetery was so close to the laboratory.

Dr. De Biron, who had been attracted by the novel nature of the complaint, came into the yard at this juncture, and proceeded to dissect one of the cats. He found its stomach and intestines empty and its throat burned as with some fierce irritant.

"Starved," he remarked, "and it strikes me that dioxygen would not have burned the throat that way."

The Pasadena health officer, continuing his exploration of the internal economy of this defunct pussy, made other pointed remarks, saying he did not see how a cat that had been stuffed with liver and milk could have gone to its death through a simple application of catarrh medicine, with no trace of the food in its organs.

Cornered, Dr. Martenette admitted that he had buried the cats in his yard —a violation of a city ordinance. For this he was arrested by Patrolman Fisher, and was taken to the University station, where he later gave bail.

"If they say we abused these cats, or strangled them, or did anything but befriend them, they lie," declared Mrs. Woodward, looking right and left and across the street in the direction of the various neighbors.

"If they heard any cats crying at night, it may have been poor old Napoleon, shut up on the back porch. But I don't believe there has been any such noise."

So endeth the first chapter of the cat tale of the house of mystery, with two lone cats and three Belgian hares still holding the fort.

FORECAST OF PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The forecast of the President's forthcoming message will be received with general satisfaction all over the country. It is particularly satisfactory to the vast majority of the Republican party that the President will not at this time touch upon the tariff. There is no reason apparent to those whose views center in the great business interests of the country for any action on the part of the President in his message, or of Congress in the coming session, in regard to the tariff. There never was a tariff law so generally effective and so generally just to all the industries of the country as the one now in force. The industries are in a very active condition and any disturbance likely to arise in the near future will not come from the tariff. There is but one thing keeping back the continued increase in business activity. The great need of money is the one restraining factor.

The tariff is sure to constitute one of the main points of contention in the political campaign a year from now. The Republican party wishes to face its enemies of all names with a perfectly united front on the subject of tariff. It will be the only party in the country which will stand for this great American principle which, during the whole history of the Republican party, has formed the chief distinction between it and all its opponents. Whatever other tickets may be in the field, they will all be allied with the Democracy in their attack upon the tariff. The protective principle will be charged with all the ills our industries, our business life, and indeed our political organizations, are afflicted with. The tariff will be pointed to as the mother of trusts, as the bulwark behind which monopolies entrench themselves. We shall have the old tunes rung over again with variations and changes. We have never appealed in vain to the American people on a straight-out issue between free trade and the protective tariff. The Republican party should welcome the issue and make it as far as possible the leading one in the coming campaign. The opposition cannot be too emphatic to suit us in their attack upon the protective principle. They have tried in recent former campaigns to thrust it aside, but the Republican party would not permit it.

Another feature outlined for the President's message, which will be received with great satisfaction all over the country, is his plea in behalf of the improvement of our waterways. The Times has pointed to this as one of several modes in which the enormous surplus held by the treasury could with great advantage be expended. We pointed out the fact that to lower the tariff (not abolish it) would be more likely to swell than to curtail the surplus. Lower tariffs mean larger imports, and while the rate of duty may be a little less, the aggregate revenue is likely to be more, other things being equal. The prosperity of our people has a great deal to do with the volume of imports of foreign-made goods. When everybody is making money rapidly, some becoming very rich, foreign luxuries are in great demand.

What we want to do with the surplus is to spend it, spend it judiciously, with due attention to economy and in such a way as to benefit the largest number of our people. There is probably no other manner in which this could be done so effectively as in the improvement of our waterways. There is scarcely a State in the Union which has not streams capable of great improvement. The improvement of these streams will put the surplus in circulation in many parts of the country. The improved waterways will furnish relief from railroad congestion, a thing from which the country has been suffering for two years past. Farmers would be able to get their crops to market more cheaply by these waterways. They would bring back into the country building materials and all heavy merchandise at lower rates than rail charges. Yes, spend the surplus, and spend it freely on waterways.

It will seem strange some day to be told that there once were thousands of acres of land in Southern California that could be had for nothing or almost nothing, by anybody who would settle on them.

We are pleased to see it stated that Sun Zee Yee made a hit at the irrigation congress, instead of being hit, as is too often the practice in the case of a Chinaman.

THE CELTIC STRAIN OF GENIUS.

The recent death of Augustus St. Gaudens, the eminent sculptor, followed so closely by the death of Edvard Hagerup Grieg, the great composer, will again emphasize the wonderful vitality with which the Celt retains and clings to the genuis that distinguished his race from time immemorial. Both these men were Celts. Grieg was born in Norway, it is true, but was Norwegian in no other sense, his immediate ancestry being purely Scottish. St. Gaudens was born in Ireland; and his mother's name was Mary McGuinness. Each in his distinctive department of art stood head and shoulders over all rivals at the time of his death.

To use an old Celticism, St. Gaudens and Grieg did not take their genius "from the winds." It was undoubtedly an inheritance of the blood. Without meaning to be derogatory as regards others, it is asserted by Celtic enthusiasts that art owes more to the Celt than it does to any one else, not excepting the Greek who was but the pupil of the Celt. The Germans, who are the progenitors of the present Anglo-Saxons have been diligent, and perhaps foremost, in rendering the Celt his due and in giving him the palm.

The marvelous thing about the Celtic strain of genius is not that it was preëminent as far back as art can be traced, but that it has never suffered decay—as Greek art and all others have suffered—and that it is as virile now as it ever was. Great as was St. Gaudens he no more than equaled the work of his ancestors that was done thousands of years ago. There are specimens of Celtic sculpture in stone and bronze, illuminated missals, and traceries in iron and wood and ivory in the museums of Europe so old that the centuries in which they were executed can scarcely be determined, and yet they are superior to a great deal that St. Gaudens and others attempted. Grieg has written no music that was not written in some form or other by his Celtic ancestors hundreds upon hundreds of years ago. And it does not seem to be as generally known as it should be that written music is itself a gift from the Celt. It was he who invented it and gave it to the world.

Nor is this all. Our very system of language appears to have come from the Celt. Undoubtedly the Greek borrowed his alphabet from the Gaelic Celt, thus becoming indebted to him for the knowledge to put his words into writing. The Latin language is palpably Celtic. While it is true that the western world received its education from the Greeks, the Greeks only taught to a great extent what they had learned, in the first place, from the Celts. As a consequence, the fact stands out that every system of symbols used to express language as it now exists was derived from the Celts, with the exception of Chinese.

It is immeasurably to the glory of the Celtic blood, therefore, that it preserves in this day and generation, through the children of that blood, the beauty, the culture and the learning that it gave to the world in ages gone by. There have been periods of darkness when the Celt was driven to war and when he was driven by it, and when he was forced to drop his chisel, his pencil and his lute to strike with his sword against Angle, Saxon, Jute and every other savage horde that swept down upon him in the red tides of war where he dwelt upon his misty headlands and in his green valleys within the narrow seas. But his dream of beauty was never lost. Ever he sang:

"When my arms press you round I press
My heart upon the loveliness
That has long faded from the world;
The jeweled crowns that kings have hurled
The love tales wove with silken thread
By dreaming ladies upon cloth
That has made fat the murderous moth;
The roses that of old time were
Woven by ladies in their hair,
The dew-cold lilies ladies bore
Through many a sacred corridor
Where such gray clouds of incense rose
That only the gods' eyes did close:
For that pale breast and lingering hand
Come from a more dream-heavy land,
A more dream-heavy hour than this;
And when you sigh from kiss to kiss
I hear white Beauty sighing too

GUARD CAREFULLY THE FOOD SUPPLY.

The health department of the city seems to be having considerable difficulty in enforcing the observation of the ordinances guarding the food supplies. The chief difficulty seems to center in milk and veal.

Nearly all of these two foods must necessarily come from outside of the city. The ordinances, of course, are only applicable inside of the city and the inspectors encounter all sorts of opposition on the part of the careless dairymen and butchers outside in their attempts to ascertain the conditions of dairies and the quality of calves slaughtered. The health department of the city made an appeal to the State Dairy Commission for the appointment of two deputies under the State law which would give them authority to enter dairies outside. The matter was referred to the secretary of the State Dairy Commission, who decided in an off-hand way that such action would create more or less confusion and perhaps collision between the regular State inspector in this district and those who held the double inspectorship, one from the city and the other from the State.

The veal problem arises from various butchers in an outside town appealing for relaxation in the application of the city ordinance to their particular locality. It is stated by the State health department that certain butchers in that very locality prior to the enforcement of the city ordinance, were accustomed to send here for sale veal unfit for human food.

The city has this case in its own hands and while it may work hardship to honest butchers in the neighborhood in question, undoubtedly the city ordinance must be maintained in its full force. It can scarcely be relaxed with reference to one locality and maintained in full vigor in any other locality.

As to the action of the secretary of the State Dairy Commission, whatever its inspiration may be, it is likely to work more hardship on the dishonest dairymen, in the end, than on the city. The city will not be less watchful over the milk supply, as there is no food whose purity is more important to the public than milk.

The vigilance of the health department has demonstrated that many dairies are kept in a most reprehensible condition of filth, endangering the health of old and young. Without competent evidence to establish the fact it would be incomprehensible that intelligent men conducting a business for personal profit in which the people of their city are to be furnished with food should be so utterly negligent.

Now this action of the State Dairy Commission may make it difficult for the health department of Los Angeles to exercise due diligence, but the difficulty will be overcome. The people of Los Angeles will be safeguarded from the use of polluted milk. The result will be, probably, to bring severer penalties upon the heads of those offering impure milk for sale in the city. It can be traced. The ordinance may need amendment, and if it does need such amendment, that amendment will be had. Polluted milk will be followed up from the table of the consumer through the retailers and wholesalers and in the end the offender will be known. Whenever the milk from any dairy is proven to be impure, the product of that dairy will be shut out. If it is shipped to the city in a roundabout way, the individuals or firms handling the polluted stuff will be barred from doing business in the city. The process may be a little roundabout, but in the end the protection of the consumers of milk will be made effective.

In the meantime, consumers have an effective remedy in their hands. They need use no milk. The habit of abstaining from milk in the household is a growing one. The dairymen will do very well to consult their own interests, however callous they may be about the interest of the general public, in not contributing to this growing prejudice against the use of milk as food.

THE OLD STORY FROM THE IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

The fifteenth annual session of the National Irrigation Congress has been sitting this week in Sacramento. This annual gathering of men of affairs, of statesmen, government officials and farmers from all parts of the United States is used almost every year by certain persons disaffected about this, that or the other subject as an occasion to air their grievances, disturb the harmony and usefulness of the meetings and get themselves into the limelight.

In the present instance the right of Los Angeles to acquire a water supply in the Sierra mountains was the subject of a vicious attack. This was the new sore spot. The persons making the greatest noise were those with very little interest at stake. Some of them had no interest at all. Politics was at the bottom of a good deal of it, and that is a usual feature of these "kicking matches" at these congresses. Congressman Smith went to Sacramento because he thought it was a good place for building political fences.

It is pleasant to know that the "kickers" in the present instance fared no better than those of similar type in former congresses. The brunt of the defensive battle was borne as usual by Gifford Pinchot, Chief Forester of the United States, and F. H. Newell, the head of the Reclamation Service under the Federal government. They came armed as they always do with exact data, talked by the card and showed that the "kickers" had not a square inch of ground to stand upon.

The foundation notion was preposterous in its assumption that the Federal government would become a party to any attempt of the city of Los Angeles to deprive the property owners, farmers and others, in the Owens Valley country of a cent's worth of property in any water that the city desired to secure or would aid the city in taking away water rightfully belonging to the farmers in that valley or necessary to the proper development of the adjacent lands. A man in the position of Congressman Smith could, if he would, inform himself exactly on all points in an issue like this. Smith probably did so. He probably knows as well as Chief Forester Pinchot or F. H. Newell that the government acted strictly in accordance with all rights of all persons in any aid given to Los Angeles to secure a proper supply of water for a great community like this.

Los Angeles has nothing to complain of, concerning this disturbance at Sacramento. It furnished occasion for the government officers and the former City Attorney of Los Angeles to set before the whole country the exact status of this controversy. It was a chance that perhaps no other meeting likely to occur in the country would have given us to present the justice and propriety of our claims to the water in Owens River. It probably silences further attacks by these dissatisfied people whose animus seems to be a jealousy of the rapid growth of prosperity of our city.

HOROSCOPE FOR THIS DAY.

Friday, September 6, 1907.

BY COZETTE.

"Lie on thy oars today; fate's course is set

This is the 249th day of the year; moon's age, twenty-eight days.

There is a sign in the skies today; "Swift terror holds the roads." Cross neither highway or by-way between dawn and midnight without first spying carefully for danger from fast vehicles. Beware of railroad tracks. Those using automobile, or carriage, truck or bicycle this day must be doubly cautious, for it is an ill day for danger from wheeled traffic.

In business and social affairs there is no certainty in any direction. Postpone all important matters about which even a vestige of doubt exists. Be particularly careful in signing receipts that there shall be no clause in them to make future trouble. Buy nothing but tangible things this day.

Those whose birthdate this is must take heed to their temper in the coming year. Their business will cause them much worry and many matters will arise to annoy them so seriously that they will be tempted sorely to give way to sudden wrath. If they yield their business will suffer heavily, or if in employment, they will lose their positions. If they rule their tempers, all their difficulties will begin to disappear by the end of the year.

The child born today will be so clever that learning of any kind will come almost naturally to it. Despite this, it should remain in employment, because it will be altogether too prone to undertake things without sufficient preparation, banking on its cleverness. It will need restraint and a balancing factor throughout life. If a girl, she will marry happily. The faults to be guarded against in early youth are over-confidence and presumptuous pride.

Is not more certain to occur than the payment of the 15th quarterly dividend in unitization

From Forty Units to Forty-one Hundred and Fifty Units in Four years; one business property increased to nine; from one Trustee Company and one city to three; an initial property valuation of $40,000 augmented to $4,150,000; from Preferred Dividends, amounting to $500 per quarter to a Preferred Quarterly Dividend of $51,875; from a few Unit Owners in Seattle to more than one thousand, scattered from Alaska to Maine among whom to distribute these business property rental dividends!

This, in brief, tells the progress of Unit Ownership since the fall of 1903, when the first Trustee Company was founded and the first business property was commercialized by the Method of Unitization, the peculiarly efficacious Doctrine of Thrift being propagated by the organization of Trustee Companies in all the important cities of America.

THE FIFTEENTH QUARTER IN UNITIZATION.

Upon the 10th day of September just approaching, the associated Trustee Companies, will distribute $51,875, being the third quarter's Preferred Dividends for 1907, upon 4150 Units, represented by nine central business properties, i. e., six in Seattle, two in Los Angeles, and one in Spokane.

THE TRUSTEE COMPANY OF LOS ANGELES
THE TRUSTEE COMPANY OF SEATTLE
THE TRUSTEE COMPANY OF SPOKANE,

On December 10th, next, the final quarterly portion of the Preferred Dividend for 1907 will be augmented by the Surplus Dividend, which, combined with the Preferred Dividend of $50 per Unit, will represent the total net rental earnings from the nine Trustee Properties for 1907.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

There is unique interest attached to the coming musical services of the Jewish New Year, as they are to be rendered at B'nai B'rith Synagogue, commencing at 8 o'clock on Sunday evening.

The music is to be used this year at Rosh-Hashanah is a series of rare compositions which have just been brought to Los Angeles by Mrs. Jules Kauffman, a member of the congregation.

They have come direct from the Paris Conservatory, and probably could not be obtained in this country, in that they are excerpts from a different and selected ritual.

Co-Director Dupuy and Rabbi Nadel have been carefully at work for some weeks, making the arrangements.

These services will last not only over Rosh-Hashanah, with services on Sunday night and Monday morning, but Yom-Kippur, which is ten days later, and also includes several holy days.

The imported chants will be interspersed with anthems in English, either written or arranged by Cantor Nadel of San Francisco.

The regular quartette of soloists at the temple, Mrs. Bessie Ives Harris, leader, Nuncia Dittman, Messrs. Dubois and Bowers, will be assisted by Mr. Arkenhold, violinist, Mrs. Elsa von Grossa, 'cellist, and Mr. Derby, trombonist.

All of these chants are in Hebrew, for the most of them are an absolute part of sacred history. Many of them have been heard by older members of the congregation in Europe, where they are used frequently.

Some of them are reputed to be as old as the days of Solomon, and the traditions tell how they were handed down, by actual chant, from high priest, until some ceceturies after were found to record them in musical signs. After that musical notation was applied, and the manuscripts were guarded almost as carefully as the scriptures.

Many of the themes are very beautiful and are vivid with poetic though sometimes expressiveness.

In cold akunkery, the Examiner's [illegible]-like assaults upon Richard Mansfield's name, fame and even private character, are probably the worst in modern journalism.

The morning following Mr. Mansfield's death, Ashton Stevens wrote, characteristic, silly flippancy, nothing has been queerer than the [illegible] given to Richard Mansfield by the bulk of playgoers. A man of [illegible] age and genius, such as George Bernard Shaw, may easily grasp posterity by the forelock; but a man of great genius, such as Richard Mansfield, is so foreordained to failure that one wonders if death really has not cheated and stolen the ultimate.

A bit more to the same purpose. And, in fact, there have been almost daily issues of Innuendo, alleging affections of the heart, violence of temper [illegible] cause for death, and other things quite unnecessary to say—even if they were so, which, manifestly, they are not.

Last night, however, the Examiner became its own poet, and in its over-violence threw that the dead actor was [illegible] its own anarchistic kind—thereby [illegible] curilious detractions.

During his last visit to Los Angeles, Mansfield commented laughingly upon the venomous antagonism of the local press.

"I never understand it," said he. "I have studied how the Hearst New York [illegible] writer, who had expressed a desire to talk with him, had visited Mr. Mansfield down to his country home, where he was the guest for several days; then came back to the city, and promptly penned—not a dramatic criticism, but an atrocious personal attack.

The Italian Opera Company which is to play a month in Los Angeles, beginning the second or third week in October, has sailed from Genoa, and will proceed direct to San Francisco, where the season will begin in a week or ten days.

According to a New York dispatch, the company is carrying with them, besides twenty or thirty of the "regular" [illegible] scenic settings for Giordano's "Andrea Chenier," and another setting for Leoncavallo's "Germania."

The most prominent member of the company is said to be one who will be least conspicuous in the local [illegible] already published. He is Antonio Scotti, a distinguished bass [illegible] Italia.

The first rehearsal of the Lyric Club for the season, will be held at Blanchard Hall, Blanchard building, at 8 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon.

Miss Ida M. Cocks, local piano teacher, who was called to Tennessee [illegible] by the death of her sister, is [illegible] her return trip to Los Angeles.

Joseph Crolius, the "Biff Donovan" of Augustus V. Hobart's classic [illegible] "Bunco," is at the present moment [illegible] his birthday. Just how many [illegible] has had, previous to this [illegible] refuses to say. Actors and old [illegible] after a certain period, are very [illegible] to age.

Some of his birthdays have been more interesting than those of [illegible] visiting Los Angeles in a [illegible] time.

"I was born in Boston," says Mr. Crolius, "at the time when my father [illegible] under E. L. Davenport, [illegible] Davenport's father. That same [illegible] was my first stage appearance. [illegible] remember that 'old Crolius' had [illegible] the audience demanded [illegible] The nurse carried me 'on' [illegible] and exhibited me over the [illegible] footlights.

"My next appearance was at the age [illegible] when I had an audible, [illegible] speaking, part in a farce [illegible] 'Babes.' At 3 years I [illegible] greater part. I said, 'No' and [illegible] 'The Stranger.'

"I remember traveling through [illegible] the stage-coach days. The [illegible] company occupied two [illegible] and the baggage and scenery [illegible] in wagons.

"Those were the days when the [illegible] stage manager came in [illegible] and, blew out the footlights, a dark scene was demanded [illegible] and [illegible]

"My early recollections con[illegible] me in a city which now has [illegible] of a million inhabitants and [illegible] towers. "In my Los Angeles twenty [illegible] I don't remember [illegible] in a theater or a [illegible] a rural piece called [illegible] Charles L. Davis, [illegible] the early circus type. Crolius has kept pace with the hustlers of the profession, and will retire comfortably, when he does decide to give up acting. During his present visit he has purchased, as an investment, a piece of residence property.

TAKE NOTICE, CONTESTANTS.

Coupons and subscriptions will be counted to the credit of contestants if dropped at the postoffice so as to bear postmark of Saturday, September 7, before 12 o'clock, midnight, and arrive at The Times office before 11 p.m., Monday, September 9. At small postoffices, mail matter may not be worked over after 6 p.m., so it is not safe to put off posting letters until a late hour Saturday. A special delivery stamp will hasten the delivery of letters.

Yesterday is marked with a red letter on the scholarship calendar. Fifty thousand points were scored, representing the greatest single day's work for this year. This remarkable showing is all the more spectacular because the high mark was reached mainly through the efforts of friends. The children themselves are holding back their points. They are hoarding their coupons like a miser hoards his gold, expecting to make a center rush at the last moment. Several contestants took great boxes of coupons home to arrange at leisure, almost staggering under the burden of their packages.

An even scoring was the rule yesterday. Few changes occurred, for the contestants are guarding their places with care. An echo of the Polytechnic High School yell was heard at headquarters, "Cheer up, Poly, keep on cheering," for Geraldine Fuller, the Poly girl, jumped a row and landed just three below the cash line. A few days ago this earnest worker was No. 24 and has made three steps up the line, now being No. 19.

Geraldine was helped by her pretty little sister yesterday. The bright little girl took a trip to Redondo and brought back a year's subscription in her pocket for her big sister. Mrs. Fuller, Geraldine's mother, has been eager to work for her daughter, but has been tied at home by many duties. She was able to gather together 1000 points yesterday by simply opening the mail, for many friends sent subscriptions and coupons to the house.

The Los Angeles High School girl, Fanny Wolff, hustled to some purpose for her promotion this morning. Her small sisters and brothers helped to push her up the line, and Fanny feels better about things.

BENCH AND BAR.

One of the spectacular features of the contest has been the splendid work done for the orphan girl, Zeda Fish, by a former brilliant representative of the Los Angeles bench and bar. This venerable attorney has buttonholed the leading legal lights of the city and made them stand and deliver for the benefit of his candidate. His eloquence has been as fervid and his wit as trenchant in advocating the case of this worthy girl as it was in his palmy days when he compelled every juror to sit up and take notice.

Twenty-six annual subscriptions from this one helper, and four half-years, go to the credit of Zeda Fish, making twenty-eight full years' subscriptions from one source. Yesterday the aged gentleman had his pockets full of new slips, but he is waiting to turn them in together to make a bigger showing. Many of Zeda's friends are "whooping" things up for her while she is unable to work for herself.

A SICK MAN SUBSCRIBES.

The interest of the contest has penetrated to many sickrooms in Los Angeles, and those who are shut away from the busy walks of life have found great pleasure in following the fortunes of their favorites. Yesterday popular Edna Wagner received a message from the Orena Hotel. She went out to see what was coming her way,

The Masons have presented a solid front in supporting Edna Wagner. Mrs. Nettie J. Yaw sent in a package of coupons for her yesterday. She said, "I have not met her, but it is my duty to help her, as her father was a Mason, and I am the daughter of one. I have watched her score with great interest, and hope to see her lead them all in this great contest."

RANK AND FILE.

Maj. Walker, a stanch supporter of Wallie Swain's, sends another cordial indorsement for him. He writes: "I am today sending another coupon testimonial to be placed to the credit of Wallie Swain, from the rank and file of the Grand Army of the Republic and its auxiliaries, the Woman's Relief Corps and Sons of Veterans. While his admirers cannot hope to place his name at the top, they have endeavored to gain for him the military scholarship at the California Military Academy, thus leaving the Revolutionary chain unbroken from great-grandfather down, and I would earnestly request every follower of 'Old Glory to continue his efforts to the end of the battle in th einterest of this, our young standard bearer, sending their votes in direct to The Times office.

"The campaign now drawing to a close has been creditable to the Times management, and while the majority of the veterans of the Civil War are old and constant subscribers to the representative Republican journal, their earnest support has been shown by the large volume of coupons sent in.

"Thanking you, in behalf of the G. A.R., Woman's Relief Corps and the Sons of Veterans, I remain, ever loyal, John Q. A. Walker."

HELP FOR RALPH.

There is a great warm heart throbbing under the jacket of the average citizen, and it always responds to the story of a boy or girl who is making a courageous fight against difficulties. Ralph McNitt, whose picture appeared in The Times yesterday, has received help from a number of unknown friends who read about him and wish to assist him to his art scholarship.

Mrs. Fred Studer, whose husband is electrical engineer at Mt. Lowe, came in yesterday and handed in a four months' subscription for his benefit. Mrs. J. Frankenfield of No. 1007 South Hill street, in this city, assisted Ralph in a very delightful way. She subscribed for The Sunday Times for one year, to be sent to her son, who is in business in Cincinnati. A substantial number of coupons accompanied the subscription, and they will help Ralph's score considerably.

ENOUGH FOR ALL.

Good fortune fell impartially yesterday. The mail-bag harvest reminded one of a Christmas tree with presents enough to go round. Margaret Chung was a favorite with Uncle Sam, and the good wishes accompanying her coupon packages were cordially expressed. "I do hope Margaret will get a scholarship," wrote a lady from Anaheim. "I have known her for eight years and she is certainly a very deserving girl." A lady from Pasadena said: "I am very anxious to see where your ambitions desire to place you. I shall try to keep in touch with you during the coming year."

So many have been interested in the Chinese girl, but not thought so much about Mar Moon Gong, a few steps below her in the contest. Mar Moon has been a little discouraged but is just as regular as clockwork in his calls and his efforts to secure the scholarship he desires.

A prominent real estate firm sent in 100 points yesterday for Ellen Robinson, who has been No. 12 for some time, working hard to keep her good place. Chonita Palomares is always a fortunate girl. Yesterday a year's subscription was forwarded to her by George R. Juarez, from Zoerobabi, Sonora, Mex. Cecil Green received 200 coupons with the compliments of friends at Coronado and a San Jacinto friend brought in a subscription to help up her count. Ben Hitchcock received a number of coupons from a girl who expressed the hope that he might win the piano. A friend from Whittier says: "I have never seen the boy but I've hoped all along that he would come out on top."

Redlands sent in help for Rosine Le Hardy. The sender wrote: "I trust Rosine may win a good scholarship. I admire her pluck, and it is a good omen for her future success."

"These coupons for Laura Easton," wrote another, "with earnest wishes for her success from an Ontario friend. A renewal subscription will also be sent in. I hope this will not be the last year of the contests, so that those who fail this year may try again."

Irene Wadey has been backed by the Long Beach people as her sweet voice cast a spell over those who heard her. One package for her yesterday was witness to the impression she made for the accompanying note said: "With best wishes to the sweet singer, Irene Wadey, from one who heard her sing at Long Beach."

HINDOO STUDENTS HERE.

Two Representatives of Government of India Inspecting the Citrus Fruit Industry.

Two representatives of the Department of Agriculture, Bengal, India, spent yesterday in this city, while on their tour of inspection of the agricultural and fruit industries of Southern California.

The visitors are Surendre Nath Sit and H. L. Dutt, who after six years spent in the educational institutions of Calcutta, where they received their bachelor degrees, were sent to this country by the India government, and have just come out of Cornell University, after two years' study, with the degree of M.S.A. They are bright, intelligent young fellows, and are being chaperoned through the industries hereabouts by Ernest Braunton.

During the past two months they have visited the leading center between the two oceans, and have inspected the raisin, sugar and agricultural interests of California. They are now engaged in taking in the citrus fruit industries. The great Lelingwell 800-acre lemon ranch, near Whittier, was gone over yesterday, every detail being carefully explained to them, and today they will visit the orange groves at Riverside.

Nothing of a superficial nature "goes" with the visitors, but growing, gathering, curing, packing, in every detail, are minutely entered into, and will be carried home and explained to the horticulturalists of India, where they say the most practical suggestions will be promptly adopted. They will start east in a few days, and will sail from New York October 1, going by way of England, France and Germany, reaching India by the end of the year.

In the manufacture of tinfoil a pipe is made of pure tin and this is filled with lead. The whole is then beaten out in the same manner as gold leaf is beaten, the tin coating spreading with the lead core. The three sheets are sometimes reduced to a thickness of .0001 of an inch.

NO FORTS YET.

GUNLESS WILL SAN PEDRO BE.

Not in List of Harbors to Be Fortified.

Appeal to Congress Is Army Man's Suggestion.

The Tour Is Not Inspired by Fear of War.

San Pedro is not to be fortified at this time, simply because the Naval Board did not include it in the list of fortified harbors. As it grows in commercial importance, it may later be deemed advisable to give it a full system of defense. A special appropriation might be made for the purpose upon proper presentation through the Congressman of the district.

The work in which I have been engaged began in January, 1906. It therefore was not in contemplation of any immediate war. The Pacific Coast is receiving attention at this time, because our work on the Atlantic Coast has been completed. There is absolutely no significance in our presence at this time, beyond the fact we are completing the tour of inspection mapped out nearly two years ago.

BRIG.-GEN. ARTHUR MURRAY.

That outline of the work of making for the fortification of the coast of both coasts was given by Brig. Gen. Arthur Murray, Chief of Engineers, U.S.A., last night. For the time since his arrival on the Pacific Coast has the leading authority been in this country deemed it advisable to give in detail just what was signified and what the army engineers had in contemplation when they issued instructions leading to complete line of harbor defenses. Gen. Murray at Portland, Me., and sweeping from this Coast to the northerly limit of Puget Sound.

"Others may be fortified later. Gen. Murray has now completed the work assigned to him, and his reports are now in the hands of the authorities at Washington.

"While the government is merely following out the old adage, "In time of peace prepare for war," and is not actually completing coast fortifications in fear of invasion, was emphatically declared Brig.-Gen. Murray. The general was the guest of Lieut.-Gen. Adna Chaffee at the latter's home at Orange and Magnolia avenue.

"Some two years ago," stated Gen. Murray, "the joint army and navy boards on formulating new regulations governing defensive sea areas. As army officer was appointed by the War Department and a similar one by the Navy Department. We were instructed to determine the location are of each fortified harbor and to mark out the course of the channel into each harbor. I was selected by the War Department and at the same time a lighthouse inspector of each district represented the Navy Department for that district. Work began at the port of Mexico. After the inspection and their reports it was seen that we lacked uniformity.

"We therefore thought advisable to ask a special naval officer along with us to insure uniformity of the work. This led to the appointment of Commander Spencer Wood, who has been with me on my tour. In this work, which includes the coast from Monterey to San Diego, the naval officer inspector is Commander R. Wood.

"Now you wonder what is meant by 'defensive sea area.' It is the area specified by the army and navy boards. Our work is to lay out and mark the outer limits of the areas. We determine the course that shall be taken in passing through the areas of the mine field. It is obligatory that all vessels which pass through this mine field shall be under the pilot in naval employment. When the work was completed on the Atlantic coast from Galveston to Portland, Me., we came to the Pacific coast. We have been over the ground of the harbors of the West—Puget Sound, Columbia River, San Francisco and San Diego. Our work is finished. You can see that there is no thought of war with Japan in our work began, in January, 1906. The reason why San Pedro was not included in the answer is very simple. The Endicott board was appointed to decide on a system of coast defense and to select the harbors to be fortified. In 1905 the Taft board was appointed to revise the proceedings of the former board. It had the power to add harbors to the list of those to be fortified and to decide if any should be dropped from the list. I recall two harbors that were dropped. Seven new harbors were added to the list of fortified ones. San Pedro was not considered of sufficient importance at that time to be fortified. If it continues to grow, and the interests demand fortification it may be added to the list of fortified harbors. Or the people of San Pedro, through their Congressman, might make an effective appeal to the War Department and possibly secure a special appropriation for the purpose of erecting the fortifications.

"The army does not belive in any immediate prospect of war with any power. He does believe, however, in strongly preparing the country against any possible invasion.

"There is every fear, dependence must be placed in the mines. These are the big guns and the part they play in keeping the hostile ships at bay. I stated the Chief of Artillery that the big guns are for the protection of the mines. In case small guns are required for the purpose of repelling boats, they can be subjected to a fire from the shore batteries. The searchlights play an important part in locating the position of the enemy."

Gen. Murray is very sanguine over the success of the members of the coast artillery in manning the batteries. The regular troops would only have to supply the needed officers.

The army has secured an appropriation for a boat for laying mines on the coast, and expects to have one later on.

Should the United States is ever involved in war, prepared each year for it, and that any foe would find the undertaking on its hands to be a serious one on either coast.

NIPPONESE UNDESIRABLE.

MEXICO WANTS NO MORE JAPS.

Chihuahua Full of the Worthless Fellows.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CHIHUAHUA, Aug. 25.—The much-vaunted Jap is a decidedly unpopular personage in this region. As a laborer he is not a success. Generally he is a flat failure. His unpopularity is largely with the employers, and as for the native laborers there is little reason for them to consider him at all as he is not enough factor in competition. Several fights between Mexican peons and Japs employed as section men in California, it will be remembered, have caused the Japs to go down several pegs in public estimation as fighters. It is reported to have been the same thing in Sinaloa, where both are working on the extension of the Harriman coast line.

It is plain either that the Jap is worthless at heavy manual labor, or the poorest specimens of the race have come to Mexico. There is no demand for male chambermaids from the Mikado's domain here, and hence they must toil with pick and shovel, and this they simply won't do. Chihuahua is full of them, stout, husky chaps, who are actually begging for food. This, too, at a time when labor agents are scouring the country for men at good wages to build railroads, and even sending agents to other continents for help. Every able-bodied Jap here could get employment on the Stilwell Railroad west and east of Chihuahua, offers are open all the time, but they simply won't work, that is, unless they can find soft berths in housework. Every mine in Mexico is probably short-handed, but Jap labor is often found as bad as none, never equal to the sometimes-ridiculed peon.

Look where you will, and you find it hard indeed to find an able-bodied Mexican out of work. There are no beggars except the sick, aged, and injured, to speak of. There are no idle Chinese to be found. Who ever saw a Chinaman beg anywhere? But the Jap has no pride in Mexico to keep him from asking charity.

THEIR UNHYGIENIC LIVES.

The Jap is supposed by some to be a very cleanly individual. Perhaps he is sometimes, but the experience in Mexico does not bear this out. Only two weeks ago the Mexican sanitary authorities discovered a colony of these subjects of the Mikado living in a dilapidated building in the poorest part of the city, under such shocking conditions of filth that they were hastily moved and the building cleaned up to prevent an outbreak of disease.

On the Harriman coast line 5000 men are now employed, of which there are 900 Chinamen, 200 Russians, 400 Japanese and the balance natives. The Japs are pronounced the poorest workers of all. The Chinese are better, but they are of an inferior class to those who built the Central and Southern Pacific. The Russians are better than either. They are willing, intelligent workers, but are handicaped by the unaccustomed climate, so different from their own, and linguistic troubles, but none of them have turned beggars. The natives are pronounced by far the best for all-around efficiency.

Japs who came over to work on the railroad construction in different parts, and in the mines, come in Chihuahua from all directions. They tramp over the mountains and congregate here. Some tramp on to Juarez, with the intention of smuggling across the line in search of soft jobs.

In Juarez there has been the same complaint of them. They have been begging continually, until the authorities have been appealed to to put restraints on them. Another complaint against them in Juarez is their unwillingness to respect the requirements of common decency in the matter of dress. In Japan it is well known that men and women frequently take a bath in the front yard in a state of nature, regardless of who may be present, and also sun themselves in the same condition. Evidently some of these fellows and their women in Juarez think they are still in Japan, and, as a result, two of them were locked up last week. Chief of Police Ponce has issued orders to all his patrolmen to arrest every Jap who appeared on the streets clothed in costume other than that permitted by conventional society.

GOOD FAULT FINDERS.

Some of the Japs who were brought here under contract have complained that they were not properly treated or paid and fed, according to agreement. The secretary of the Japanese Legation at Mexico City has just returned from a trip to the various parts where they have been employed, and upon his report to Tokio will depend the action of the government in regard to allowing immigration to Mexico. It is said that it may be prohibited. It is quite certain that neither Mexico, its people, nor the foreign employers here, will raise any objection if it is.

The Chinese are also fairly numerous, but never has one been known to beg. In Sonora, the number is quite large, and there is undeniably some feeling against them, but with the demand for labor everywhere in Mexico, it is certain that they will not be excluded, nor will that question ever become a live issue here. On the other hand, there is a demand for the enactment of laws to cover problems created by them, notably the opium problem. Today there is absolutely no law in Mexico governing or controlling in any way the use or sale of this drug. At Cananea opium dens are reported to be running publicly, and a few Mexicans and Americans are victims of the vice. This is chiefly among women of the half-world of both races. El Tiempo, a Spanish paper of Cananea, is out with an editorial strongly denouncing the conditions in scathing terms, and demanding that the authorities take immediate action to segregate the Chinese colony, clean up their quarters, put a stop to the opium traffic, and rescue the unfortunate white women who have fallen into their clutches.

HE PAID THE PRICE.

Harness Makers Proved to a Rancher That His Prices Had Actually Lowered.

The other day a rancher went into a local harness dealer's shop and inquired the price of a certain set of harness, says the Arizona Republican. The dealer told him he could have it for $65 cash. The rancher immediately began to protest at the price and complained how high everything was getting. A man had no chance to make a dollar nowadays, for the merchants got it all.

"Why," says he, "I bought that same identical kind of harness eight or ten years ago for $55."

The dealer went back to his old books and pulling down his specs from his perspiring brow, ran over the figures to see if he had been paid for the last set.

"Yes," said the dealer, "you did buy that kind of a set for $55, but you did not have the money then and you traded me 140 sacks of barley for the harness."

The rancher said he believed he did remember something about that trade.

"Well," returned the harness dealer, "if you'll bring me that same amount of barley today, I'll give you that $65 set of harness, like you bought several years ago for $55, and on top of that I'll give you a $40 saddle, and then I'll throw in a $10 lap robe, a $2 whip, and a $5 saddle blanket, and for good measure, enough axle grease to take the squeak out of your wagon for the next two years."

The rancher stroked his whiskers a minute and pulled out the cash.

"I don't think I want all that stuff today," he said; and then he took his harness and went out, and was heard to complain no more about the increased cost of things.

CLIMBS UP.

HIS NEW PROOF OF PROSPERITY.

UPPER BERTHS HIS FATE UPON ALL HIS TRIPS.

Pasadena Hotel Man Is Optimistic in Spite of His Sad Experiences in Pullmans; Prophesies Brilliant Winter for Southern California—Dairy Crusade Brings Results.

PASADENA, Sept. 6.—"Tithough there are twenty-one limited trains to and from Los Angeles and the East now running, where two years ago there were only six, I have found difficulty on three occasions to get a lower berth," said D. M. Linnard last night upon his return to the Maryland from his third trip to New York this summer. "That Southern California is growing could not be better proved than by my own experience," he continued. "Two years ago the Santa Fé, Salt Lake and Southern Pacific were running bi-weekly limited trains to Los Angeles and return. Now they run a daily train. Three times this summer I have had to go to New York, and although I have made my reservation a day or so in advance, I have had to take an upper berth for part of the journey. It is worse coming back than going.

"What does it prove? Why, that the people of Southern California have made money during the past two years, and that they are traveling. It proves something else, also; that the people of the East are taking a vital interest in Southern California and are keeping in touch with its progress and life.

"I was astonished during my last trip to notice how deeply eastern people are discussing the programme for good roads in Southern California. I was constantly asked: 'When will you have them?' The traveling public know that we are striving to build good roads, and they are anxious to know when we will have them. They want to bring their autos out here and enjoy the unrivaled outdoor climate. Simply because of this good-roads campaign many are planning their trips to this locality, where otherwise they would have taken European tours. This is the age of the auto, and the people who visit Southern California own cars. The sooner we get the roads in shape the sooner we will get these visitors."

"In my opinion San Bernardino, Riverside, Los Angeles and San Diego counties should not neglect the beautiful foothills and the magnificent Sierras. Roads like those of Switzerland up the cañons would be the best advertisement this country could have as the climate of Southern California is as far superior to that of Switzerland, France or Italy as their roads are better now than ours. Let us make the roads fit the climate.

"Not only does the crowded conditions of the Pullman cars foreshadow a profitable and brilliant winter season, but my observations in the East gave me assurance that the dreaded panic was only a scare and not a reality. Scores of the business people I met are now buying for investment. They assured me that stocks and securities had got to bottom prices and that the trend was upward.

"The magnificent prosperity of the country, bounteous crops, continued activity of the great manufacturing industries, rich mineral output and the thousand and one things that have set the railroad traffic managers almost crazy to supply cars, have offset the doleful utterances of those who feared a check to business. The output has been great, the demand is in excess of the supply and the people have money to spend. This is the case all over the country, so why should there be a panic?"

DAIRIES CLEANED UP.

Owing to the activity of the health department several of the dairies recently refused licenzes have been restored to proper conditions. William Bartley, out near El Monte, has fenced in the stagnant water and his cows now have access to a pure running stream, and he has arranged to build a milk house entirely separate from his corrals. At the Fawcett place a milk house is to be erected. The owner has secured a lease for five years and proposes to put his ranch into the best sanitary condition. Rush, the foreman of the Baldwin ranch, fell under the ban of the inspectors because he was too busy to attend to his private affairs, but he is now complying with all the orders of the inspectors. At the Haddock and Steele places the same activity prevails, and when the improvements are made the licenses to sell dairy products will be granted.

So close is the watch kept upon these places that there is little chance for contamination. When the inspectors condemn a place the milk dealer is immediately notified, and the Los Angeles inspectors receive full particulars, so that a dairy once declared filthy cannot sell a pint of milk until it is cleaned up. Inspector Huddlestone says that the conditions are now almost ideal, and that the large dairies are almost entirely equipped with milking machines and are kept as clean as parlors and the steam sterilizers in use for the cans make contamination almost impossible.

That a generally healthy condition prevails is borne out by the reports of the Health Officer, Dr. Stanley P. Black. Last year the births in this city were 495 and the deaths 343. Of the deaths only thirty-eight were infants. Of these thirteen were stillborn and eleven not properly developed, leaving only fourteen infants who died from the numerous ailments of that period of life and but six of these died from stomach troubles, none of which were traceable to infection from bad milk. This is a wonderful record and justifies the sometimes drastic measures of the health department.

PASADENA NEWS NOTES.

Charges of starting forest fires have been preferred against C. Miles, D. G. Baker and J. D. Yokum by Forest Ranger J. G. Stanchfield, growing out of the fire at Linda Vista, which threatened to wipe that little town off the map. All three are accused of burning off stubble, contrary to regulations. SEEK TO SOLVE PROBLEM.

Santa Monica Committees and Engineers Study Sewer Possibilities. Special Election Possible.

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 5.—The site for the proposed municipal, commercial and pleasure wharf, at the foot of Colorado avenue, was inspected this morning by the Sewer Committee of the Council. Messrs. Morris, Miles and Armstrong. Accompanying them were Messrs. Roy Jones, J. J. Seymour and J. H. Clark, the Citizens' Committee; Capt. Amos A. Fries, of the United States Enginering Corps, H. W. Glidden and Frank H. Olmsted, civil engineers, of Los Angeles, and L. G. Osgood. The object was to determine the feasibility of constructing a wharf, which may be used to carry an outfall sewer pipe to a septic tank.

It is expected that the committees will make favorable report at the meeting on Saturday night, and thus enable the Councilmanic committee to submit a report on Monday night that will meet the approval of the citizens. A special election may be called to give the people an opportunity to vote on the proposition.

RAILWAY GRADE VS. FRIENDSHIP.

Strained Relations Over Minor Matters as Well as Lowering of Tracks to Street Level and Each Side Stands Pat — Restaurant-Keeper Will Fight Complaint.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 5.—Friendly relations between the Salt Lake and the city officials, dating from the amicable settlement of strikes and street matters at West Long Beach, are in danger of rupture. The Salt Lake wants to make some changes in the depot pavilion, which they built on public land and donated to the city in exchange for a twenty-year lease of office room.

The Trustees, however, say they will permit no changes until the railroad brings its tracks to grade along Ocean avenue and completes the paving. Although ordered to do this two months ago, the road shows no inclination to obey and at the Alamitos crossing the tracks and roadbed are a foot above the paved street, making a dangerous crossing.

The Trustees also think the depot pavilion should be left lighted at night. The settlement of the difficulty has been left with the Public Works Committee.

TECHNICAL LAW.

On July 5, A. Marengo, a French restaurant-keeper on the pier, was arrested for violation of the liquor ordinance. Despite pleas of his counsel, the case was arbitrarily set for trial September 10. Yesterday his attorney moved to dismiss on the ground that the Constitution provides that trials must be held within sixty days after complaint is filed.

In case his motion is overruled, habeas-corpus proceedings will be brought. City Attorney Skinner says the case is one of several for similar offenses, and every effort has been made to hasten trial.

LONG BEACH NOTES.

Bush and Harris, the two cripples who raised a disturbance on a Pacific Electric car Sunday night, whipped three trainmen and broke a window, have been sentenced. Harris, who broke the window, was given thirty days in jail, while Bush was fined $10.

Frank Wheeler, a former merchant of Long Beach, while roofing a porch at his house yesterday, fell, striking a pile of lumber, broke two ribs and was badly bruised about the head and face. Wheeler is about 60 years of age.

The City Trustees have purchased for the fire department two automobiles, equipped for fire fighting. The cost will be $6700. Each machine is equipped with a chemical tank and 500 feet of hose. They will be located in the northern and eastern part of the city.

The Recorder's court has proved a paying proposition. In sixteen months Recorder Hart has collected $4638 in fines. The expenses are only the fees paid the judge, the City Attorney, who acts as prosecutor, and the City Marshal, being regular salaried officials of the city.

Residents on Ocean avenue, between Golden and Alamitos, have filed a protest against the assessments for paving made by the street superintendent. They claim they are assessed for twenty-seven feet on the north side, while the south side is occupied by three car tracks, and only two narrow, five-foot strips have been assessed to the south-side owners.

Capt. Amos Fries has agreed to be present at a meeting of the Northwest Improvement Association next week, to advise as to the feasible plan of getting rid of the storm water in that section, which yearly overflows 3000 acres of land. A new plan under consideration provides for two channels, and it is thought that on this all the property owners will agree.

Dr. R. S. Oakford, City Trustee and president of the State Board of Pharmacy, recently operated on for appendicitis, has so far recovered that he was removed from the hospital to his home today.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 5.—Dr. W. Hanlman Jones has notified the school trustees that every pupil in the district must be vaccinated and Prof. Graham has issued an order that all pupils must take this precaution by October 1. Those who have been vaccinated or whose arms show well defined scars will be exempt.

Acting on the report of Dr. W. H. Jones and City Marshal Young, Recorder Hart today indefinitely postponed the case against Dr. W. H. Prittie, charged with violation of the liquor ordinance. Dr. Jones and Marshal Young made a trip to Arrowhead Springs yesterday and filed affidavits today that Dr. Prittie is in no mental or physical condition to stand trial. He is suffering from a stroke of paralysis and in bad shape.

Reports from Bernard Lustig, another druggist in the same trouble, are that his condition is also critical suffering with rheumatic affection of the mitral valve of the heart. Dr. Prittie, it is said, intends to plead guilty, pay his fine and that of his clerk, and retire from business in Long Beach, as soon as he is able to reach home.

STONE THROWER SENTENCED.

Young Man With Bad Record Punished for Smashing Windows of Pacific Electric Cars.

WATTS, Sept. 5.—Testimony offered by Henry Dasso of Los Angeles in defense of James Gray, while the latter was being tried here today on the charge of throwing stones through Pacific Electric car windows Sunday, showed that Dasso was also implicated in the affair. As he left the witness stand he was arrested on a misdemeanor charge.

Gray was sentenced to thirty-five days in the County Jail. Dasso was released on bail and will be tried in the Justice Court on September 17 at 10 o'clock. Others implicated in the affair will be arrested within the next few days, probably.

In company with a number of other young men, Gray, who lives at No. 556 Aliso street, Los Angeles, created consternation among passengers on several of the inbound cars Sunday night by hurling stones at the cars. Most of the stones struck the sides of the cars, but some shattered windows and several persons narrowly escaped injury.

A detective captured Gray and took him to Los Angeles. On the way to Central Police Station Gray escaped but was recaptured.

At the trial it was brought out that Gray had served a term in the Whittier Reform School, a term in the County Jail and a term in the Los Angeles City Jail.

MONROVIA.

MONROVIA, Sept. 5.—The private water supply of Monrovia and vicinity has been steadily increased during the past two years by the sinking of wells in the washes from the cañons and in the lands south of the city. This will be piped to a three-hundred acre tract of garden land owned by the estate. The second well, supplies twenty inches of water which will be used on a sub-division.

REPORT ON PROSPERITY.

Claremont Citrus Union Stockholders Attend Annual Meetings, Hear Address and Elect Directors.

CLAREMONT, Sept. 5.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Claremont Citrus Union was held yesterday, at which there was a large attendance of the orange growers of this district. The report of the manager, W. S. Palmer, showed that during the past season a total of 252 cars of oranges had been shipped, while over $200,000 has been distributed among the growers, the returns averaging $1.946 per 100 pounds on naval oranges, of which the shipments of the association largely consist.

The year just closed has been the most successful in the history of this exchange, and many compliments were paid the manager.

In the afternoon P. J. Dreher, general manager of the San Antonio Fruit Exchange, addressed the growers. These annual heart-to-heart talks between Mr. Dreher and the growers are looked forward to with much interest, and the discussion yesterday is sure to be of much benefit to the growers.

The following board of directors was elected for the ensuing year: L. N. Smith, A. W. Towne, J. J. Becker, Ira Scofield and V. V. LeRoy.

Civil War Veterans Disabled in Battle, Help Each Other—This Ordinance Prohibits.

SAWTELLE, Sept. 5.—This is a story of the friendship of two Civil War veterans. The acquaintance was formed in the hospital at the Soldiers' Home, and the years that have passed since have ripened that chance acquaintance into a friendship that will endure until six feet of earth severs the bond. Henry Gunderman, a veteran of Mulligan's Irish brigade, the Twenty-third Illinois, was the target for a ball fired before Richmond, and ever since that day Gunderman has been deprived of the free use of his limbs, spending his hours in a wheel chair and conducting a little soft drink establishment here.

The comrade of the crippled Gunderman is Fred Chandler, who has gone blind as the result of a bullet wound. Chandler is sure of foot and strong of arm. He furnishes the motive power for Gunderman's invalid chair. The infirm veteran is keen of sight, and having the use of his hands, operates the steering gear, while the fast friends perambulate the streets. Each without the other would be powerless, but together they make a full team.

CITY ON EXCURSION.

Citizens of Sawtelle are arranging to make Thursday, September 19, a general holiday. Every business house will be closed, and as many of the residents as care to take the trip will join in an excursion around the balloon route. Special cars will leave here over the Los Angeles-Pacific Electric line at 9:30 in the morning. The first stop will be made at Hollywood, and then in turn Los Angeles, Redondo, Playa del Rey, Venice, Ocean Park and Santa Monica will be visited. A stop will be made at Del Rey for dinner, and the excursionists plan to arrive home in time for the evening meal.

NOT A DROP.

Sawtelle will soon be operating under one of the most rigid prohibition ordinances in the State. The Santa Ana enactment was taken as a model, but the restrictions in the Sawtelle law are made even more rigid. The special aim is toward the blind pigs and the so-called social clubs. The new law makes it a misdemeanor for any person or club to maintain a place where intoxicating liquors are manufactured, sold, furnished, distributed or given away. The person who rents or leases property that is used for such purposes is amenable to a fine, and any person who receives or accepts liquor is liable to arrest for misdemeanor. The ordinance has been finally passed and will be in force within a few days.

BURBANK BREVITIES.

The funeral of Mrs. George Kahl was held here yesterday at the Methodist Church. The services were conducted by Rev. J. H. Avery. Mrs. Kahl was only sick a few hours. Late Sunday night she was taken with convulsions and died early Monday morning. She leaves a widower and four children. Interment was made at Grand View Cemetery.

J. C. Ostegard, who met with a serious accident at Los Angeles Monday, is not yet able to be removed to his home. He was driving down the North Broadway hill from Temple street with a broken brake and no breeching on his team. Unable to hold the load, the horses began to run, and when the wagon reached the bottom of the hill it struck the curb, throwing driver and melons into the street. Ostegard was taken to the Receiving Hospital. He sustained a broken nose and severe bruises.

The grammar school will open Monday morning. The building has been renovated and painted, and the grounds about the building have been extensively improved.

George Kahl recently sold his ten-acre ranch east of town to parties from Ohio, who will make Burbank their home.

BILL HELD UP.

Huntington Park Trustees Refuse to Pay Late City Engineer His Salary Demand.

HUNTINGTON PARK, Sept. 5.—The Board of Trustees last night held up the bill of H. A. Snavely, late City Engineer. Snavely resigned under fire a few weeks ago, and his claim for $49.25 salary has been held over from time to time. It is claimed there are errors in his work which are likely to prove costly to the city. K. von Ripper had, at the request of the Trustees, checked over two streets prepared by Snavely, and reported several inaccuracies. Everett Barber, another engineer, was appointed to continue the investigation. Last night he reported his findings as being more favorable to the late engineer.

In reply to Snavely's question why his claim was not allowed, Trustee Steele stated that the work had to be readvertised because of errors, and that this cost should be deducted. Trustee Jones thought that as the late engineer was not under bonds the bill should be paid, and marked up to "experience" account. Action was postponed.

FIRE BRIGADE.

A request was made from the Commercial Club for help in organizing a volunteer fire brigade, and W. Woods was appointed to inquire into cost of necessary apparatus and report.

Tallest Man in the World.

Henry C. Thurston of Mount Vernon, Tex., enjoys the distinction of being the tallest man in the world, and is justly entitled to the honor, for he stands 7 feet 7½ inches in his stockings.

He was born in South Carolina in 1830, and when 3 years old moved with his parents to Missouri, settling after a time in Morgan county. Here he grew to manhood and lived until the outbreak of the Civil War, when he enlisted in the Confederate service under Capt. George Butler of the Morgan County Rangers. He served throughout the war, and at the close rejoined his wife and settled in Texas, where, near Mount Vernon, he owns and operates three farms.—[Kansas City Journal.

FIRES BURN TOO.

HOYLAND INN PAVILION GOES SKYWARD IN SMOKE.

Early Morning Blaze in Mountain Resort Escapes Being Serious for Lack of Wind; Considerable Damage and no Insurance—Burglar Sentenced to Fifteen Years.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 5.—Fire of unknown origin at 2:30 o'clock this morning completely destroyed the dancing pavilion at Skyland Inn, causing a loss estimated at $2500. When discovered, almost the entire building was enveloped in flames.

Alarms were quickly given, calling out hundreds of campers, many women in the camp becoming greatly alarmed. No breeze, however, was blowing, so the danger of the flames spreading to the surrounding timber was reduced to a minimum, and only three of the big pines took fire.

There was no insurance on the building, which was owned by H. Clark of Redondo, and contained a large number of tables and chairs, considerable dance property, piano and camping equipment. The fire will in no way interfere with the camp.

GETS FIFTEEN YEARS.

Charles Blake, leader of the Blakeley-Jones burglars, was arraigned yesterday morning before Judge Oster, who entered a plea of guilty of burglary in the first degree, and, in spite of prior conviction on a felony charge at Philadelphia, was sentenced to fifteen years in San Quentin.

For several weeks Blake has been prepared to plead guilty, and take all responsibility for the series of robberies committed by his gang throughout Southern California, and on the urgent request of his attorney, W. B. Daley, the District Attorney yesterday took the case up with the Superior Court. The prisoner will be taken to San Quentin at once. Mrs. Blake, his first lieutenant, was also arraigned, entering a plea of not guilty, and her trial was set for January 7.

SHARE OF SHARES.

M. H. Driscoll has brought suit against Charles Reat, William and Charles Usrey, C. C. Bell, Thomas Crawford, and the Bell-Reat Gold Mining Company of Los Angeles to quiet his title to a one-third interest in the Alameda group of mines, in the Cuddy Lake mining district, which he claims the defendants conspired to defraud him of. Reat and Bell were partners of Driscoll in the claims. He gave them power of attorney to dispose of the group, and was informed that a sale had been made for $30,000, a part of this being $10,000.

Investigation developed that they had transferred the property to Usrey for 100,000 shares of mining stock in the Bell-Reat Gold Mining Company, formed for the purpose, that Usrey had conveyed the property to the company, and all the defendants had distributed the 2,000,000 shares among themselves, no money consideration having passed in the transaction. The stock is worth 35 cents a share, or $700,000.

F. L. Stowell has appealed to the Supreme Court from the decision of Judge Shaw in the two actions instituted by him against the Rialto Irrigation District, to recover over $40,000 in coupons on a part of a $500,000 bond issue made in 1890 under the Wright Act. The Superior Court gave judgment in both instances for the irrigation district, on the ground that the bonds had been disposed of for an inadequate consideration. The testimony showed that the district had given the bonds to the Semi-Tropic Land and Water Company as consideration for putting a water system in the Rialto district, and that the corporation had turned them on to Stowell for a like consideration.

SAN BERNARDINO BRIEFS.

Ed Worthley of Riverside, has secured a controlling interest in the Lytle Creek Power Company, of this city, having bought the entire holdings of Colonel John L. Campbell, for $7500. The company has had rough sailing ever since its inception on account of a lack of financial backing. Its first success came in securing the municipal lighting contract for this city, but lack of funds prevented the corporation securing private residence business. It is understood that Worthley will now go out and develop the local field.

County Recorder Frank Johnson, Jr., has been elected cashier of the Farmers' Exchange Bank, vice John Anderson, Jr. He will still continue to hold the county position, the work of which is being looked after by Chief Deputy Powell. Mr. Andreson resigns to look after large interests in the citrus industry, where he has secured a large acreage in orange lands.

The city tax rate for the fiscal year has been fixed at $2.29, of which $1.35 is levied by the charter, the balance being special taxation. This will include a levy to secure funds to pay off the old water bonds, which, having been unable to solve the perplexing problem which has confronted them by reason of having no assessment made by the County Assessor, as provided by the charter.

The Santa Ana River Development Company has bought of the Anaheim Water Company and the Santa Ana Irrigation Company all their rights in the Santa Ana River water for $150,000. It is understood that the deal is made as a preparation for injunction suit pending before the federal courts, by which the Santa Ana River Development Company will restrain Riverside interests from operating pumping plants along the upper part of the river.

KILLED BY TRAIN,

Boy Makes Gruesome Discovery—Suit Against Insurance Company. See Orange Groves.

RIVERSIDE, Sept. 5.—The mutilated body of Antonio Navarre was found at the side of the Southern Pacific track about 100 yards from the little station of El Casco yesterday. The gruesome discovery was made by a boy named Traves. The man's head had been split open and one arm was broken. His clothing was torn to shreds and scattered along the track for a distance of fifty yards.

Navarre is believed to have lost his hold while attempting to board the freight train, west bound, which passed through El Casco at midnight the previous night. He was identified by papers in his pocket. The inquest was held yesterday by Coroner Dickson and the body was taken to Beaumont for burial.

WIDOW BRINGS SUIT.

Because the Prudential Life Insurance Company has failed to pay two life insurance policies which were drawn up by the late William James Benjamin, a suit has been commenced in the Superior Court by his widow, Mrs. Ruby Benjamin, to enforce the payment alleged to be due. The amount of the policies is $10,000.

Mr. Benjamin took out the insurance with the company February 28, 1907, in Los Angeles. In less than three months his death occurred in that city. It is believed that the company will fight the suit on the ground that Mr. Benjamin's health was unsound at the time the policy was issued. However, the statement is made by Mrs. Benjamin's attorney, Lafayette Gill, that before the policy was given, Mr. Benjamin was examined by the company's regular examiner, a Los Angeles physician, and was recommended. In the complaint, it is alleged that at the time of his death all premiums due the company had been paid in full and the life insurance policy was in full force.

THROUGH ORANGE GROVES.

Riverside was visited today by the members of the Brooklyn Civic League, who are touring Southern California. In addition to seeing the city, they were taken by automobile and trolley through solid miles of orange orchards and their enthusiasm was unbounded. Not only did they see the groves at close range but they were also taken up the Huntington Park drive to the top of Mount Rubidoux, where they obtained a sweeping view of the entire orange valley, spread out like a map below them, giving them a comprehensive idea of the extent of Riverside's citrus industry. The Chamber of Commerce assisted in the entertainment of the visitors. After luncheon at the Glenwood the party left for Redlands.

RIVERSIDE NOTES.

Earl Blodgett, an incorrigible San Jacinto Boy, 17 years of age, was committed to the reform school at Whittier yesterday by Judge Densmore. Young Blodgett was arraigned in the Superior Court on the charge of burglary, having attempted to rob the home of Charles N. Long in San Jacinto, two weeks ago. He pleaded guilty and was sent to the reform school during his minority.

SAN DIEGO DOTS.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—The prospective squabble over the property of Viola Brackett, the so-called "Queen of Chinatown," may not materialize if the reported finding of a will by her parents should prove true. The father of the dead woman says that he has the will and that he desires the public administrator to hold the property until he can reach this city to file his claim.

SANTA ANA.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 5.—At a meeting of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association last night a committee consisting of John Cariyle, C. P. Kryhl and E. B. Trago, was appointed to sell bonds of the Merchants' Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Southern California, the company formed by the different merchants' associations of the State. These bonds will raise money to make the necessary $50,000 deposit with the State Insurance Commissioner. Several merchants have signed an agreement to take policies in the company.

A 150-foot bridge will be built across the San Juan Creek on El Camino Real, a short distance below San Juan Capistrano. The creek has been a source of annoyance to automobilists, and during the winter it was often impassable. The plans for the bridge are now in the hands of County Surveyor Schenck.

B. B. Wilcox, State secretary, and Harry Henderson, student secretary, of the Y.M.C.A., were in Santa Ana today for the purpose of securing a permanent camping ground for the Orange county Y.M.C.A. Grounds will be secured at one of the beach resorts.

HIGHWAYMEN BUSY.

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 5.—Ed Arballo, a young man of Long Beach, was held up at an early hour today by two highwaymen as he was riding his wheel. They stopped him at the point of a pistol, and one went through his clothes, taking $36 and a silver watch. Arballo can give only a meager description of the robbers.

ELSINORE.

ELSINORE, Sept. 5.—There has been a great increase in freight shipments during the past year, the exports including stone, honey, grain, clay, fertilizer, pipe, hay, dried fruits, almonds and olive oil.

Mrs. Edmund McCoy has returned from Coronado Tent City.

The Most Curious Bird.

Most curious of all living birds, in their way, are the "hoatzins" of South America, which, as nestlings, are more like quadrupeds than feathered creatures in their mode of getting about. They have handlike claws on their wings and climb about in the trees by the aid of these appendages and their strong little beaks.

Later in life the claws, remarkably enough, disappear, and the hoatzins become much like ordinary birds. But their development, to the eye of the naturalist, tells a most interesting story, showing as it does how the modern bird has been evolved. In the space of a few brief weeks it represents the passage of millions of years, for the adult hoatzin is in all respects an up-to-date fowl, whereas the nestling bears a close resemblance to the long extinct archaeopteryx—the most primitive and reptilian of known birds.

Everything for the Guests.

Many stories have been told of mean men, such as he who used a wart for a collar button and he whose birthday gift to his son consisted in washing the window so that the lad might watch the cars go by. This man, however, seems to have won the palm:

There was an extremely mean man in New Hampshire, who was the proprietor of a hotel. By his direction rules were posted in the hostelry forbidding almost every conceivable privilege to those not guests of th place. There was absolutely no chance for the casual loafer to get newspapers, pens, ink, stationery ,etc. There were not even free seats in the office.

One day he chanced to observe a chronic loafer gazing at the old clock that hung on the wall. The next day a sign was placed over the clock. It read: "This clock is for the use of the guests of the hotel only."—[Success Magazine.

An Iowa Woman Who Suffered for Six Years and Was Cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Every woman will recognize the symptoms described by Mrs. Stella Livermore of Anthon, Iowa, who says:

"I was sick for six years and often had dizzy spells, when a blur would come over my eyes and it seemed as though I was looking through a smoked glass. My limbs were swollen and ached, and often there would be such sharp, shooting pains through them, that I would have to cry out. I also had a great deal of pain back of my eyes, through the top of my head and the back of my neck. When resting on the pillow, my head felt as though it was lying on rocks. Every once in a while my face would flush up and get as hot as a coal. My stomach distressed me by a dull, burning sensation, and anything with acid would generally disagree with me. I was so weak in my back that I could hardly turn over in bed or raise up when I stooped over. I was also troubled a great deal from rheumatism in my right arm and shoulder, and for three years couldn't do my ironing or housework with that arm. My condition nearly brought on nervous prostration.

"I tried to keep up and do what work I could, but there would be a week at a time when I would have to lie in bed. I became completely run down and weighed only a little over 100 pounds. I used the doctor's medicine for some time, but without it helping me. I gave that up and tried several remedies with no better results. The druggist then urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. After a while I felt much better and took the pills for several months. I soon began to get my strength back and my nervousness left me. I regained the use of my right arm and gained in weight until I now weigh over 165 pounds. I can do all of my work and am perfectly well. No one can be more thankful than I for what the pills have done for me."

These pills are peculiarly adapted for diseases due to impure blood and shattered nerves. They are invaluable in anaemia, rheumatism, after-effects of the grip and fevers and in sick headaches, dizziness, nervousness and neuralgia. A valuable booklet entitled "Plain Talks to Women," will be sent free, in a sealed envelope, upon request, to any woman interested.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, 50c per box, six boxes for $2.50, by the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schnectady, N. Y.

Animals Seek Their Own Graveyard.

It seems, from the accounts given by Darwin and by W. H. Hudson that all the guanacos of the southern part of Patagonia must resort, when the hour of death approaches, to a certain spot in a certain river bed, which has become a perfect mausoleum of their bones.

Mr. Hudson notes that it is only the guanaco of the southern extremity of the South American continent that has this habit, a habit restricted to descendants of forefathers who lived in an extremely rigorous climate. Mr. Hudson conjectures that among these forefathers the instinct grew up, when the stress of hunger and cold was very dire, of resorting to this sheltered place in the river bed, where they might find warmth in their own closely collected numbers, and possibly food. By a continual survival of those which betook themselves to this place of refuge the race instinct will be formed or resorting thither when they feel the tides of life running low. This feeling, Mr. Hudson argues, their descendants are likely to experience now at the approach of the hour of death.

But now it is no longer just a passing spell of extreme cold that leads them thither. The death call has come and they must lay their bones in the common mortuary. It is not "in order to die" that the guanaco seeks this place; it would be nearer to the truth if we were to say it was "in order to live."

But the most true account of all is that it is in mere obedience to the inherited instinct that the guanaco resorts to this refuge.

Yet another instance of this mysterious guidance is afforded by the habit of the rattlesnakes in the colder countries to assemble together for hibernation in caves. These snakes, on emerging from the caves, cover long distances in their wanderings. Their young are generally born far away, and yet these young succeed in finding their way to the caves with the greatest certainty.—[London Spectator.

FRENCH HOUSEHOLD BEAUTY DOCTOR

A Simple Mixture Said to Work Wonders on the Complexion. Prepared at Home.

Some women are very vain and others have little vanity, but all without exception are desirous of possessing a good complexion.

Many women succeed admirably with artificial beautifiers, such as rouge and powders, for the evening toilet, but this imitation beauty will not stand the glare of broad daylight and when used in the daytime produces a ludicrous smeary appearance.

A prominent society lady, who has just returned from a long sojourn in Europe, brings back with her the recipe which she claims is the secret of the French women's beauty, notorious throughout the world, but mainly consists of an exquisite complexion.

The recipe is as follows: Two ounces of rose water, one ounce spirits of cologne, four ounces of sartolin (crystallized.)

Put the sartoin into a pint of hot water, soft water preferred, and after it is dissolved and cooled strain it through a fine cloth and add the rose water and spirits of cologne. This is to be used daily and thoroughly massaged into the skin. This treatment, if persisted in, is said to work wonders on even the worst complexions. The ingredients can be gotten at any drug store. The above formula will make sufficient for a thorough test.

MEN ONLY

I Cure the Cases That Others Cannot Cure

A bold statement but just as true as it is bold. Not all cases that others fail to cure are curable by my methods, but fully ninety per cent. of them are. The way to learn whether your case is curable is to consult me. I know exactly what can be done in every instance. I ought to know this, for I have done nothing else other than treat men's diseases for twenty-five years. If your case is curable I will treat you. If it isn't I will not. If I treat you, and if you so desire,

I Will Wait for My Fee Until You Are Well.

DR. TAYLOR
The Leading Specialist

I ALSO CURE ALL SPECIAL DISEASES OF MEN SUCH AS HYDROCELE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, BLOOD DISEASES, etc.

WEAKNESS

Weakness in men is comparatively a simple ailment and is but a symptom of local disorder, a congestion of an important nerve center. No stimulating treatment, whether internal or locally applied, can do more than excite temporary activity. By my system of local treatment I restore absolutely normal conditions throughout the organs involved, which promptly results in complete and permanent restoration of strength and vigor. This treatment is original with me, and it is the only radical and certain cure yet devised.

VARICOCELE

Varicocele is a relaxation, knotting and twisting of the most vital blood vessels of the organic system. It stagnates the local circulation and interferes with the processes of waste and repair. Neglect brings derangement of functions and injury to the general health. Most physicians resort to surgical operations and hospital treatment. I cure Varicocele in one week without operation, pain or detention from business. My cures are absolutely permanent and no ill effects whatever can follow my treatment.

EXAMINATION FREE

I offer not only free consultation and advice, but to every case that comes to me I will make a careful examination and diagnosis without charge. No ailing man should neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about this trouble. If you cannot call, write for diagnosis chart. My offices are open all day from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Sundays from 10 to 1.

Men Who Are Sick and Discouraged

You're sick and want to get well. You've tried to cure yourself and failed. Then you consulted a specialist and he failed. You're discouraged and ready to give up the fight, thinking there is no help for you, and all the while you are doing this your trouble is growing worse.

Now don't you think it time for you to wake up and do something? Sitting down and brooding over these failures isn't going to help matters any, and you know it.

I'LL TELL YOU WHY

The reason you have not got well is that you have never understood just what your trouble was, and neither did the other fellow that was treating you. How could you get well under such circumstances?

Every day I have men come to me in the same condition as you—all in—ready to quit. I show them why they failed and how they can be cured. My definition of their trouble and my system of treatment appeal to them—it is so simple and full of common sense.

They place their case in my hands and improvement takes place from the very start. In a few weeks they are as well as they ever were in their life, and what they thought was an incurable case turns out to be only an ordinary affair.

THE WAY I DO IT

How do I do this? By my knowledge and experience in treating men's diseases. I have observed and treated them under all conditions, and there is no part of them but what I am familiar with. If you have any disorder, such as VARICOCELE, NERVOUS DEBILITY, SKIN TROUBLE, or any KIDNEY, LIVER or BLADDER COMPLAINT, come to me and let me show you how I cure them in a quicker manner than any other specialist in men's diseases, and the cure is permanent and lasting.

FREE ADVICE AND EXAMINATION

I don't charge you for advice or examination. I honestly believe that every man is entitled to know the extent of his trouble and what can be done for him without having to pay for it.

MONEY IN CANS.

PACKERS SELL OUTPUT AHEAD.

PROFITABLE SEASON FOR THE CANNERS AND GROWERS.

Fruits and Vegetables All Sold in Advance and at Higher Figures, While Fancy Offers Come from All Over Country—Large Tonnage, Fine Quality.

This season is an extraordinary one for the local canning industry. All fruits and vegetables were sold before packed at advanced figures. All told, while in some instances the pack will be larger than last year, it will average normal, with the goods of much finer quality.

Upward of forty tons of plums have been packed and shipped by one local cannery, at stiffer prices than last season. The same plant turned out 6000 cases of apricots against half as many the previous season. The demand was urgent and the entire output contracted for at advanced figures before canned.

Three hundred hands are now busy day and night packing peaches. There will be a fair output of all grades with quality superior to that of last year. The pack will include extras, extra standard, standard, seconds, pie and water, and will have been completed within ten days. The total output was sold two months ago at handsome profits. The cannery cited is about finishing the remains of 1200 tons of raw material.

Prices opened $1 a dozen in advance of last year. No. 8, or gallon stock, brought more than ever before owing to the almost entire failure of the State orchards. Last season they went begging at $2 and $3 a dozen, while this year they were snapped up at $5.

Every large city in the country will share in the local canned peach output, forty carloads having already been shipped, with 100 more in waiting. Letters are daily received from all parts of the country offering fancy figures for any kind of the fruit, but with none to deliver.

Tomato packing will be begun when the peach pack has been finished. There is a large supply of fancy stock, and the same cannery will put up from 25,000 to 30,000 cases, against 20,000 last season. The entire stock has already been contracted for at an advance of 10 cents a dozen over the previous season.

Growers received better prices for their fruit than ever before, $35 a ton having been paid for free-stone peaches, and from $50 to $60 for clings. These high figures are considered promising by canners, as they will encourage growers to do additional planting and cultivating.

LETTERS TO THE TIMES.

[The Times freely publishes the views of correspondents without holding itself responsible for writers' opinions. Be brief, write plainly, state clearly. The space of 250 words, on the average, is sufficient for the point. Well-written letters are liable to be declined merely on account of their length.]

County Division.

The Times is in receipt of a communication from C. H. Converse, residing at Glendora, urging county division. The length of Mr. Converse's paper makes it impossible to publish it in its entirety. The Times has therefore taken the liberty of presenting the arguments used by Mr. Converse in a condensed form.

The points made are these: The cost of three county governments may not necessarily be greater than the cost of two. The taxpayers of the new county would be justified in disregarding the argument of cost except as it relates to their own proposed new county. The government of such a county, because of its compactness, unity of interests, population and wealth, with the absence of large cities with heterogeneous population, if properly managed, would be less than as portions of the counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino.

The portions of Los Angeles county and of San Bernardino to be embraced in the new county are now almost entirely without representation in the present county governments of these two counties. As to the argument that the old counties are well equipped for self-government, the contention is raised that they are by no means adequately equipped for such purpose. The new county, with a moderate equipment, quite adequate to its needs, would be less expensive to the taxpayers than, to contribute their share to the completion of the equipment needed by such counties of enormous extent and large population as Los Angeles and San Bernardino.

Sooner or later a division of this territory must come to pass, breaking it up into perhaps several different counties. Los Angeles is likely to organize a city and county government at no distant day, in which event the eastern part of the county would be released from connection with the county as it is now. It would be better for the residents of this portion of Los Angeles county to take time by the forelock and organize their new county along lines selected by themselves.

If a division is not made now, and the taxpayers of the eastern portion of Los Angeles county contribute to the completing of the equipment of the present county, that would be lost to these taxpayers when the time for separation comes.

A home government by the home people is what the residents of that district desire, and that is a principle which lies at the very basis of all American government.

Moreover, conceding that it would cost more to provide for the government of the new county than the share now paid for maintaining the county government of the old counties, an argument used by the opponents of division, is really not a good argument at all. The contention must rest upon another basis than that of its cost.

In the enormously large counties existing at present the different county offices must be administered by the appointment of many deputies under the head of the office. In a smaller county, the chief, with perhaps occasionally one deputy, would be able to do all the work. The county seat would be nearer to the people living in the territory of the proposed new county, and that would be a great convenience, saving of travel, hotel bills and time.

That Pomona "is after the seat of government" is natural. Pomona is the logical place for the county seat, and Pomona is the logical name for the new county. Pomona means the goddess of fruits, and that means something tangible. It is justified by real surroundings. The word is the most appropriate that could be devised or suggested. It is euphonious, adapted to the locality and conditions. Often the name of the seat of government and the name of the country are one and the same.

A county whose government would be in the hands of people closely identified with all its interests, especially where the citizens are of very high average in point of intelligence, of good citizenship, free from the overcrowded conditions of great cities, whose interests are more or less identical all through the county, being all producers of the necessaries of life, the citizens of such a county will be fellow-citizens in every sense of the word.

Any one would rather own land within five, ten or fifteen miles of a county seat than three times as far away. Pomona would be a county of farmers, by farmers and for farmers.

BUSINESS MAN INTERVIEWED.

A. T. Brant, representing The Times, recently interviewed F. E. Howe, president of the Manufacturers' National Bank, Troy, N. Y., as to business conditions. The Troy banker said:

Money is scarce and dear at the present and likely to get higher until October 15. After that we ought to have easy money for the rest of the year.

"Manufacturers can continue to pay high wages as long as the people are willing to pay high prices for manufactured articles. High wages must bring high prices for all products of labor.

"Freedom in the industries is absolutely vital to prosperity. I mean freedom for men to work as they see fit.

"The government's investigations have been brought about from a growing disregard by some of the corporations, and capitalists, as to the rights and interests of the public. The results of such investigation will be some suffering of the innocent, but great good in the end, provided such investigations are on reasonable lines, openly and without revenge.

"The greatest good to this country is gained through the greatest number of manufacturers and merchants. There is more to be gained by the public having many people engaged in business than to confine it to a few. Leave competition open to all, and then the government will have no need to interfere with business.

PUT ON BRAKES, SAYS UNCLE JOE.

[Washington letter to Chicago Record-Herald.]

"Uncle Joe" Cannon having given an interview for publication in which he indicated in a general way his ideas regarding the work of Congress at its next session, there is no impropriety in setting forth a little more in detail some facts concerning legislative politics which persons close to the former Speaker and Speaker-to-be have long understood to be his. This understanding of the insiders is that Mr. Cannon believes the Republican party is pretty well able to rest on its laurels of achievement in the Fifty-ninth Congress, and that the first session of the Sixtieth Congress ought to go slow in the direction of attempted progressive legislation, as that term is accepted generally.

Will there be a clash between the executive head of the government which, under the present administration, has directed so markedly, if not dominated absolutely, legislation up to this time and the man who through the machinery of organization and rules of procedure is able to control the actual work of the popular branch of Congress? That is the question that has been raised by Mr. Cannon's interview, printed this morning.

In this interview the Speaker remarks in the course of a long dissertation on conditions existing in the industrial world that "it would be a crime if Congress should do anything at this time to upset business, and it might make mistakes in half a dozen ways." This observation—the abstract truth of which no element will be inclined to dispute—is given added significance by the paragraphs that follow it. Mr. Cannon emphasizes the point that the next session of Congress will be called upon to appropriate about one billion dollars, and states that the work of apportioning this money wisely will be in itself quite a task in statesmanship. The knowing ones infer that this means a declaration in favor of attending strictly to the necessary appropriation measures and not going in for what ultra-conservatives designate as "isms."

How would this programme, if carried out, affect the generally recognized plans of the administration? When President Roosevelt left Washington last June it was understood that he intended to use his influence to have the next session of Congress perfect much of the reform legislation already initiated and go some steps farther in the direction of putting more progressive legislation on the statute books. Every one intimately informed as to White House ambitions knows that it has been the aim of President Roosevelt to round out his administration by putting into practical effect those features of his general policy not already consummated. It has been the belief that the next executive message of Congress would outline these features in detail and that the power of the administration would be exerted to transform them into laws.

Such plans, however, do not seem to meet the present acquiescence of the inner circle in Congress that directs procedure. This inner circle is prone to extend the stand-pat idea that heretofore has had significance in connection with tariff matters only so as to make it embrace all general legislation. Speaker Cannon, talking privately to friends within the last few months, has expressed the opinion that the Republican party has made its record, and that it would be unwise to attempt any further radical legislation on the eve of a national campaign.

The same argument was advanced with respect to the second session of the Fifty-ninth Congress after the historic session that resulted in the rate law, the meat inspection and pure food laws and many other reform laws, any one of which would have stood as a monument to a single ordinary Congress. The argument prevailed to a large degree, and now there is seen an effort to make the same plea effective with respect to the next session, in interpreting Mr. Cannon's reflections on the "upsetting of business."

Nothing has been heard here indicating any change of purpose on President Roosevelt's part, and those who profess to understand his ideas best are inclined to think he will be opposed to Congressional inactivity, applying that term to the consideration of legislation and policies not outside of the routine of appropriations and the like.

The President has been anxious to have legislation looking to more thorough Federal control of corporations, and has desired the enactment of laws that will afford governmental supervision of the capitalization of railroads. His public speeches at Jamestown, Indianapolis and more recently at Provincetown have indicated many things for which remedial legislation was to be sought. Swollen fortunes, it has been believed, would demand consideration through executive recommendation, and there are many ends to legislation enacted within the last two years that are regarded as worthy of perfection.

Even more in his private talks than in his published interview, Mr. Cannon has referred enigmatically to what the President might recommend in his next message, and usually has coupled his remarks thereon with the suggestion that anyway Congress ought to rest content with what it has done, and tackle no new projects.

MINING STOCK THE FEATURE.

The mining call on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange was again the most interesting of the day.
